WARNING TRAVELERS

What would be the effect of warning by Congress to American citizens against travelling on belligerent merchantmen or liners carrying a gun for self protection? As to American travellers they know the conditions and dangers as well now as they would after warning and as a measure for their safety it would therefore amount to nothing and useless; but what would be the effect of Congressional warning otherwise?

In case an American was killed by a German sub. would not the warning be a defensive weapon in the hands of the slayers? Would they not say in response to a claim for redress to a claim ant that "your own government places you in the wrong by telling you to keep off and that you were acting against American governmental instructions in going aboard a vessel after the government had warned you to keep off. It would be interpreted as meaning that travellers were outside their rights and that they took their chances and were not expected to be on board such craft.

It seems clear that the effect of such warning would add to the difficulty of diplomatic adjustment of claims on our part and would be treated by the Germans as an acknowledgement by our government in their favor without congressional warning there would be no defense or excuse for killing our citizens by belligerents and why should we furnish one?

An American citizen may be unwise even foolhardy in taking passage, but he has the lawful right and that entitles him to protection in his rights, and why make them bidder to enforce?

An American may have the strongest reasons for going and should receive the treatment accorded him by international law.

PREPAREDNESS

The safest way to assure permanent peace for our country is to place our country in a position of ability to maintain ourselves against aggression.

Our country is immeasurably rich and would be an easy prey to nations who count their disciplined soldiers by millions and w cannot afford to adopt the Chinese way of arming our battalions with banners and bird cakes and then maintain their rights. The time for preparedness is now.

The fable says "a wild boar was sharpening his tusks when a fox came along."

"Why are you sharpening your tusks?" he asked. "There is neither hunter nor hounds in sight, nor is there any other danger that I can see." "True," answered the wild boar. "There is no danger just now. That is why I am busy. When danger does arise, I shall have no time to sharpen my weapons, I must be ready to use them."

Afternoon and evening meetings were held in Andover M. E. church Wednesday.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Hamilton B. Williams, Minister

Sunday Morning, March 12.

This is the golden hour of the week. A most beautiful spectacle it is to see people assembling in recognition of the privilege of worship.

Sunday Evening, 7:30.

Mr. Eggleston will preach one of his interesting and carefully constructed sermons to the people of the federation. Let the occasion find the people responsive to the opportunity.

The Boards of the Church.

Opportunity will be given next Sunday to contribute to our "Out-of-Town" interests. Plan for liberal offering.

The Other Meetings Yours.

The regular meetings of the church are for the spiritual upbuilding of the people. The Sunday School, Endeavor and Mid-Week Conference have benefits for all. Why not come?

Go-to-Church Sunday.

March 19th has been designated as a day for the people of the town to assemble in the various churches. On this occasion let every person plan to be present on a courtesy to the cause of religion. Without religion there would be no town.

The Mid-Week Services.

The March meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Baptist church will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 3 p. m., at the home of Mrs. T. J. Gilbert. This is the usual meeting for the election of officers, and any other business which may be brought up. Also the last meeting of the financial year and therefore all pledges and contributions should be paid in full. A 10-cent tea will be served by a committee of four, with Mrs. Gilbert as chairman. The program will be a "surprise" and well worth hearing. Let this be the largest meeting of the year.

The Mid-week Prayer Meeting will be held on Thursday evening, at 7:30.

Let all the members of the church remember that the monies for the Home and Foreign Missionary work of our denomination must be sent in by the 31st of this month. If any of you have not paid in your part for the carrying on of this work please see that it gets to Bro. Eggleston, Deacon Bundy or your pastor not later than the 26th of this month.

Your pastor wishes to thank the members of this church and the many friends for the large donation that you gave him last month. I also wish to thank the societies of our village, the pastors of my sister churches, and the many friends who have been so kind to me during my sickness.

CONCERNING SUFFRAGE

If Monico Lepez, Filipino war department messenger, can be and has been, admitted to full voting citizenship, why not any American woman who can pass the necessary quiz?

Five hundred women and five hundred and thirteen men voted at a recent bond election in Cherokee, Iowa. Yet next June when the vote comes off in that state on woman suffrage many a man will carefully explain that he voted "no" because the women did not want it.

In Topeka, Kansas, 7,350 women are registered as voters, 6,100 of them being home makers. Topeka has less than 45,000 population. Its normal vote, if it were a typical manhood suffrage eastern city, would be 9,000. Making every allowance for a margin between the voter registered and the vote cast, women in Topeka utilize their suffrage rights and is the most stable class of voters in that.

Because some women drivers of high power automobiles met with accidents, a bill was introduced into the Massachusetts Legislature to forbid women from driving such cars. The bill was finally withdrawn by its mover. The fact appeared during its discussion that women in that state took out over six per cent. of the licenses to run automobiles but met with less than two and a half per cent. of the accidents.

At Atlanta, Georgia, the city council has given the women to understand that, if they secure a petition signed by 5,000 women o that city, women will be given the right to vote at the city primaries. According to the report 2,000 names were secured the firs day.

The hospital ward and memorial tablet dedicated the middle of February at the New York Infirmary for Women and Children to the memory of one of its founders, Dr. Emily Blackwell, serve also to remind the public that the same struggle which women are forced to make to secure political rights had also to be made to secure educational rights and the right to enter the professions.

In 1849 Elizabeth Blackwell was the first women to graduate in medicine in this country. She was regarded as a freak and a joke, and it was as a joke that she secured admission to the Geneva Medical College. The New York Infirmary was founded in 1853 in a single room, because these pi r women physicians, Elizabeth and Emily Blackwell, were refused admission to the dispensaries of the city. The later addition of a woman's medical school brought from the public contempt and ridicule. Secretary Daniels hit the nail on the head the other day when he told a visiting delegation of suffragists: "Human rights are never handed on one on a platter."

Headache Will Not Work Right

Just when you are backed, the weather seems to keep your head from working best. This means your body gets out of kilter, too. Because the mechanism of the body gets its power and direction from your head. So when your head hurts, aches, throbs, or is hot and sore, you can't work right. Either your mind or your body, or both, are below normal.

Probably your headache is of a catarrhal cause. That's the worst kind of headache, because nothing makes the head feel so bad and miserable. Stop it quick and get yourself going right again. A speedy remedy for your headache is KONDON'S CATARRHAL JELLY.

You can get (free) a book about this—and some Kondon Catarrhal Jelly, if you write immediately to Kondon Mfg. Co., Minneapolis, O. go to your own drug store here in town. They may have some free samples left. If not, get a 25c. tube. This newspaper guarantees that you will get your money's worth, or your money back. But be sure its the genuine—proved by 26 years' use—in millions of cases. Insist on

OLDER BUT STRONGER

To be healthy at seventy, just as at forty, is sound advice, because it means strength of middle life not undermined by the neglected, costly development of slight aches and pains, which undermine strength and bring weakness for later years.

To be stronger when older, keep blood pure and rich and active with strength-building and blood-enriching properties of Scott's Emulsion which feed, a tonic and a medicine to keep blood rich, alleviate rheumatism and avoid colds. No alcohol in Scott's.
