And Villa grins.

Don't forget your screens.

• • •

Kick the kicker before he kicks you.

• • •

Another week and no war for us. We have hopes.

• • •

Looks like summer might wander along even yet.

• • •

Mr. Ford says he does not want to be president. He won't.

• • •

We always did admire a brave man, but, then, timid men invariably do.

• • •

The biggest critic is himself the most logical subject of criticism. Don't be a critic.

• • •

There are many pleasant truths, but few people manage to connect up with them.

• • •

Just note the fact that we haven't a word about that cuss of a Villa this week.

• • •

Incidentally, however, clean-up-week should be three hundred and sxty-five days long.

• • •

Mexico is like the bad boy who wants to fight but only hangs back for fear he will get licked.

• • •

This is a good world, after all; and most of the good people live in this town—including even you.

• • •

No, no, the prices of printers' commodities are not up in the clouds. They are above the sky.

• • •

We want an airship. We want to go up among the clouds and see if we can locate the cost of living.

• • •

Here's hoping we will never have to spank Mexico. One cannot rub up against soot without getting black.

• • •

War or no war, we note with pride that the farmer, like the industrious honey-bee, keeps right on buzzing away.

Be everything that you ought to be and nothing that you ought not to and by that time you won't be alive at all.

The price of gasoline is not troubling us a bit. It's the cost of print paper that is jerking our hair out by the roots.

• • •

Scientists are now making war material out of about everything but wind. That, however, is eternally mortgaged to the politicians

• • •

Political candidates generally get what is coming to them, but the trouble comes in inducing them to see themselves as others see them.

• • •

The Irish rebellion accomplished at least one result aside from its inglorious fizzle. We have heard of the Sinn Feiners, whatever they may be.

• • •

High society has its advantages, after all. The fat woman, for instance, achieves the honor of matronly dignity while the skinny one is a willowy wisp of charming femininity.

• • •

An exchange says some women have all the grace of an angle-worm when it comes to charming by the poetry of motion. But we'll let it go at that.

• • •

It's wonderful what this shortage of dyestuff is doing for us. Its effects are so distressing it is turning some of our distinguished citizens prematurely gray.

• • •

People have become over weary and have quit yelping over the high cost of living, which, we opine, is a sure sign that the boosters of prices are about ready for another boost.

• • •

We advocate preparedness in this shop. We are prepared to receive subscription bills six days of the week, and if you can't get around in the six days we'll grab it on Sunday without batting an eye or turning a hair.

Our "B. B. B." Column always does the business.

THE WHITE FLOWER—MOTHER

We wear it to-morrow as the symbol of a great white love—the one infinitely pure, absolutely unselfish passion in the whole gamut of human emotions. Instinctive, universal was our choice of a white flower—a carnation—wherein to memorize motherhood.

The second Sunday in May, and for schools the second Friday, has been chosen as the day to observe as Mother's Day. The object is to honor and uplift motherhood, and to give happiness to "the best mother who ever lived"—your mother.

You are to observe it by loving remembrance of your mother, (or her memory) through some dustinct act of kindness, visit, tribute or letter. Live this day as your mother would have you live it.

Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia was the founder of this beautiful custom that forty-nine states of the Union, territories and dependencies have recognized and recommended as Mothers' Day.

The heart that throbs in response to the rose-petal touch of the baby fingers, holds at that moment, and forever thereafter, a limitless capacity for suffering, for sacrifice for unalterable devotion. The mother of children live their lives in additionto her own—agonizes in their pain, thrills to their success, quivers with their scheme, and dies in their death. The love of mother is the one unconquerable thing in the universe. Starved by neglect, stabbed by insult, bowed by disgrace, tortured by absence, it lives on—cheerful, dauntless, changless, to the end.

No service is too great, no martyrdom too unbearble for a mother. She is repaid a thousand times over, by a smile of affection, a brief word of appreciation, for years of sacrifice, toil and loneliness. She forgives—not "until seventy times seven," but until there is nothing more to forgive.

The love that floods the mother soul leaves no room for the harboring of any bitterness against the beloved. In this it differs from the love of lovers, of brothers and friends.

But there comes a day when the tireless hands are idle and we fill them with flowers—as we never thought of doing before. The blinds are all drawn over these windows of the soul where the great white love looked out at us. But can we believe that the light of that great love has gone out forever? Ah, no! Somewhere it is burning for us, and some day we shall find it again. Perhaps—who knows?—a new star-candle is lighted in the sky whenever a mother goes "home" to rest.

It is a beautiful figure—that of the mother's waiting at the gate of Heaven for her wayward sons, who, when they go, may need a mother's intercession at the great white throne. Think you they could go in—these mothers—and enjoy the beauty and peace of paradise, while the children they bore and loved were straying in the outer darkness?

And so next Sunday, whether the mother love be still at our side, warm, tender, and all-abiding; whether it be separated from us by earthly distance—or whether it be waiting for us "over yonder," patient and unchanged—we will wear the carnation, the white flower in her honor—a flower no whiter and far less sweet than the wonderful love it symbalizes.

For the sweetest word in our language is "Mother." Unfortunate indeed is the man or woman who cannot say from the bottom of his heart, "the best woman who lives is my mother," or if she has passed to the Great Beyond "the best woman who ever lived was my mother."

Not enough can be said or written of her. No words can adequately paint her virtues, her patience, her long suffering, her wondrous love; for whatever is good within us, we inherited from her or we caught the inspiration for it from her teachings. In all creations the mother must be the most important factor. Nature intended her so, for even among the brute animals the male will flee from danger while the mother will stay to fight for her young. It has been said by one of the great men of the day that "mothers are more important to the country than the soldier, the literary man or the man of science." Such comparisons are idle, for there is nothing in the world hat may be rightly compared with the mother-love. It surpasses everything; it is beyond comparison. Rich, indeed, is the man or woman who still possesses the mother-love and poor—how poor only those who have possessed and most know—is the man or woman who no longer have the wonderful blesssing.

We might try the experiment of indulging in praise and commendation instead of fault-finding and criticism. By commending that which is good in our midst we might unconsciously stimulate a desire in our own minds to improve that which is not good in order that it, too, might be commended and praised. The bitterest and most nauseating pill is rendered pleasant and agreeable by a little coating of sugar and it might be even so with the rough spots in our daily existence. Every great ending has had its origin in a small beginning and a few humble words of praise might produce results where hours of abuse would fall upon deaf ears.

Which Do You Prefer?

It is important for reasons of health and practical economy for every housekeeper to ask herself this question:

"Do I prefer a pure baking powder like Royal, made of cream of tartar derived from grapes, or am I willing to use a baking powder made of alum or phosphate, both derived from mineral sources?"

The names of the ingredients printed on the label show whether the kind you are now using or any brand, new or old, that may be offered is a genuine cream of tartar powder, or merely a phosphate or alum compound.

Royal Baking Powder contains no alum nor phosphate.

Prince Albert gives smokers such delight, because —its flavor is so different and delightfully good;

—it can't bite your tongue;

—it can't parch your throat;

—you can smoke it as long and as hard as you like without a comeback but real tobacco happiness!

On the reverse side of every Prince Albert package you will read:

"PROCESS PATENTED JULY 30TH, 1907"

That means to you a lot of tobacco joyment. Prince Albert has always been sold without coupons or premiums. We prefer to give quality!

PRINCE ALBERT

the national joy smoke

YOU'LL find a cheery howdy-do on tap no matter how much of a stranger you are in the neck of the woods you drop into. For, Prince Albert is right there—at the first place you pass that sells tobacco! The toppy red bag sells for a nickel and the tidy red tin for a dime; then there's the handsome pound and half-pound tin humidors and the pound crystal-glass humidor with sponge-moistener top that keeps the tobacco in such bang-up trim all-the-time!

in goodness and in pipe satisfaction is all we or its enthusiastic friends ever claimed for it!

It answers every smoke desire you or any other man ever had! It is so cool and fragrant and appealing to your smokeappetite that you will get chummy with it in a mighty short time!

Will you invest 5c or 10c to prove out our say-so on the national joy smoke?

"GINGLES JINGLES"

THE PRESENT.

Since yesterdays are has beens and tomorrows are not here, it's up to us to live the now and fill it full of cheer. How many people waste their lives who live in constant dread of what the morrow will bring forth. They fret and lose their head. Their clairvoyant dope is punk. Their gleanings on the blink. Their thoughts if classified would make the mental missing link. There was a time when we were right, and not so long ago. When we enjoyed the present; past and future had no show. We lived the sermon on the mount. Took heed but for today, but somewhere, somehow we branched off and lost our blooming way, and now we're always out of sorts and always in a mix. Our wisdom is but foolishness, and now our conscience pricks. We should reverse and beat it back, to where we left the track, and hike the straight and narrow, never stopping to look back. At first the journey may seem hard with old Nick on the job, and every impulse urging us, to mingle with the mob, but we must fight if we would win, and it is worth our while, to change the old life for the new, and for the frown, a smile.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY DUDLEY ELEVATED TO SUPREME COURT

Wesley C. Dudley, appointed justice of the Supreme Court by Governor Charles S. Whitman, is serving his third term as District Attorney of Erie county when the appointment was made. His term does not expire until Dec. 31, 1917. Mr. Dudley will resign when the senate confirms the nomination.

Perhaps no man has come to the Supreme Court bench with a better record as a lawyer, as a public official and as a citizen. While always a staunch Republican in politics, Mr. Dudley never permitted partisanship to interfere with his duty as a public prosecutor. It is a noteworthy fact that in 1914, when he last ran for District Attorney of Erie county, he was supported by Republican and Democratic newspapers.

After Mr. Dudley had served for many years as an assistant United States District Attorney, being engaged in some of the government's biggest cases in the district of West-ern New York, he was nominated for District Attorney of Erie county in 1908. He was elected by a majority of 2,500 votes. Three years later he was reelected by the overwhelming majority of more than 15,000 votes, and again, three years later, in 1914, when the Republican party was divided, Mr. Dudley was re-elected by a majority of over 9,000 in a three-cornered contest.

HON. WESLEY C. DUDLEY.

Notable among his achievements as a public prosecutor was his smashing of the "loan shark" business in Buffalo and the breaking up of the clairvoyant trust, which had established itself in Buffalo.

Not one of the 70 grand juries impaneled during his term of office failed to compliment the efficiency of his office.

That Mr. Dudley is not only a skilled, efficient lawyer, but he is also a man of great humanitarian instincts is shown by his record in handling abandonment cases. While Mr. Dudley was District Attorney he brought back to Buffalo 247 husbands and fathers who had abandoned their children. Heads of families returned to Buffalo by Mr. Dudley and placed under the probation system have been forced to pay for the support of their children, $132,436 in the last seven years.

Mr. Dudley's prosecutions of the "white slave" traffickers is regarded as one of his most important works as District Attorney, and has done much to improve moral conditions in Buffalo.

Mr. Dudley was born in 1867, in the town of Colden, Erie county. His early life was spent on a farm. After he was graduated from the country schools he entered the East Aurora academy, commencing teaching at 17, and thereby procured means which enabled him to complete his education. He was graduated in 1885. He continued to teach school, and became principal of the Sardinia Union school and later of the Union school at Aldren. He studied law in Springville, Erie county, and in Buffalo in the office of Rogers, Locke & Milburn, and was admitted to the Bar in Rochester in October, 1894.

Mr. Dudley was married to Floy B. Stickney of Holland, N. Y., in 1895. They have two children, a son and a daughter. He is a 32d degree Mason, a member of the I. O. O. F. the Elks and the Orioles.

Mr. Dudley was endorsed for this appointment by the Judges of the Court of Appeals, Appellate Division and Supreme Court residing in this Judicial district, and by a great many of the leading lawyers of Erie county, regardless of politics—Buffalo Evening Times.

NOTICE OF MEETING TO HEAR COMPLAINTS

Sunday is Mother's Day and will be duly observed. The young people of the League will have charge of the morning service, and a fine program will be given consisting of special music, readings, and an appropriate address by the pastor. A sunshine service for everybody. This is the League's announcement of the service:

"If I knew you and you knew me
How little trouble there would be.
We pass each other on the street,
But just come out and let us meet at church next Sunday.

This world is sure a busy place.
And we must hustle in the race.
For social hours some are not free
The six week-days but all should be at church next Sunday."

Whatever may be said of it as poetry the sentiment is all that could be desired for the purpose.

The W. F. M. S. will meet next Tuesday afternoon at the church.

Suffered Great Pain!

Latter Tells of Long-Looked-for Prescription.

Dear Mr. Editor—I am making a personal appeal to your readers who are bothered with kidney and bladder troubles and rheumatism, to give up the use of harsh salts, or alcoholic kidney medicines and in their place take a short treatment of "Anuric" and be convinced of its wonderful virtues as I was. I suffered great pain, had a great deal of irritation, water became foul. I tried everything advised but with no results. I sent for a box of "Anuric Tablets" and soon discovered that they brought relief. I have used them since, and now the water is natural, my health good, and appetite splendid. Some of the doctors pronounced my trouble enlarged prostate. Now I have no more trouble and I most assuredly feel that this latest discovery of Dr. Pierce's is the best remedy for bladder and kidney troubles that I know of. If I can induce anyone to give it a trial, I feel that he will thank me for calling attention to this great boon that relieves this seemingly worst of all troubles that human flesh can fall heir to.

(Signed) H. H. FLEISHER.

NOTE: Up to this time, "Anuric" has not been on sale to the public, but by the persuasion of many patients and the increased demand for this wonderful healing tablet, Doctor Pierce has finally decided to put it into the drug stores of this country within immediate reach, or send 10 cents for large trial package.

Simply ask for Doctor Pierce's Anuric Tablets. There can be no imitation. Every package of "Anuric" is sure to be Dr. Pierce's. You will find the signature on the package just as you do on Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, the ever-famous friend to ailing women, and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, proven by years to be the greatest general tonic and reconstructor for any one.

At any rate don't give up hope of being cured of your malady until just a few doses of "Anuric" have proven that it will make you feel like a different person.

EDITOR—Please insert this letter in some conspicuous place in your paper.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Hamilton B. Williams, Minister.

"Family Day" May 14.

On this occasion it is desired that the families of the congregation assemble to hear a sermon of special importance, and of inspiration. Let all the children be brought to church at this time that all may see the church of tomorrow." A day to be remembered will be this celebration of "Family Day."

The Federated Meeting, 7:30.

This meeting will be held in the Baptist church. Mr. Williams having been asked to give his "Community Talk" to the federation of churches in addition at this time, will be unable to be present.

The Sunday School

Needs but the "experiment in attendance" to be known as a religious life. Light comes by the Word—and out of Light, guiding. Moreover it is a pleasant sight to see the children.

The Mid-Week Conference

The minister is attempting to make Thursday evenings profitable by a discussion of current events in religious lines, activities and discussions as seen in the larger world. Thursday evening, 7:30.

The Kingdom of Heaven is like the leaven which hidden in the mass seems lost, but out of its quickening the whole mass is quickened and made to be what it should be. Religious meetings, our various little groups gathered together may seem to be of slight consequence. Nevertheless they are the vitality of the community, and out of their labor grows

The King's Kingdom.

PANTS AND TROUSERS WANTED.

A great lady in France wants 300 pairs of pants. Of course we know that "trousers" is the proper word, but that shorter and uglier word is so neatly rhythmic in association with the name of our great sister republic that we simply couldn't resist. The lady in question is Madame Waddington, author of charming and interesting books; and the trousers so devoutly desired are for convalescent French soldiers. A friend of Madame Waddington's has arranged to take to Paris all the good American trousers offered for the good cause and there is a dim hope that before very long there will be at least a few Frenchmen visible on the streets of Paris attired in nether garments that give the impression of having been made for a human being.—Hartford Courant.

HOW TO SAY "SALONIKI."

As to Saloniki, the people on the spot put the stress on the "ni," to make the penultimate syllable, and in this case the Italians seem to be at fault, for the spelling in their newspapers is "Salonicco." The Italian double consonant is a very strong emphasis, and, too, of Herzegovina, when it comes forward, as it probably will, its penultimate syllable.
