APRIL MEETING

The president suggested that the Membership Committee should follow up any members, who did not attend our meetings regularly, and try to find the reason.

The Committee on Advertising Signs made a report through their chairman, C. L. Earley. He said the question had been thoroughly considered and that the committee recommended the erection of a large bill-board or permanent sign opposite the Erie Station setting forth the advantages of Andover. Also signs at the corporation lines where the highways entered the village with suitable wording.

Mr. Earley also talked at some length about our need of better restaurant and hotel service to accommodate the transient automobilists and others. He suggested that in his opinion the patronage was now being divided with so many places that there was not enough to support a really first-class place. It should be remedied.

The president appointed as a committee to take into consideration the matters suggested by Mr. Earley: C. L. Earley, C. E. Brown and W. F. O'Connell.

C. M. Lash, attorney for the Village Board of Trustees brought to the attention of the club the matter of paving Greenwood street, and asked for a discussion and expression of opinion as to whether it should be undertaken this year or not, whether it should be divided into three whether the whole job should be sections, paving one section a year until it was completed, or done in one year.

Many members spoke on the question giving their opinion. All seemed in favor of the proposed improvement, and were of the opinion that the Village Board would know best about how to proceed with the matter. All who expressed themselves on the subject, however, said they thought 40 % to be paid by the abutting property holders was too high a percentage.

The following resolution was offered and unanimously carried:

"Resolved, That it is the decision of this club that we stand back of the Village Board of Trustees in the matter of paving Greenwood street in the manner they deem best, and that we manifest our approval of the proposition by working for the passing of that appropriation at the special election.

The club then adjourned.

J. HARVEY BACKUS.

LIVINGSTON COUNTY PRISONERS MUST WORK

Supervisors Propose to Keep Them Busy Digging Ditches and Making Hay.

Geneseo, April 8.—According to Frederick L. Willett, chairman, his committee, formed from the Livingston County Board of Supervisors to investigate methods in use in Bath, Oswego, Canandaigua and Elmira in the matter of employing county jail prisoners, will recommend in its report, working the prisoners in the Livingston County jail.

There are 100 acres on the Livingston County home farm badly in need of underdraining and it is likely that digging the ditches will be the prisoners' first big job. When haying time rolls round, there is a large acreage of hay on the same farm which will help keep them from forming habits of idleness.

It is believed that this change of policy will lessen the tendency of some people to get into jail. Livingston County boasts an ideal jail with steam heating and every other modern convenience; and the surroundings are so decidedly comfortable, especially at the time of the year when cold and storm are the ruling elements outdoors, that it is feared jailing has completely lost its terrors for certain Livingston characters. With hard work staring them in the face, it is believed the sheriff's guests will in the future be down a third to one-half.

Our National Capital

Events of Interest from the Seat of Government by the News Special Correspondent, J. E. Jones]

THE MINIMUM WAGE

Washington, D. C., April 8. The Nolan bill provides for a minimum wage of $90 per month for employees of the federal government. The hearings on the bill have developed some startling conditions in the public service. Although the standards of living and general wage scales have been changed time and again to meet conditions in the business world, many laborers employed by Uncle Sam, are working on the same basis established fifty-five years ago. A grave digger at Arlington cemetery was brought before the Committee, and it was found that he has been receiving $40 per month. On this sum he attempts to support a large family. It developes that this man has been providing the last resting places for Generals, Admirals and other military heroes to whose memories beautiful monuments have been erected. The investigation also discloses that there are a great many people in the Government service for $720 per annum, with no probabilities of increased pay. Considerable pressure is being used in the hopes that Congress will set an example to the rest of the nation, by establishing a minimum wage tha will provide at least a decent living for its menial employees.

Roosevelt and Root

Former President Roosevelt and former Senator Root have resumed their former fraternal feeling. A carefully pre-arranged plan simultaneously in the newspapers throughout the country. A great deal of political significence has ben attached to the event, but astute political observers in Washington say that the little dinner party participated in by the Colonel and Mr. Root, at which Senator Lodge and Major-General Wood were also guests, makes a pretty little story, but the affair is not likely to influence the manner of voting of any of the delegates to the Republican Convention.

Presidential Honeymooning

Daring the past few weeks the President's yacht "Mayflower" has been commandeered for frequent trips down the Potomac with the President and Mrs. Wilson on board. This is an entirely new departure in the President's habits, as he never has shown any interest in the "Mayflower" heretofore. But likely a President can honeymoon with as much enthusiasm as any other kind of a lover—and there's nothing like a luxurious yacht or steamboat out in the ocean wide, when it comes to that delightful kind of vacationing for love's young dream.

Civil Service for Postmasters

Just before President Taft went out fo office Republican politicians were insisting on blanketing postmasters into Civil Service. The Democrats objected very strenuously, but now having shifted the due onto the other foot, prominent members of the Democratic party are urging action to extend Civil Service so that it will take care of their dear friends who have been selling postage stamps since their appointment by the Wilson Administration.

Many a Heart is Breaking

The presidential primaries are developing many unexpected things. Here in Washington where most of those who have presidential ambitions are residing there is evidence that many a heart is breaking not "After the Ball" but after the votes are counted.

Routes of War News

We get some of the official reports in Washington from which it appears that the most startling, set-backs concerning the British, French and Russians, are contained in the reports from Berlin. Germany's internal troubles are told in reports from London. In like manner the reasons for military activity in Holland are laid to the Germans by the British, and vice versa. Even in our Mexican imixup the news is distorted beyond recognition since most of the dispatches are from everywhere except points at which authentic information is available. He who puts much dependence on most war news is apt to be deceived. War correspondents are all being kept at long-arm distances, and when a writer guesses right he is apt to be "deleted" by the censor.

The Price of Gasoline

Washington is firmly convinced that the Standard Oil Company might, if it chose, prevent the constant rise in the price of gasoline. One suggestion is that an embargo be placed upon gasoline, thereby shutting off the European market. In view of the Government's position in relation to the shipment of all kinds of supplies to the war countries, it is not likely that attempts to regluate the price of gasoline will be along the embargo route. Another legislative proposal favors the seizing of the properties of the Standard Oil. Another Congressman thinks the situation might be saved if the Interior Department would get busy and dig a lot of oil wells throughout the country. The automobile manufacturers are anxious that something drastic be done, as the price of gasoline will interfere with the sale of their 1916 machines.

Fighting Christians Wanted

Billy Sunday visited Washington a few days ago and in his sermon declared that every generation needs a new type of Christian. He said that the present need is "a lot of Christians who are not afraid to go on the war path." Sunday said, "You talk about the moral equivalent for war, why you can develop more spine and backbone fighting the devil, on your own block than you can in a year fighting in Europe." He made the plea for the incarnation of righteous wrath and pointed out the necessity for people who would "fight for truth in uprooting the moral defects of the communities." Then he attacked what he called "spineless, weak-minded, flabby-cheeked, heavy-jowled, two-by-four, milk-and-water Christians." An attempt was made to secure the reverend gentleman for a religious campaign in Washington, but it was found that he is booked ahead for every day until the spring of 1918.

The Metric System

Latin American countries have emphasized the difficulty of doing business with the United States, because of the different standards in weights and measures, and in difficulties in the exchange of money. American bankers have been going into southern countries within the last two or three years, and it is thought that the visit of Secretary McAdoo to the southern regions will help to straighten out the tangles in the financial relationship with the people to the south. The Metric system has been adopted in the foreign trade by European countries, and the Pan-American interests in the National Capital are endeavoring to influence American business men to conduct their relations with South and Central America upon that basis.

CONCERNING SUFFRAGE

Criminal statistics from Chicago reported in The Survey tell the same old story: eight men arrested and committed to one woman, and a woman's jail wanted, not because there are so many women criminals, but because there are so trifling in number as to never have any chance of fair treatment in a jail where there are men also.

So it happens, that if only the bad women voted, and they poled their full number, nothing very damaging could happen in consequence to the political situation in Chicago or anywhere else.

In spite of woman suffrage, the press reports a marked increase in Chicago's marriage rate. Members of the goodly company that believe that politics can be counted on to rub the charm off any woman who invades the polling booth, are invited to take notice.

The president of the village of Canisteo has invited the women's clubs to affiliate with the chamber of commerce in working for a better Canisteo. The press reports that this move by the chief executive is regarded as a "master stroke;" that "there are innumerable instances where the ladies are most deeply interested in the welfare of the village and the co-operation would be a great help."

Suffragists are glad to note that it is a very short step from having the women's clubs co-operate with the chamber of commerce to having the women in general co-operate with the men on election day. Canisteo, if not ripe for women suffrage, is ripening. In fact, a change of six votes last November would have carried the town into the suffrage column.

It seems to be true that men who are opposed to votes for women are opposed to other right for women also. The Virginia House of Delegates has again proved it.

In February the House of Delegates refused to submit a woman suffrage bill to the voters of the state. The members said that they did so to save women from the "contaminating influences of politics." In March this same legislative body refused to admit women to the University of Virginia. "They have also," comments The Woman's Journal, "proved that they wish to save women from the contaminating influence of higher education."

Dr. Sargent of Harvard University is reported in the New York Tribune as declaring that Americans are unfit for military service; that they lack both physical fitness and moral stamina.

Then let us hear no more about ballots and bullets. If Dr. Sargent is right, men and women should be putting their heads together in government to devise some way to keep out of a war, since neither men nor women are fit for military service.

Corning, N. Y.—"Some years ago I was suffering from nervous headaches and blood disorders, with severe pains in my back. I was constipated most of the time and bilious. Some one handed me a little book calling attention to Dr. Pierce's Remedies. I bought a bottle. After I had used half the bottle I noticed a marked improvement in my appetite and my food digested better. I grew better and stronger in every way and am glad to tell other sufferers of it.—MRS.
