OUR KEYNOTE: "In There is not a Way, Cut a Way."

Andover, N. Y., March 17, 1916

Entered as second-class mail matter under act of Congress, at the Post-office at Andover, N. Y.

Altogether! Hurrah for Andover!

• • •

Cheer up if you can; but perk up anyway.

• • •

Mrs. we love everybody our wife included.

• • •

Only a wise man ever admits that he is a fool.

• • •

Here's wasting a passing thought on poor old Mexico.

• • •

Gray hairs are honored by all young people except squirts.

• • •

Fact, brother, experience is a good teacher when it teaches.

• • •

Bas. ball and shaggy hair will be ambling along now most any day.

• • •

Great men are always great until they come down with a thud.

• • •

Hang on to the first wife, fellows. The next one might be worse.

• • •

Of course we will not carry out neutrality to the point of waving our great and glorious privilege of electing a president next November.

• • •

When you see a beautiful maiden sailing along the street with head in the air and seeing nothing and hearing nothing, it's a safe bet she is wondering what sort of a sensation she is creating

• • •

Baker is so slosely allied to pie that we hasten to announce our eminent satisfaction with the appointment of the new Secretary of war. Here's hoping he is not quartered and devoured in the scramble.

• • •

Lower the Stars and Stripes! Never! Hoist it another notch or two.

• • •

And yet another week of those golden dreams has passed into nothingness.

• • •

Yep! We are a confirmed advocate of preparedness for the sunday dinner.

• • •

About the only time we enjoy seeing a fellow cough is when he is owing us a bill.

• • •

If you would like to know your neighbor's true opinion of yourself, ask the kid.

• • •

The optimist breeds golden opportunities. The pessimist is the father of misery.

• • •

Some war, you bet. But the old world still shuffles along at its time honored jog.

• • •

Speaking of the short skirts—at then we are too busy looking to even think of speaking.

• • •

The wise man listens when the others talk, but the fool gabbles on whether they listen or not.

• • •

Those dinged submarines must be stirring up a hellofa commotion among the other monsrtes of the deep.

• • •

Of course, mother, you don't want your own dear boy to be a soldier. Send your neighbor's brat instead.

• • •

Ford's wonderful peace pilgrims appear to be gradually slipping back to our shores, in both peace and obscurity.

• • •

The presidential plumb is looking mighty big and juicy to the horde of hungry patriots squatting beneath the tree.

• • •

Patience, brother! If you ignore the rest of the kids you can hardly afford to feel peeved when your own ignores you.

DO IT. DON'T HESITATE

The reason why so many of us fail to achieve greatness and success in life is because we do not exert the necessary will power to accomplish more definite results.

Look over the people of this town. Study their habits, their speech and their accomplishments. You will find many of them who undoubtedly possess an enormous reserve of will power. Their every word and action indicates as much. But there is a perceptible disposition to hesitate, which prevents the bringing of that reserve force actively into play. The natural results is that they are only moderately successful when they should be rising to great heights.

In this our people are in no respect different from those of other places and other climes. It is a trait of human nature and will survive until the end of the human race.

Occasionally we read or hear of some great man who began life in an humble way. If you could look down deep into the soul of that man you would see that he is just a human being like the rest of us, with this exception. He has fought and conquered the retarded, hesitancy, and has brought into full action the will power that lies dormant in a majority of people. His normal mind perceives an opportunity and his will and determination force him to grasp it. The result is success. The world hears of him while the rest of us live and die in the peaceful obscurity of our own little circle.

There are those among us who have in them the making of men and women of national note, but hesitancy dogs their steps. Their acute minds see the opportunities ahead of them, but hesitancy whispers to them to wait and while they are waiting, opportunity marches on. It pauses for no man.

This town is overflowing with brains, but most of them are lying dormant, working only as necessity requires.

As a community we need an awakening. We need a revival of will power and determination. We need a big boot that will lift hesitancy and procrastination into eternal oblivion and forgetfulness. We need action.

LOYALTY WITHOUT WIND

True loyalty does not consist of getting out in public and shouting to the winds of the glories of our country and how we can lick the world with our own hands tied behind us.

We have a few such "patriots" but they have never set the world afire and we never expect to see them fighting for their country. When bullets are singing and shells are shrieking such "patriots" are usually found industriously fishing in financial water far to the rear.

What we need is patriotism that impells a man to love his country for what it is and for what it has done for himself and for the rest of mankind. When a man is imbued with this kind of loyalty he will give even life itself for his country when the need arises, and he will have no self plaudits to hurl at his fellow men in glorification of his acts. He will not dispense wind.

We have many just such true patriots right here in Andover, but they are quietly pursuing their daily routine, hoping and praying that the government may steer the ship of state safely through the troubled waters without loss of honor or dignity.

To-day they are simply loyel citizens of the republic. To-morrow they may be heroes who have fought and died for their country.

Who knows?

[illegible]

We believe that every household could easily spare something that would be of great use to someone of the sufferers in Europe. Stories of intense poverty have come to the notice of all of us.

This Committee has decided upon a plan whereby anyone can give us even the smallest contribution of clothing, worn or new, with the assurance that it will reach someone in great need of it.

We are taking the responsibility of collecting and shipping the garments, and are confident that by simplifying the work in this way we will meet with a very large response—a response which will not in a material way decrease the contributions most of us will be called upon to make for home charities this winter.

We will have women engaged to mend garments; others to wash and iron garments, and cobblers to repair shoes.

Committee: Mrs. Frank Mason, Chairman, (wife of our former Consul General to Paris). Mrs. [illegible] Ring, Wood [illegible] Katharina W. Sewell, Mrs. Harold G. Villard.

Send to Mrs. John R. McArthur, Vice-Chairman, 346 West 34th street, New York City.

PRIZES FOR CATERPILLAR EGGS

Teachers of the Rural Schools should not forget that the prizes offered for the destruction of the eggs of the Tent caterpillar moth last year are continued this year. The contest closes May 1st, and all rural schools in the country can compete. There are four prizes, $8.00, $6.00, $4.00 and $2.00. Further particulars can be obtained of the Pomona secretary, Mr. E. F. Ayers, Cuba, N. Y.

Of course you know who wrote the Declaration of Independence and can name the authors of our standard dictionaries, histories and other books but "who wrote the Bible?"

There is [illegible] difference

Cream of tartar is made from grapes, and is used in Royal because it is the best and most healthful ingredient known for the purpose.

Phosphate and alum, which are derived from mineral sources, are used in some baking powders, instead of cream of tartar, because they are cheaper.

If you have been induced to use baking powders made from alum or phosphate, use Royal Baking Powder instead. You will be pleased with the results and the difference in the quality of the food.

—A heavy snow storm visited this section Tuesday night and Wednesday. Country roads are blocked. The landscape with its mantle of white presents an attractive appearance.

—About twenty friends and neighbors gave Mrs. Chas. Page a surprise visit, at her home on Baker street, Tuesday evening. The evening was pleasantly passed with games and refreshments.

—Fire in the office of the Spectator at Rushford last week damaged the plant to the amount of $100. The fire started from a gasoline lamp generator. Energetic work on the part of the office force saved the building.

—The house of Jesse Baker was discovered on fire Thursday forenoon. The fire caught in the wall near the chimney and spread to the attic. The flames were soon extinguished but considerable damage was done by smoke and water.

—The final number on the Lecture Course at the Auditorium was given Tuesday night by Mrs. Fiske, cartoonist. It was one of the most pleasing numbers presented. The crayon work executed by Mrs. Fiske was of merit and her monologue work very apt.

—Wellsville parties have recently completed an oil well on the Fitzgerald farm on Trapping Brook, two and one-half miles from Wellsville. The well is good for one barrel production. 42 gravity, and olive green in color. Several hundred acres have been leased in the vicinity and more wells will be drilled.

—A bill has been introduced in the Legislature asking for an appropriation of $700 for the removal of the monument of the First New York Dragoons from its present location at Portage, Livingston County, to Letchworth Park, Wyoming Co. It is claimed the present site is not favorable and few travelers see the monument.

—Miss Edith Blackmer Poate, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Poate of Rushford, died at the home of her sister at Mt. Vernon, March 9th, after a short illness with pneumonia. Deceased was born in Japan, twenty-three years ago. She had been engaged in teaching at Mt. Vernon the past two years. The body was brought to Rushford for interment.

—The many friends of Miss Anna O'Leary of Dunkirk, formerly a resident of this village, will be pleased to learn that she was able to be removed from the Memorial Hospital to her rooms in that city, last Sunday. Miss O'Leary had been at the hospital eleven weeks recovering from the effects of a broken hip caused by a fall upon an icy walk. She is now able to move about her room with assistance.

—The Oswayo Valley Mail tells of a cow owned in Shinglehouse that found her way into the barn of a neighbor and ascended a steep flight of stairs where she was found quietly eating straw. After some study upon the part of the men interested in the agile bovine she was taken down the stairs by this method; ropes were fastened to her hind legs and to her horns. She was then backed to the head of the stairs and [illegible] low and [illegible] assisting her safely down the flight of stairs.

—On or before the 20th pay gas bills and save discount.

"THE FIGHTING HOPE"

At the Auditorium, Wednesday, March 22nd.

The Lasky-Belasco picturization of Mr. Belasco's famous legitimate success, "The Fighting Hope," is to be presented by a truly remarkable company, including Laura Hope Crews, the distinguished Broadway star, in the stellar role of Anna Granger. The two leading male roles, in the domestic triangle features of the drama, are entrusted to George Gabhardt and Thomas Meighan, both well known dramatic leading men, and the one other truly important role is in the hands of all photoplay character experts, Theodore Roberts, who once more finds himself the villian in the scheme of existence. Tom Forman, who has heretofore been associated rather with juvenile leads such as the principal male roles in "Young Romance" and "The Wild Goose Chase" finds himself transformed into a detective, and Billy Elmer has a role of the same general order. The child is played by Gerold Ward, who will be remembered in "The Warrens of Virginia" and Richard Morris has the remaining masculine part. The women in the cast, in addition to Miss Crews, are Florence Smythe (who appears in a minor character) and Cleo Ridgely, who is the siren. Miss Ridgley made her Lasky debut recently with Blanche Sweet in "Stolen Goods" and at once made a hit.
