Hot Dawg! 880 Million of 'Em Eaten Last Year

Hot Dawg! The Packers and Sausage Manufacturers' Association has an interesting announcement.

Hot dawg, eight hundred and eighty million of them eaten last year. End to end, they would have surrounded the earth 16 times. But they were not placed end to end. They were spread with mustard and slapped between sliced buns.

The completed product, piled one upon the other, would have towered miles and miles and miles, the statistician was too bewildered to say exactly how many.

Eighty-eight million pounds of sausage-in-slickers last year; and ten frankfurters to the pound.

Pastor Begins Fourth Year

Last Sunday, February 10th, found a large attendance at the Baptist church. The Rev. J. H. Seely with this Sunday, has complete three years of very successful pastorate work with the local Baptist church.

Some ten days ago the deacons and several representatives in special conference, unanimously urged the pastor to continue his services indefinitely.

The annual business meeting of the church was held February 9th. As part of the regular business a finance committee was elected and a canvass of regular and associate members is going forward. Although this canvass is by no means completed a larger sum than usual has already been pledged.

An enthusiastic congregation is expected next Sunday, the Rev. Seely starts his fourth year. The pastor promises some interesting announcements.

WORLD WILL HEAR HERBERT HOOVER

The Broadcasting of the Inauguration Ceremonies to be on an Unprecidented Scale. Taking in Universe

The voice of Herbert Hoover, delivering his inaugural address March 4, will be heard around the globe.

A detailed description of the proceedings, including an eye-witness story of the inaugural parade four miles long will be heard by 50 million listeners in the United States, and millions of others in foreign countries.

"Recently we have had a striking demonstration of international broadcasting," says M. H. Aylesworth of the National Broadcasting Company. "A speech by the President of the United States, heard all over this country, was followed, within a few seconds, by a program coming to us from England.

"American programs are heard with regularity in Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia, New Zealand and South America. We have arrived at the point where radio communication to the masses of other nations is an accomplished fact.

"Frequently British programs are heard here with almost the clarity of a local station. These programs are received here in the late afternoon, altho they are produced in England five hours later in the evening—London time.

"On March 4, the next President and Vice President of the United States will be inducted into office. A detailed description of the proceedings will be sent to virtually every nation in the world, and the voice of our chief executive will be heard around the earth, thru rebroadcasts by powerful foreign stations.

"As a part of the inaugural ceremonies there will be a parade, four miles long, in which representatives will participate. Every state in the Union will have a delegation among the 20,000 persons who will participate.

"The radio audience in the United States and abroad, will hear descriptions of the parts that their representatives have in the celebration. They will hear the bands, the bugles and the fife drum corps as they pass the reviewing stand in which will be seated the newly inaugurated President and his official party.

All the color and enthusiasm of this quadrennial American ceremony will be brought to the world; all the solemnity of the occasion when a new President stands with his hand on the Bible and takes the oath of office.

"The world will hear the voice of America, and we believe that the world will be more closely cemented to us thru such broadcasts international as these."

COLLEGE BUILDING AT ALFRED BURNS

Babcock Hall of Physics Entirely Destroyed by Fire Tuesday Morning, at Alfred University.

A fire that completely gutted the Babcock hall of physics and caused a loss to Alfred University of more than $50,000, occurred early Tuesday morning. Nothing remains of the beautiful building but blackened walls.

University authorities are at a loss to place the cause of the fire. It had gained a good start when discovered. It is quite certain that the blaze started from an explosion in the physics department.

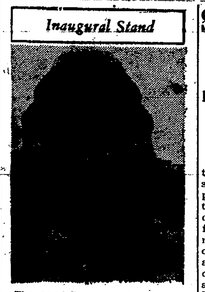
The building is partially covered by insurance.

Babcock hall was a gift to the university by the late George Babcock and was erected more than 20 years ago. It consisted of a two story building with capacious basement and was of brick construction and tile roof. The interior, however, was mostly wood and afforded excellent fuel for the raging fire which quickly spread from room to room eating away everything before it.

The hall contained the department of mechanics, manual trainingr physics department with laboratory included, besides one section of the mathematics department with necessary recitation rooms.

The interior was practically gutted and is deemed a complete loss. Due to the rapid progress of the blaze, firemen and students who turned out en masse to help, were unable to salvage anything of value. Movable furniture was carted out but when it came to disconnecting machinery, removing heavy equipment, the salvage was impossible.

Inaugural Stand



The partially completed inaugural stand in front of the Capitol where Herbert Hoover will take the oath of office as the thirty-first President of the United States.

BOYS' AND GIRLS' SPELLING BEE

Opened to Every Boy and Girl Enrolled in the Sixth, Seventh and Eighth Grades of School.

Some boy or girl in Western New York will have the opportunity to participate in the National Spelling Bee in Washington, D. C., as the best speller in the eighth judicial district, for the Buffalo Evening News and the Andover News are sponsoring the spelling bee in this territory. There are no national semi-finals in this contest. The Western New York winner advances directly to the Washington meeting.

The spelling bee is open to every boy or girl enrolled in the sixth, seventh or eighth grade of public, private and parochial schools in this territory. Boys and girls of this section will have equal opportunity to compete for the Western New York championship with other boys and girls from Niagara, Orleans, Wyoming, Allegany, Cattaraugus, Chautauqua and Erie counties, exclusive of the city of Buffalo.

To stimulate further interest in spelling and to reward the champions and runners-up in the various elimination contests, the Buffalo Evening News is offering the following prizes:

To the winners of the school bees: Certificates.

To the winner of each county bee: $20; second place, medals.

To the winner of the Western New York bee: Trip to Washington with all expenses paid.

For winner and escort, second prize, $50.

Announcement of the apportionment of the $2,500 prize money in the national contest is still to be made.

The elimination contests will begin in April. Selection of school champions and second best spellers must be selected on or before April 12. They will compete in the county finals May 19, which will be held in each county at places to be announced later. The county champions and runners-up will participate in the Eighth Judicial district finals which will be held May 10, probably in Buffalo. The national finals, in which the Western New York champion takes part, will be held in Washington, Tuesday, May 21.

Letters to principals of all accredited public, private and parochial schools inviting them to enroll their institutions in the spelling bee will be mailed within the next ten days. Stories on details and progress of the spelling bee, of intense interest to every grade pupil and teacher, will appear regularly in the Buffalo Evening News and Andover News.

An Ancient Document

Rev. Walter Dynes of the local Methodist church, brought to the News office this week a most interesting curiosity in the form of an ancient document. It was a grant of 1,453 acres of land conveyed to the Right Hon. Thomas Douglass, Earl of Sulkirk, of St. Mary's Isle, North Britain. The land conveyed was in the town of Dover, Kent County, Canada. The document was signed by Peter Russell. It was executed February 28, 1803.

The document was written and printed on genuine sheepskin parchment, and had a seal attached, not affixed. The seal consists of a piece of beeswax, paper covered, about three inches around and three-fourths inches thick in which had been stamped the royal seal.

The whole document is intensely interesting.

STARVING CHINA APPEALS FOR HELP

Rich and Poor Alike Are Suffering for Food. They Are Living on Chaff and Leaves.

Urgent appeals to the people of the United States for aid for the starving millions in China's northern provinces are coming to this country in increasing numbers, following detailed reports of suffering sent from the interior to Peping by famine investigators, American and other foreign business men, missionaries and government officials, according to an announcement made at the National Headquarters, China Famine Relief.

"North and South Shansi famine conditions are serious and in urgent need of help. Request your assistance," reads a cablegram from Bishop Fiorentini of Taiyuanfu, capital of Shansi province.

Another cablegram from Tsinanfu, the capital of Shantung province, which has been suffering from famine thruout the last year, brings a report from a party of six American investigators who have just completed a tour of the region in the northwest of that province. It says, in part:

"Well-off and poor alike are subsisting on chaff and leaves mixed with local unmatured kaffir corn and millet. We saw only the comparatively well-off in possession of enough good grain supplies for more than a few days. There is a large traffic in children. No market for land. Large sections are unable to plant wheat owing to the drought, which means that there will be no crop next spring and that destitution is sure to increase until the fall harvest."

Still another cablegram, received recently and made public by China Famine Relief contains a report from Rev. F. J. Griffith of the Church of England mission at Taiyungfu, in Shansi province, made after completion of a famine survey in that province and adjoining areas. Mr. Griffith says:

"Winter has ended the supply of weeds, and the impoverished in Suiyuan province are now eating bark and the outer husks of millet. The only trade is white slave traffic. Seventeen thousand girls who had been sold because of the famine have crossed the mountain from Suiyuan into Shansi and have been marched onward."

Back of these cables, it is announced, stands the comprehensive report made by a conference of famine experts at Tientsin in the middle of November. At this time the conference estimated that 12,000,000 men, women and children in nine provinces of North China were actually facing starvation and that the number of famine sufferers was certain to reach a minimum of 20,000,000 by spring. Since that time additional reports establish the fact that other areas are affected and it now appears that the figures given were too low.

On the basis of the report of the Tientsin conference, the China International Famine Commission of Peping announced that a minimum of $20,000,000 would be required for relief. The Chinese government and Chinese relief societies were asked to provide $8,000,000 of this amount. An appeal for the remaining $12,000,000 was sent out to the people of the United States and of the rest of the world. Since then, the president and vice-president of the government of China, China's Foreign Minister, her minister of railways and her minister of finance have joined in the appeal to the American people. The Chinese government has also remitted all taxes upon relief supplies given free transport for them and has guaranteed full protection for both supplies and relief workers in the field.

It having been decided that because of its sustained character relief of this great calamity does not fall within the scope of the activities contemplated by the charter of the American Red Cross, China Famine Relief, with the friendly commendation of the Red Cross, has undertaken to lead in asking for a response to the appeal from China.

An urgent request for funds from the China International Famine Relief Commission at Peping has come by cable, the executive secretary of that body stating that the purchase of a thousand tons of grain for shipment into the famine area had exhausted the funds then on hand, and the American organization responded last week with a remittance of $50,000 to meet the immediate need.

The funds being sent from the United States to China are being applied by the Peping Commission under supervision of a strong advisory committee, composed of leading American residents of China.

Contributors to the relief fund, it is stated, should be sent to James A. Thomas, treasurer, China Famine Relief, U. S. A., National Headquarters, 205 East 42nd street, New York City.

"PEPING" is the new official spelling of the name of the former capital of China, hitherto known as "PEKING."

To Study Institutions

LIEUT. GOV. LEHMAN

BECAUSE OF HIS life-long interest in institutional management, finance and building, Lieutenant Governor Herbert H. Lehman, a member of Governor Roosevelt's Cabinet, has been requested by the Governor to make a study of State institutions. Lieutenant Governor Lehman's study will include virtually every State institution and will embrace a survey of the physical plant as well as developing first hand knowledge of management conditions. The Lieutenant Governor will begin his study at the close of the current session of the Legislature.

NEW ROAD SIGNS WILL SAVE LIVES BRANDT BELIEVES

Albany.—A large decrease in the number of accidents at intersection state highways is anticipated during this year through adoption by the highway division of the Department of Public Works of a luminous reflecting stop sign, many thousands of which will be erected on roads intersecting main line highways.

"Under the law," Highway Commissioner Arthur W. Brandt said, "it is illegal for anyone to enter or cross a main line highway where one of these signs is erected without first coming to a full stop. If obeyed it should result in a decrease of accidents at highway grade crossings which are now one of the most prolific sources of accidents. It is hoped that local officials will cooperate with the department and take drastic action toward those who do not obey this law."

During 1928 contracts were awarded for all the remaining necessary directional and danger signs. From now on it will be necessary only to erect signs on new roads built and placed in service each year.

WOULD REGULATE FISH AND GAME BY COMMISSION

Albany—The legislature would be relieved of the duty of studying and passing upon fish and game regulations and the authority would be placed in the hands of an advisory commission in the State Conservation Department, under the Byrne-Auleta bill, now before the Legislature.

Senator William T. Byrne, who introduced the measure in the upper house, believes that the time of the Legislature is too valuable to be taken up with these regulations.

The proposed law provides that Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt within thirty days after its passage shall appoint an advisory commission of 27 members, three from each judicial district, to meet at least once each year to "formulate rules for the possession, sale and transportation of fish and wild game." They would serve without compensation.

More than a dozen bills pertaining to fish and game have already made their appearance in the 1929 Legislature and legislators report that the total before the end of the session may reach fifty.

FORCE ACTION ON ROOSEVELT BILLS

Waterpower Only Part of Program Yet To Go Before Legislature.

Albany.—Nearly all legislation designed to carry out the recommendations contained in Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt's inaugural message to the Legislature has been introduced and Senator Bernard Downing and Assemblyman Maurice Bloch, Democratic leaders, will move for a record vote on each measure before the end of February.

Waterpower legislation, which has not been fully agreed upon, will provide the remaining important subject for the consideration of the Legislature. It is expected that the greater part of Governor Roosevelt's program will be disposed of before the power program is whipped into legislative shape.

Senator Downing and Assemblyman Bloch announced yesterday that unless the committees report Governor Roosevelt's program before the end of February motions will be made to discharge the committees from further considering the bills so that the decks can be cleared for an early adjournment date.

Would Save Time

Two measures which Senator Downing and Assemblyman Bloch are anxious to have passed this winter provide for great saving of legislative time. One is the Byrne-Auleta bill which permits the creation of an advisory council in the State Conservation Department to make fish and game regulations. The other, sponsored by Senator Downing and Assemblyman Bloch, permits suits against the State for personal and property damage to be started in the Court of Claims without the necessity of the Legislature passing on each claim. Already thirty-three claim bills have been introduced and there are about forty proposed amendments to the conservation law. The Democratic leaders believe that the time devoted to such measures could be more advantageously used in settling the more important problems of the state.

Three of Governor Roosevelt's recommendations, the four year term for Governor, abolition of state census and publication of campaign expenditures before election, are in the judiciary committees presided over by Senator George R. Fearon of Syracuse and Assemblyman Edmund B. Jenks of Broome.

Asks Referendum

In moving to bring these measures to the floor of both houses for vote the Democratic leaders will refer to Governor Roosevelt's desire to meet the issues in a fair way as outlined in his message. On the four year term proposal, Governor Roosevelt has said:

"The only way to solve this question is to submit it frankly and fairly to the people of the state. If you are unwilling to pass a new Constitutional amendment, which is my recommendation, providing for the election in off years, I ask you in fairness to submit this simple question to the voters by referendum for an expression of their opinion at the next November election. That would seem to be a practical way as well as a course of good faith."

Census abolition will be sought by the Democratic leaders who believe that the cost is a useless expenditure. If the state census is abolished the figures compiled by the federal census will be used for the purpose of state apportionment.

Parting Hymn No. 23.

Mrs. Clarinda Brundage

Mrs. Brundage was born in Andover, Nov. 25, 1841, one of a family of ten children. About 1860 she was married to L. W. Brundage, who died in 1892. He served in the Civil War in the 85th Regiment, N. Y. Volunteers and returned as lieutenant. To them was born eight children, four of whom are living, Mrs. C. B. Blowers of Perry, N. Y.; Mrs. Frank Langworthy of Plainfield, N. J.; Mrs. E. R. Langworthy of Geneva, Ill., and Roy Brundage of Andover; ten grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

The last ten years have been passed with different members of her family. She died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Blowers in Perry, N. Y., Tuesday evening, February 19, 1929.

Mrs. Brundage was one of Andover's esteemed residents, meeting the burdens of life bravely, with a smile and cheerful word for all. She was a loyal member of Edward Seaman Relief Corps of this village.

Mrs. Brundage was a musician of ability, possessed of a voice of remarkable power and sweetness of tone, which she retained in her last years; her singing has been a delight to her large circle of friends, whose sympathy will be extended to the bereaved family.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon, February 22, 1929, at the home of her daughter in Perry, with burial beside her husband at Greenwood, N. Y.

Grange Notice

Everyone seemed to enjoy the Valentine lunch at our last meeting.

All are urged to be present at the next meeting, Feb. 27th, and "do your bit" for George Washington, also to help make plans for the coming Pomona, March 7-8 at Andover.
