JOHN BARRYMORE AS "THE INCORRIGIBLE DUKANE"

Wednesday Evening

Like all the celebrated and popular stars of the Famous Players Film Co., including Mary Pickford, Marguerite Clark, Pauline Frederick, Hazel Dawn and Marie Doro, John Barrymore came to the screen with every faculty for success in his possession. Youth, an abundance of talent that may even be termed genius, grace, an attractive personal appearance and intelligence, made screen success as certain as was his popular record on the stage. The comedy successes in which he has previously been presented on the screen indicated what a far greater triumph he had attained as a film star than the stage could ever provide, but his greatest ability is represented in his next appearance under the management of the Famous Players Film Co., on the Paramount Program, "The Incorrigible Dukane," the feature attraction at the Auditorium, Wednesday evening.

A story with comedy drama and romance, each in itself an important element of the plot, and combined, constituting a photo-play of unusual appeal, "The Incorrigible Dukane" is one of the strongest features released in some time. John Barrymore achieves a triumph rare even to a Famous Players star.

ING PROPOSITION IS CARRIED

at Special Election Results a Two to One Verdict in favor of Improving 400 Feet Greenwood Street.

The proposition to pave 400 on Greenwood street carried vote of 101 to 48, at the al election held Tuesday afon.

ore Andover village became orated it has never taken ckward step. No worthy osition for improvement has voted by Andover electors, the result of Tuesday's spec-ion proved that they are looking well to the best in-ts of the village.

e only opposition that really worth consideration came those who thought the en-street should be paved, not 400 feet. They were afraid the pavement would not be ded each year until finished, did not want to make three of a cherry.

st year the village paved street from Elm to the bridge, doing the work local help. They found they l do the paving with less ex-e and got a much better job. Board therefore intended to n the 400 feet on East Green-l street and 150 feet on West ewood street this year in same way.

er the result of the election announced Tuesday evening, her petition was circulated to plete the paving up to Section of Dyke street. The essary number of signers were ined in short order, so that out doubt another special ion will be held within a few s to decide upon paving the e street instead of but 400

FIND BODY IN SAND

Believed to Be That of Hornell Woman Drowned Last Summer.

Hornell, April 30.—The body of an unidentified woman, believed to be that of Bertha Stuart of this city, who was drowned in Chauncey creek, near this city, on July 17, 1915, was found today about eleven miles from here near the village of Adrian, by Claude Hallett, Hallett and Elmer Lamphere were on a fishing excursion. The body was half burried in a sand bar.

The body was badly decomposed. The clothes were still on the body, but one arm was severed at the elbow. Coroner Otto K. Stuart of Canisteo was called.

Bertha Stuart was employed by Louis Blakeslee, at his home about a mile from this city, as a housekeeper. On the night of July 17, 1915, they were attempting to save a chicken-coop from being caught in the rapidly rising Chauncey creek when the bank caved in, throwing them into the water. Blakesley managed to pull himself out safely, but Miss Stuart was swept down the stream until she was stopped by a barbed wire fence, stretched across the water.

She managed to cling to this but just as a rescue party was about to throw her a rope the fence broke and she was engulfed by the torrent. All efforts to locate the body proved fruitless.

What the Engineers are Doing

THIRTY thousand American engineers are making a card index survey of American industry so that it may be prepared for its vital part in defending the Country, if need comes. The past eighteen months have taught us here in America what lack of industrial preparedness has meant to some of the countries now at war. These nations had the ships and they had the men; but when the hour struck, their factories were not able to furnish the colors with arms and shells and powder. Their factories were not prepared. And our factories are not prepared.

But it is not enough to draw a moral. In the United States five great Engineering Societies — Civil, Mining, Mechanical, Electrical and Chemical — have pledged their services to the Government of the United States, and are already working hand in hand with the Government to prepare industry for the national defense. They receive no pay and will accept no pay. All they seek is opportunity to serve their country, that she may have her industries mobilized for defense.

All elements of the nation's life — the manufacturers, the business men, and the workingmen — should support this patriotic and democratic work of the engineers, and assist them cheerfully when asked.

There can be no better national insurance against war.

The Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, representing all advertising interests have offered their free and hearty service to the President of the United States, in close co-operation with these five Engineering Societies, to the end that the Country may know what the Engineers are doing. The President has accepted the offer. The Engineers have welcomed the co-operation.

This advertisement, published without cost to the United States, is the first in a nation-wide series to call the country to the duty of co-operating promptly and fully with the Engineers.

APPOINTED RAILROAD SUPERINTENDENT

C. D. Baker, Son of Dewight B. Baker, of Brooklyn, Formerly of Andover, Chosen For High Railroad Office.

The Long Island Railroad Company is sending out the following "General Notice:"

"Effective April 20th, 1916, Mr C. D. Baker is appointed superintendent, vice Mr. J. B. Austin, Jr., resigned."

The above does not tell much to the average News reader as it stands, but when it becomes known that C. D. Baker is the son of Dewight B. Baker of Brooklyn, N. Y., who was a former Andover resident, and whose father was Dr. Thaddeus Baker, it at once becomes of local interest.

In this connection the News has been given the following very interesting bit of history of the Baker family. In response to our inquiry asking who C. D. Baker was his father writes:

Editor Andover News:

Dear Sir:

Replying to yours of the 29th, will say that Cassius Dwight Baker is my son, and my father was Dr. Thaddeus Baker, who, when about one year old, was brought to Andover, by his father, Thaddeus Baker, from Poultney, Vt. I think in 1807.

My grandfather, and later, my father, owned all of the land west of Main street, in Andover, to the Bundy properties towards Elm valley. My other brother, Rollin Thaddeus Baker was surgeon in the Army during the Rebellion, and died at Newburg, N. C., of the yellow fever in 1864.

I was the third child of Dr. Thaddeus Baker and his wife, Sarah Storrs (Spicer) Baker.

I went to New York when less than 17 years of age, but about 5 years later went back to Andover and went into partnership with Daniel S. Bradley there.

Three years later I sold out my interest to Mr. Bradley and returned to N. Y.

On my mother's side, who was Sarah Storr Spicer, I am a direct descendent of William Brewster of the Mayflower, and thereby I am a member of the Society of the descendents of the Mayflower. Am also a member of the Sons of the American Revolution, the Society of the Colonial Wars, Member of the New England Society, member of the American Institute, the National Georgraphical Socity of Washington, D. C., the Geological and Biographical Society of New York, the Long Island Historical Society, the Montauk Club of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Ethan Allen, who captured Ticonderoga, was my great, great uncle. Captain Remember Baker my great, great uncle, was a member of the Green Mountain Volunteers which captured Crown Point from the British, May 12th, 1775.

He was killed by the Indians in Aug. 1775. His head, right hand and toes were cut off and carried as trophies to Quebec, where they were exposed to public gaze on a stake placed on the walk.

His slayers also took the gold broaches, which he wore, and delivered them with the head to the Commander of Quebec, who afterwords, having discovered on them some Masonic emblems, caused the head and hand to be taken away and burried. A reward of 50 pounds had been offered for his head and the reason for carrying the head to Quebec was to claim the reward.

I have written this hurriedly, and you are very welcome to use any or all of it as you may see fit.

Very truly yours,
DWIGHT B. BAKER.

THE BIG FAIR OPENS TUESDAY

Everybody Hard at Work to Make the Fair a Big Success. Proceeds to Improve Park and Ball Diamond.

Beginning Tuesday afternoon next the big fair given by the committee on Andover's entertainment will open. This fair is being put on to raise funds with which to make needed improvements in the park and base ball diamond.

There is nothing needed more in Andover to-day than a suitable play-ground for our young people where they may enjoy outdoor sports, such as base ball, lawn tennis, foot ball, etc. At present we have no place suitable for the purpose. The grounds at the park are stony and on a side-hill. Teams from away will not come here to play ball or other games on those grounds. No one can blame them.

The fair will open Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock for the sale of goods. There have been many valuable articles contributed to the fair that will be sold at this and later dates.

Tuesday evening will occur the play "Wedding Bells," a comedy drama in four parts. It is a most fun provoking play full of witty sayings and bright repartee. That it will be one of the most interesting features at the Auditorium this season is assured.

Following is the cast:

In the order of their appearance.

Reggy Miss Grace Randall
Pat Roy Engle
Aunt Hannah, Mrs. David Slocum
Roger Lord Marl Wilson
Bianca Horton Mrs. Raymond Williams
Maurice Rathburn Chas. Hammond
Inza Rowland Miss Regina Raufenbarth
Harold Winthrop Porter Richardson
Hans Schitzenbier Leo Raufenbarth
Muggs Claire Backus
Cully Lawrence Bloss
Tramps

Wednesday afternoon and evening will be given over to the fair. In the evening everything must be sold, a big crowd will be present to see the fun. An entertainment is being arranged for the evening. Thursday evening will be the big dance. Merriman's five-piece orchestra has been engaged, and everything is being done possible to make the occasion the best possible.

Every penny of the proceeds of this fair will be used for the purpose designated. It will not go to any organization or other people, but into permanent improvements for Andover's park and athletic field. The fund will be administered by the committee on Andover's entertainment, P. C. Berkwater chairman, E. J. Atwood, Leon I. Bloss, James P. Cannon and J. Harvey Backus, each and every one of whom will give Andover people full assurance that not one cent of the proceeds will be perverted to any other purpose than that designated.

MARY PICKFORD

And Exceptional Supporting Cast Beautify the Tender Stage Success, "Esmeralda," on the Screen, Saturday Evening.

"Esmeralda," by Frances Hodgson Burnett, author of "the Pretty Sister of Jose," and "The Dawn of a To-morrow," — what names to conjure with! And added to these great names of successful plays and gifted author, the unparalleled name of Mary Pickford as further and complete guaranty of the unsurpassable beauty and appeal of the photo-production of this famous dramatic success, produced by the Famous Players Film Co., on the Paramount Program, at the Auditorium, Saturday evening.

And as if these sterling names were not sufficient to suggest the importance of this feature attraction, such favorites as Ida Waterman, Fuller Melish, and Charles Waldron, the lead of the recent dramatic triumph, "Daddy Long-Legs," who made his screen debut in a recent Famous Players feature, "When We Were Twenty-One," form the conspicuous members of the supporting company, that, together with the transcendant art of Mary Pickford, make "Esmeralda" one of the notable feature productions of the year.

"Esmeralda," with its appeal to the finer senses, its depiction of the sweet comforts of farm-life and its exposition of the dangers and shams of the city, was a great play and is a greater photo-play. The author's two former plays produced by the Famous Players Film Co., in Paramount Pictures, were both unusual successes. The third should even exceed the popularity of its predecessors.

GOES BACK TO HONEOYE, N. Y.

Wm. W. Pingrey has accepted the principalship of the Honeoye High School for next year. This position comes to him unsolicited. About two weeks ago the secretary of the Board wrote that there would be a change in the principalship and that it was the unanimous wish of the Board, as well as his many friends there, that he again take up the work that he laid down eight years ago. A few days later the president of the Board wrote asking if it were not possible for him to accept the principalship.

As this position came to Mr. Pingrey without any effort on his part he finally decided that he would return next September to his old duties.
