MARY PICKFORD

As the Beloved "Madam Butterfly," Auditorium, Saturday Evening.

It is rarely indeed that the motion picture public has been privileged to witness so exquisitely artistic a performance as that of Mary Pickford in the Famous Players Film Campany's screen adaptation of John Luther Long's immortal classic, "Madam Butterfly." The screen version of this famous love tale, celebrated in opera, novel and play, has preserved and enhanced all the poetic beauty and tenderness of the original. As the forsaken Cho-Cho-San, the little maid of the Flowery Kingdom, patiently waiting through the long months for the return of her faithless American husband, Mary Pickford presents an innocent, confiding, pathetic figure, who proceeds thru ner many sorrows with unconquerable courage and endurance. Only an actress of Miss Pickford's remarkable, magnetism and dramatic power could have presented a pantomimic impersonation of this famed character that will stand comparison with the artistry of hte stage and operatic standards already established. For pure pathos and dramatic appeal, the photo-production of "Madam Butterfly" has few equals in the whole realm of fiction, stage or screen.

LATE PLANTED CROPS AS A SUBSTITUTE FOR CORN SILAGE

The past spring has been so wet and late that it has been impossible for farmers to put out their usual acreage of corn for silage. In fact some of the farmers have no corn planted at all. There is a general inquiry at present for some late planted crop that can be used to fill the silo in place of corn.

1. Late Planted Corn—There is really no crop grown in the state equal to corn for silage purposes It is believed that up to the first of July corn will be the best crop to plant even tho it should not mature. Only the very early varieties should be used planted as late as July 1st. The planting should be very thick when put in so late. If drilled in as much as a third of a bushel to the acre should be used for late planting. The corn, of course, will not mature, but it will probably produce a better grade of silage than anything else that can be planted at that date.

2. Millets—Millets have been used more or less in the state for silage in certain regions at elevations too high to grow corn. The millets can be sown any time up to the middle of July and mature sufficiently for silage. For rather wet, flat lands or a wet season, the so-called Japanese millet will probably give the largest yield. On well-drained lands and seasons when it is not excessively wet, it is generally better to sow the common millet or German millet. The seed should be sown at the rate of about three pecks per acre on land that has been well prepared. Preferably on fresh plowed land in order to have it absolutely free from weeds as the millet starts rather slow.

3. Grass, Clover and Alfalfa for Silage—There is a large growth of clover, alfalfa and grass thruout the state due to the wet spring, and the chances are there will be great difficulty in putting up the hay crop if the rains continue. However, all of this green material can be used for silage by farmers who have missed planting their usual corn crop. As a general thing, straight alfalfa or straight clover does not keep very well in the silo when put in alone. It does not actually spoil but gets very strong smelling and is not considered first class. However if more or less grass is mixed with it, the silage is improved. It is recommended that wherever clover and alfalfa are to be used for silage that as much grass as practical be added to it up to a proportion of one-half grass. With the great danger of the first crop of alfalfa and clover spoiling on account of the rains, it will probably be very desirable for the farmers to put more or less of this crop in the silo.

4. Turnips—Turnips make a fairly satisfactory root crop for winter feed. The large Swedish turnips, ruta baga and the larger varieties of common turnips can be sown somewhat later. It is not necessary to drill turnips in rows and cultivate them when sown late in the season if the ground is freshly plowed and clean from weeds. They can be sown broadcast at the rate of 2 pounds of seed per acre and will produce a very fair crop with no other care.

FROM OUR BOYS IN CAMP

Editor Andover News:

Camp Whitman, July 3. — We are now nearly full-fledged soldiers. We hike about eighteen or twenty miles each day, and have all the regular duties of soldiers in camp.

Company K. boys are all in fine shape, excepting tired and sore feet, and a few with colds But we are all enjoying camp life.

There are about five regiments camping here now, so you can imagine the size of our little city of tents.

Each company in the Third Regiment of Infantry have a mascot. Company K., or rather we, have a pig; Company L., a dog; Company I., a goat; Company H., a game rooster; another company a woodchuck; others a mud-turtle or most anything so long as they find a mascot.

Sunday was visiting day. Automobiles were strung from about five miles below camp to the camp here, trying to get in. They could only move forward about a car length, at a time, so you may know something of the crowd that was here.

We are expecting orders to start for the border at any time this week.

I will close for this time.

THREE BOYS DROWN IN SILVER LAKE

One, an Expert Swimmer, Loses Life Trying to Save Two Companions

Perry, July 4.—Three youths, members of the boy scout troop of the Central Presbyterian churc of Rochester, were drowned in Silver Lake this afternoon, where the troop had gone for an outing. They are: John Cherry, eighteen years old son of Rev. C. Waldo Cherry, pastor of the church; Lawrence Clark, thirteen years old, and Werner Clark, eighteen years old.

The boys were in party of six in a boat crossing the lake. The boat capsized and Cherry, who was an expert swimmer, was drowned trying to save the Clark boys.

The bodies had not been recovered up to a late hour tonight.

When the boat capsized it drifted so far away that the boys were unable to reach it. It was with considerable difficulty that the survivors reached shore. The boat was not more than a half mile from shore when it capsized.

More than 40 men have been dragging the lake to-night for the bodies. The parents of the dead children arrived here tonight.

ANDOVER REBEKAHS GUESTS OF ALFRED LODGE

The trip was made by automobiles, fifteen cars carrying the members.

MARGUERITE CLARKE

As a Circus Queen at the Auditorium, Saturday Evening

Marguerite Clark, the dainty little actress, who has won the hearts of the motion-picture public by her marvelous artistry and her irrepressible vivacity in recent productions of the Famous Players Film Company, is being starred by that famous concern in "Still Waters," a story of the circus and of canal-boat life, written especially for Miss Clark by Edith Barnard Delano. This rare combination of comedy and drama is the Paramount attraction at the Auditorium, Saturday evenin

In "Still Waters," Miss Clark has an opportunity of supplementation as an incomparable ingenue by the greatest display of dramatic power which she has yet contributed to the screen. When the story opens, Miss Clark is a delightful little girl living on a canal boat with a stern old grandfather who forbids her to have anything to do with the outside world. Fretting under the restraint, she skips away from the boat and meets a young doctor—the first man that she has really been brought into contact with. The result is inevitable.

"Still Waters" gives Miss Clark the best opportunity which she has had thus far for the display of her versatility.

An entire circus was leased by the Famous Players Film Company for the purpose of taking the scenes, which occurred in and about the big canvas. Harry La Pearl, one of the New York Hippodrome's most celebrated clowns was engaged for these scenes, in which his comic antics form a pleasant contrast to the gripping drama in which Miss Clark, as Nesta, plays so tragic a part. Others who appear in support of the diminutive star are Robert Broderick, Robert Vaughn, Arthur Evers and others—especially Sally Ann—but you will never appreciate Sally until you see her

DAVID MULLEN

David Mullen, a farmer living in the town of Greenwood, six miles from Andover, died suddenly Sunday afternoon, of heart trouble, aged 50 years.

Mr. Mullen was one of a family of thirteen children, nine of whom are still living. He has always lived near the place of his death, and was a prosperous farmer.

Funeral services were held at his late home Wednesday, afternoon, Rev. H. B. Williams officiating. The burial was in the Mead cemetery.

I. O. O. F. MEMORIAL

The postponed memorial services of the Odd Fellows and Rebekah Lodges in Andover will be held at the Auditorium, Sunday afternoon next, at 3:30.

Deputy Grand Master Lyman J. Choney, of Salamanca, will be present and deliver the address. All are most cordially invited to this service whether members of the I. O. O. F. fraternity or not.

Members of the orders will meet at the lodge rooms at 1 o'clock.

MYRON P. LEWIS

Myron P. Lewis, son of William and Mary S. (Briggs) Lewis, was born July 20, 1853 and died July 1, 1916.

He has spent his entire life in this community, having been born on the George Bloss farm and having lived for forty-nine years on the farm which has been his late residence.

September 1, 1874 he was married to Nancy Jane Gardiner and to them were born five children, Alice Nye, of Whitesville; Floyd M., of Stannards; James E., of Vorhees Hill; Melvin Ray, of Rexville, and John E., of Independence. These with seven grandchildren are left to mourn the loss of a loving father and grandfather. The wife and mother passed to the life beyond April 8 1914. Since that time Mr. Lewis has made his home with his son, John, on the home farm.

Four of the brothers and sisters survive: M. G. Lewis, of Wellsville; Mrs. Ida A. Barns, of Independence; Mrs. Addie L. Richardson, of Hallsport; and Mrs. Minnie McClay, of Olean.

His sudden passing away, while not unexpected to himself and to those who knew his condition, came as a shock to the people of the entire community many of whom had seen him about his work and at family and social gatherings seemingly in his usual health, almost to the moment when the death angel called. Frequently he was heard to say: "I won't be here long." How short the time none realized.

A kind and accommodating neighbor has gone from our midst; one who saw the happy side of life, and enjoyed a joke, a hard-worker and a man who found chief delight in home and friends. He will be greatly missed from the home and community life. The sympathy of a wide circle of friends goes out to the bereaved family.

Funeral services were conducted at the Independence Seventh-day Baptist church, by Rev. Walter L. Greene. Interment at Independence.

THE FOURTH IN ANDOVER

Tuesday, July Fourth, was the quietest day Andover has seen in many moons; more so even than Sunday. Absolutely nothing was doing excepting the picture show in the evening.

The day was passed by most Andover people with picnic parties, family reunions, etc.

It sure was a "sane and safe" day in this old town.
