ROOSEVELT IS READY FOR WAR

Colonel Says He and His Four Sons and All the Rest of His Kin-folk Would Enlist for Fight

Oyster Bay April 24.—If the United States goes to war with Germany the Roosevelts will go all of them, Theodore Roosevelt says so in a statement called forth by the recent utterance "Stand by the President," that he spoke for the men who would have to do the fighting and who would die in thousand because of the country's unpreparedness. Mr. Roosevelt said:

"men are saying that they stand behind the President or by the President. I wish to speak for the men who, in the event of war, will stand in front of the President and between him and the foreign enemy; and who, therefore, will stand between danger and the men who are behind or beside the President.

"These are the men who will go to the war at once if there is war with Germany or war with any other great power and who feel, as I do, that they would far rather go to war unprepared than to see our women and children murdered with impunity and the honor of the flag stained.

"But it is a wicked thing that the folly of our rulers in obeying the behests of the peace-at-any-price people and of the apostles of anti-preparedness should make the sacrifice either useless or else needlessly and appallingly wasteful in blood.

In the event of such a war my four sons will go and one, and perhaps both of my sons-in-law; I will go myself. The young kinfolk and friends of my sons will go; so my words are spoken with my eyes open."

Thanking you for what your remedy has done me."—James S. Ferguson, Philada. Pa. Sloan's Liniment kills pain. 25c at Druggists.—Advertisement.

Sign Boards on the Up-road

By Hamilton B. Williams

He gave us joy and took joy from us; he gave us hope and left us ashes; he came with dreams and dreams fled from us; he gave us ill, and good hides with us; he gave us wreck, and some houses still are standing; he gave us tears, but hark the note of laughter. Red and black and gold and gray—life's a strange garment. Harsh and soft and sweet and plaintive, bells and knells;—life's a strange music. Wise and foolish; blot and beauty; good and bad; life's a strange book. Cap and bells; silk and tinsel; tinsel and gold; comedy and tragedy; life's a strange play—good brothers.

Of the past let us say: it is past. Neither regret nor prayer will bring back one day. Pluck, if you will, from the past, a spray of flowers from the heart's mayday; fill your hearts full of words that were sweet in honey; bind upon your brows a filet of glowing deeds,—and close the gates. To-day, to-day calls. To-day shows us a shining path untrod—opens a book unspotted. To-day points to hills ungained, worlds unsurveyed, goals unattained. To-day, take up the pack and to the pinings of God set pace and step and press forward.

Our constant thought should be: What are we worth? In physical, mental, spiritual markets are we worth the face value? Let us find our place and fill it. Find our duty and do it. Find our star and seek a straight path thereto. Know thyself and make the world feel thy worth. Do not underestimate ability—yet have humility. M. Angelo knew he could paint better frescoes than any living artist, but Michael Angelo did not become toplofty and strut—but kept on painting better. Temper your courage with humility, your knowledge, skill, virtue, value. The world will find the man out.

The Thought Life is a reservoir from which issues the breath of life or the poison of death. The Thought Life is a storehouse of divine or devilish munition.

It has been pointed out by Mr. Ruskin that the great reasonings are Selfcontrol, Trust, Love and Faith. Weigh your scales with these and your judgments shall stand; weigh your scales with selfishness, anger, malice, envy, narrow-mindedness and your judgments shall be false as hell.

"Out of the Thought-Life are the issues of life." In the heart the prophecy is dreamed, the poem is born, the word is framed, which given forth rally men to the battle of advance. Every reform, says Emerson, was once the private opinion of one man. When it becomes private opinion of all men the reform has come to pass.

But having clear eyes and a pure-thinking heart we may take the measure of others. It is not possible for selfishness to correctly measure unselfishness. For we who are selfish are blind, warped, weazened, unbalanced, incompetent, loaded scales and false weights—according to our proportion of selfishness. Darkness is no judge of light.

Thinking is but another name for character. Character is the stamp of the die of thought. Think evil, think good—so shall the character be. Let the soul be the metal, let thinking be the die. Think envy, think lust, think lying, think hate, think—and every thought stamps itself upon the soul. Think good, think virtue, think truth, think—and every thought stamps itself upon the soul.

The Thought-Life is our test of location in the universe. Mean, low, petty, frivolous thought; high, noble, kindly—so shall be measured.

When we think God's thoughts we belong to Him.

"If any man have not the Spirit of Christ he is none of His."

The positive is as true.

more bills which were introduced in the first eleven days of the sixty-fourth Congress over four thousand were pension bills.

"The right to vote is the only essential right of citizenship. It is the right to preservative of all other rights. Why disfranchise a man because he is serving his country?" These were the arguments used at the time of the Civil War which resulted in laws being passed by a majority of the states which permitted the soldier to vote in the field. The history of this political episode is told by Josiah Benton in his book "Voting in the Field."

The courts have declared that a woman is a citizen then why deprive her of the "only essential right of citizenship?"

Statesmen and ministers agree that homemaking and child rearing are priceless necessities if the nation would prosper. Then why disfranchise a woman because she is "serving her country?"

The Missouri Woman, in its last number, gives an interesting summary of the legal status of the mother in the United States as to the guardianship of her children. It names six states in which the father can will or deed the child, without the mother's consent; ten manhood suffrage states in which the mother is an equal guardian; and credits the entire twelve states which have given suffrage to women with having given them also control of their children.

This record proves, if not that women voters are better able to protect their home interests than voteless women, at least that the same spirit of fair play in men which gives to women the right to vote, gives them also rights.

PRODUCTION OF OATS IN NEW YORK

In spite of the fact that the oat crop is not generally considered profitable, the authorities of the New York State College of Agriculture at Cornell University say that farmers will continue to grow oats in New York for a number of reasons. The principal one of these reasons is that some small grain crop is needed on most general farms and oats is better adapted to conditions in New York State than either wheat, rye, or barley.

These authorities say that the oat crop is more generally grown in New York than any other cereal, wheat being limited mostly to the level fertile plains in the western part of the state. Corn is more widely grown than wheat because of its general use for silage, but it is usually grown on only the more productive land. Oats are grown on more types of soil and under a greater variety of conditions than any of the grains. Those who have studied farm crops hold that a grain crop is needed to help seed grass and cover crops, is needed to produce straw as bedding and grain for feed, so that almost any practical crop rotation suited to New York requires one of the small grains.

How to Make Oats Profitable

Since farmers and experts alike agree that the oat crop is a necessity in general farming, the problem which they are trying to solve is how to increase the profits from its cultivation. The experts say there is little opportunity to increase the price or value of the grain itself because the price is largely determined by the large crop grown in the West where it is more cheaply produced than in New York. Since it is probably that New York farmers actually buy more oats than they produce they may be interested in seeing the price kept down rather than raised. One of the things that can be done to help the oat crop and the farmer who is growing it is to treat the seed for smut. This treatment adds practically nothing to the cost of production, and there is good evidence that it will ordinarily increase the yield from ten to twenty per cent. wherever smut is prevalent. Most plans for improving general yields of a crop are said to involve considerable expense either of money or labor, and those familiar with farm management say that it is rather risky to put more labor or money on a crop that is already being raised with little or no profit. An effort which costs so little as the treatment of seed oats for smut, and one which is so sure of giving increased yields, may be said to be fully justified.

Right Kinds for New York

Those who have studied the farm crops situation in New York say that more attention should be given to securing the right variety. They claim that it is a very common practice in New York State for farmers to buy a supply of seed oats each year about which they know little or nothing. Sometimes this seed is produced under conditions not at all like those of New York, and the variety is not at all suited to New York soils. Very often, they say, it is better to use the seed from a local variety that is known to grow thriftily than to buy much finer looking seed brought in from a distance. Among the best varieties in New York State are the Twentieth Century, Banner, White Russian, Joanette, Select, Silver Mine and Storm King.

Spring Fever?

This is the time of year to look out for trouble! We feel weak—our blood seems hot—no appetite.—It's time to clean house! This is when the blood is clogged and we suffer from what is commonly called a cold.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies the blood and entirely eradicates the poisons that breed and feed disease. Pure blood is essential to good health. The weak, run-down, debilitated condition which so many people experience is commonly the effect of impure blood. Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery not only cleanses the blood of impurities, but it increases the activity of the blood-making glands, and it enriches the body with an abundant supply of pure, rich blood.

Take it as directed and it will search out impure and poisonous matter in the stomach, liver, bowels and kidneys and drive it from the system through the natural channels.

The bad blood is driven out! It will furnish you with rich, pure blood full of vital force—the kind that increases energy and ambition, that rejuvenates the entire body.

WHAT OUR NEIGHBORS SAY.

Fonda, N. Y.—"I began using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for biliousness and a run-down condition. This medicine built me up and I found it a cure for the stomach and liver trouble. I also used 'Favorite Prescription,' and it relieved me of woman's weakness. Both these remedies are first-class and I heartily recommend them."—Mrs. G. W. Sutts, Putman Avenue, Fonda, N. Y.
