AUDITORIUM, MONDAY EVENING

Charlotte Walked, the celebrated dramatic star, experienced the most unusual incident of her life during the production of the latest Jesse L. Lasky sucess "Out of Darkness" in which she is to appear at the Auditorium, on Monday evening.

This incident occurred while Miss Walker was sailing a small sloop which was to be run down and sunk by a large fruit schooner. Miss Walker, although a sailor, had never sailed a small sloop and it took several days' rehearsals in the choppy waters of the Pacific Ocean before she could finally manage to steer directly in the path of the schooner at the proper moment to be struck and sunk ,and then dive, fully dressed, overboard and come up out of harm's way. Statistics, as to the number of main-sails ruined, bowsprits broken and feet of film wasted to take this one scene, are not given; but from all reports, it was considerable.

GRAFTING WAX

A good grade of grafting wax may be made as folows:

Restetsin four parts by weight, bees wax two parts by weight, beef tallow, one part by weight. The ingredients should be melted, together but not boiled. As soon as they are all melted stir thoroughly and pour into a tub of tepid water. Grease the hands with tallow and work the mass under water in such a way that it will cool evenly throughout. When tough remove from the water and pull like candy until it becomes a light straw color. Make into sticks about an inch in diameter, wrap in oiled paper and lay aside until wanted.

To use, simply warm by holding in the hands or by working it under tepid water. It will keep indefinitely. If the wax is lumpy it is because it was boiled or because it was cooled too quickly. Lumpy wax may be improved by heating slowly (preferably in a double boiler or glue pot) until it is completely melted and then repeat as before.

A slightly softer wax for use in cool weather is made the same as above but the following formula: Resin four pounds, beeswax two pounds, linseed oil one pint.

The News' Classified Ads will help you to rent it if it's rentable, and to sell if it's salable. The property owner, who puns his faith to a placard would think anyone absurd who used such primitive business methods in anything else.

women of Andover took and did things in a way ecularly, it demonstrated that nt their hearty co-operation things would go even in ner. They furnished and for the fancy-work booth, a y booth, a gypsy tent and s other attractions including biggest 15 cent supper that ever served in town. Under leadership of Mrs. Margaret ger the women worked with and to a purpose that nt many a "plunk" into ders of the fund.

lay evening was presented "Wedding Bells" by local talent. It was well played and gave more than satisfaction to the audience. Not one adverse criticism was heard, even though it was predicted freely by many that it was "impossible to put it on in the time given for rehearsals." They accomplished the impossible and did it in A No. 1 style. We published last week the cast of characters, and it is necessary to add only that all did well, under the direction of Mr. Roy Engle.

Between acts F. S. Potter rung up a surprise for the audience. He had himself composed an Andover rally song, and had it played to music by Ralph R. Story. Miss Nellie Welsh sang the song in her usual clear, strong voice. On the encore a dozen boosters joined

ANDOVER.

By Fred S. Potter

There's a hustling little city on the Erie Railroad's map Nestled in among the valleys in Old Allegany's lap—
Just the place where Mother Nature did her best to make things right.
Furnished every natural resource
that the hearts of men delight,
The mills and factories running
from morning until night,
Churches, schools and well kept streets, make a picture that is right.
There's lots of business in the town, there's room for plenty more.
So locate in ANDOVER, and you'll wish you'd come before.

Chorus

Andover, Andover, Andover for
me.
Andover, Andover, the place
you'd like to be.
Just try the town for business and
you will quickly see
That hustling, bustling, AND-
OVER is the place for you and
me.

Seventeen hundred feet above
the sea, a splendid place to dwell,
Of its health and wealth and happiness there's more than we can tell.
But seeing is believing, so come
at once and see
That hustling, bustling Andover
is the place for you and me.
A town composed of life wire-
men, an active Board of Trade,
A good progressive, lively town town that business men have made.
A town, that does things in a way that sure beats all the rest.
So locate in ANDOVER: we
konw you'll like it best.
In on the chorus and made the Auditorium ring for a few minutes. Following is the song:

The Alfred Glee Club gave a thirty-minute concert and a reading by Mr. Robert Green Wednesday evening. The Glee Club is the very best anywhere that we know of. They gave their concert for expenses, to help Andover boys in their effort to procure an athletic field. They have promised to return this fall and give us a full evening's entertainment. If they do Andover people will not fail to reward their generosity by giving them a packed house.

After the Glee Club closed their concert, the audience was ushered into Harmony Hall to the "fair grounds" which had been open to the public on two previous afternoons. Among the best and most interesting display was that of Andover High School. Arranged in an artistically decorated booth was found exhibits of the work of the pupils from all grades from Kindergarten to High School; drawings, lettering and designs, as well as compositions and arguments by the class in 4th year English. The exhibit gave undisputed evidence of the training our young people are receiving at Andover High School.

The goods remaining unsold were disposed of at auction late in the evening.

We will tell of Thursday's attractions and give a financial statement of the receipts and disbursements next week.

AYRSHIRE CLUB MEETS

Inspection Trip to the Farm of S. S. Karr & Son, Almond, N. Y.

The first meeting of the Ayrshire Club since its organization was held at the home of S. S. Karr & Son, Almond, Wednesday, May 3rd. About 62 persons were present. A few came from Steuben County, thus showing the great interest in this breed of cattle.

Manager Smith of the Farm Bureau gave a very brief introductory talk and introduced Prof. Pontius of the State School of Agriculture at Alfred, who brought over his class in Stock Judging, and placed three rings of Mr. Karr's cows; one mature class, one of three year olds, and one young heifer class. A number of other schools were also represented.

The executive committee met and appointed Messrs. Karr and Manager Smith as an advertising committee. Mr. Simpson is to prepare Club stationery.

A picnic is to be held at Friendship some time in August, at that time an auction of some good stock is planned. A number of new members were secured.

All departed feeling that the day had been well spend and that the Karrs were fine entertainers as well as breeders of Ayrshires.

BLANCHE SWEET

In "The Case of Becky," Auditorium, Saturday Evening.

Blanche Sweet, Carlyle Blackwell, Theodore Roberts and Jane Neill are the four names that head the cast for the Lasky-Belasco production of Edward Locke's famous drama, "The Case of Becky," which will be the attraction at the Auditorium, on Saturday evening.

Never before has Blanche Sweet been seen in a role similar to the one she plays in this photodrama. When "The Case of Becky" was produced by David Belasco, as a drama, it caused a sensation in the theatre-going world. Not since the days of "Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde" has a play of dual personality been presenrted to the public. And when the victim of the two-selfs is a young girl, especially of Miss Sweet's charm and ability the announcement that the photo-drama will be seen here is one of unusual interest.

As the quiet and winsome Dorothy, Miss Sweet wins a host of friends; but when her personality changes before the eye into the malicious and disagreeable Becky the audience is at a loss as to what is going to happen.

The character is an unusual one and is considered by those who have seen the photodrama to be the best in which Blanche Sweet has ever appeared.

Supported by the three splendid artists whose names are given, each a star in his own right, and the other members of the Lasky all-star stock company, gives the film version of this sensational play a degree of excellence rarely attained by any motion picture production.

If a merchant, for any reason, is selling an article from 10c to a dollar less than it can be bought for elsewhere in town, he has, in that fact, the material for a winning advertisement.

Community Club's May Meeting

Harmous and Enthusiastic Meeting Held May 3rd, Much Work Planned and Numerous Subjects Given Consideration and Discussion.

While not as large a number of the members of the Community Co-operative Club were present as at some of the previous meetings, the May meeting held at I. O. O. F. Hall, Thursday evening, May 4th, was in no ways lacking in numbers or enthusiasm. There was sixty present, according to official roll call.

President J. H. Faisant called the meeting to order and introduced Miss Ruth Williams, who favored the Club with a violin solo, accompanied by her sister, Miss Florence. She responded to an encore.

Harold Brainard sang a solo and encore which was well received.

Eugene Eggert favored the Club with two selections on the piano which demonstrated the fact that he was master of that instrument.

Miss Florence Williams then rendered a violin solo, with her sister, Miss Ruth Williams, playing the accompanment. She also responded to an encore.

The musical numbers were all good and delighted the Club members.

After the program a buffet lunch was served by the ladies of the W. R. C. The ladies received many compliments on their wands.

After the luncheon President Faisant appointed the following committee for refreshments at the June meeting: W. S. Calhoun, C. E. Brown and F. J. Raufenbarth.

In his remarks the president urged the members of the Club to more efficient work. He had just returned from a meeting of business men in New York and said that "efficiency" was the one big thing now being aimed after by all and in every activity of life. He chided members who allowed themselves to be named as chairman of committees, and then neglecting or refusing to work. He asked every person who was on a committee and would not do all in their power to accomplish the purpose for which they were appointed, if they would kindly resign before leaving the room. The president also believed that it was time that the Club now adopt a set of bylaws for the proper conduct of the affairs of the Club and appointed as a committee to draft such bylaws, J. Harvey Backus, Rev. V. L. Eggleston, and T. R. Bassett.

President Faisant, after instilling enthusiasm into the meeting by his opening address, asked to be excused from the meeting, as he was tired and ill from a strenuous week in New York, and called Vice President F. W. Burrows to the chair to preside over the meeting.

Upon Mr. Burrows assuming the president's station, he spoke for a few minutes commendatory to the president of the Club, who had retired ill, showing how enthusiastically and energetically Mr. Faisant was working for the benefit of Andover and the welfare of the Club. Mr. Burrows said that Mr. Faisant's energy was the backbone of the organization and that Andover was most fortunate in having such a man, who was working entirely unselfishly for our community.

The vice president called upon Mr. Berkwater, chairman of the committee on Andover's entertainment, to tell of the progress of the fair to be put on next week for the benefit of park improvement.

Mr. Berkwater reported that everything had been well taken care of and that the indications were for a great success. He urged every member of the Club to give the fair their hearty and loyal support.

Village President E. J. Atwood suggested that it might be a good thing to try to get the Alfred Glee Club to come to Andover Wednesday night for the fair.

Harold Brainard was named as a committee to work with the fair entertainment committee to see if the Glee Club could be secured as suggested.

The fact was brought out that a certain manufacturing plant was seeking a location, and Mr. Burrows appointed E. J. Atwood, E. D. Baker and James P. Canron a committee to investigate and report their findings to the Club.

F. S. Potter chairman of the rest-room committee was called upon for a report. He announced that nothing new had been done but that the committee would have ts report ready for the June meetng.

The committee on advertising signs was called upon for a report as to the estimated expense of placing the signs they had recommended, in their report given at the April meeting. The chairman of the committee, C. L. Earley, was not present, and Ligouri Lynch was asked as a member of that committee to bing the request for an estimate to the attention of the chairman of his committee.

Vice President Burrows announced that Governor Whitman was to pass through Andover Saturday and would stop for a few minutes at Andover, and recommended that the Club and all others possible gather to greet the governor.

A motion was made and carried
