Thanksgiving

THANKSGIVING DAY has become such a universally observed national holiday that few people realize that its general observance on the last Thursday in November is quite a recent development. All of the states of New England and some of the other northern states had an annual day of thanksgiving by the proclamation of the Governor, but while this custom came from the earliest colonial times, it seldom happened that more than two or three states picked the same day.

The real "mother of Thanksgiving Day" was Mrs. Sarah Josepha Hale, who was the editor of the first magazine published especially for women, Godey's Lady's Book. Mrs. Hale, before 1850, tried to get the President of the United States to issue a proclamation for a national Thanksgiving Day. Mrs. Ruth E. Finley, in her new book, "The Lady of Godey's," tells how she bombarded president after president with her demand until, in 1863, President Lincoln issued the first national Thanksgiving proclamation, naming the last Thursday in November as its date. From that time on every President has issued such a proclamation, and since the 1870's the Governor of every state has also proclaimed the last Thursday in November as Thanksgiving Day. Since there has never been an act of Congress on the subject, Thanksgiving Day is not technically a national holiday, but it would be difficult to keep the people of any state from observing it, even if the Governor forgot to issue his proclamation.

In recent years there has been a tendency to take Thanksgiving Day lightly. We are all to much inclined in good times to take credit to ourselves for our blessings, whatever they may be, while in times of distress it is a very human inclination to ask "what have I got to be thankful for?" We hear lots of people asking that question this year, but in our opinion one of the best cures for pessimism is to stop thinking of your hard luck and try for one day to think of all the good things that have come your way since last Thanksgiving.

There is, perhaps, small consolation in that for people who have lost their faith in spiritual things. But we believe that the great majority of Americans, by whatever name they may call their religious creeds, still believe that there is a Divine Providence which has guided and still will guide our nation, and when we consider the state of most of the people of the rest of the world, we feel that there is ample ground for a National Thanksgiving Day.

Women without husbands can usually give the best advice on how to manage one.

Angled to All Questions

IN SIZING up things, especially those having a bearing on local conditions, it is well to remember that there is more than one angle from which a question may be viewed.

Far too many people err in judgment purely from haste and overzealousness.

Impressions are often formed at first glance, and unless a person is willing to examine beneath the surface and consider all available facts, those first impressions will remain and become fixed convictions, irrespective of whether they are right or wrong.

Injustice to a good cause is often done by this method of sizing up things and immeasurable harm to an individual, a group of individuals or a whole community may result.

Then there is a class of citizens who, having formed a hasty conclusion, refuse to recede from their position, even when confronted with indisputable proof of their error of judgment. That is pure and unadulterated stubbornness.

But here, as elsewhere, there are many people who are quick to form impressions, but are willing to, and do, analyze the arguments of the opposition, and are completely changed as the result of the additional information thus acquired.

Sizing up local conditions is an admirable trait, but undue haste in forming lasting conclusions is much to be regretted.

Best results are obtained by taking a calm survey of the situation from every conceivable viewpoint before taking a definite stand.

Communities prosper and grow when their citizens adopt this plan.

One advantage which the old fashioned cotton stockings had over the modern silk ones, is that the girls got more mileage out of them.

Who Wants to go Backward?

PEOPLE who mourn for what the call "the good old days" are a silly lot. Who wants to go backward? To desire to return to the past is to admit that the sap has ceased to run.

The London of today is the most fascinating of all places for a student of history. Its old buildings suggest romance and remind one of daring deeds.

But who of us would care to go back to the days when those old buildings were new? Back in the 17th century or thereabouts—if we are to take the word of John Ridd in Blackmore's "Lorna Doone"—"The lanes and fields, between Charing Cross and the village of Kensington, are, or were at that time, infested with footpads and highwaymen."

At that time, in the country districts of England, wheeled vehicles were unknown. The roads were so bad the people either went horseback or in sleds which could be jerked along over rough places. When an occasional wheeled vehicle made its appearance in a community, its owner was looked upon as an introducer of a dangerous, possibly a sinful, innovation.

And think how uncomfortable the palaces of the nobles were at that time. Would any same man trade his comfortable central-heated home of today for a castle thru which the biting winds swept, hindered a wee bit here and there by tapestries, but never harmed much by the fires on the hearths?

Who wants to go back to the good old days?

L. & C. Stores Staging 16th Anniversary Sale

Hornell, N. Y., Nov. 18.—The L. & C. Stores of Hornell are staging their 16th Anniversary Sale. Crowds of shoppers from a radius of 50 miles have come and for Saturday the L. & C. Co. have arranged more real special bargains for their many customers.

Manufacturers, friends, makers of cloaks, dresses, millinery, children's apparel, hosiery, etc., appreciating the L. & C. Co.'s business for the past 16 years, have co-operated 100 per cent. by sending in real fine merchandise at ridiculously low price and in turn the L. & C. Co. have given their customers the benefit of these great values.

Every department has special values for instance, some all wool silk lined coats with fur trimmings at $7.88. Another group at $11 and at $14.50, a group of Coats that really sold up to $24.50.

In the Dress Department you will find nice dresses as low as $1.49—and at $4.94 a line of several hundred dresses with values as high as $10.00.

The Millinery Department is featuring hats as low as 39c and special values in blankets. You never saw such blankets in merchandising history. The bargain basement is just loaded with bargains in underwear for ladies and children, yard goods, house dresses and a special group of ladies' fine winter coats at $3.95.

The L. & C. Annex is featuring children's coats as low as $2.95—children's dresses as low as 49c, wonderful hosiery values, corsets, etc.

All in all, the store is just alive with bargains and it will pay you to come miles to see these bargains and values.

SCHOLASTIC ORGANIZATIONS

Our school should have more organizations of various kinds. At present we have a good start with a live paper, and athletics which include track and basketball. Our activities should be more rounded out, we should have a Glee Club, and a Debating Club for those who like these things. A Student Council would also be a very good thing for students, and the school alike. A Hall of Fame is also a good thing for a school as it increases school spirit, and interests underclassmen in other activities. A school band or orchestra would also be another good thing as we have plenty of really talented musicians. It would be very nice to have a band to play at athletic events. We have not even got a real school song and that is something that we really should have. We should have a school song contest, and also a cheer contest so that whoever is appointed cheer leader will have some good cheers. All of these things greatly help to increase school spirit. Andover High School may be a small school but let us prove that we are up to the minute.

—J. Roger Tuttle.

EAST SIDE 7, WEST SIDE 0

Last Friday afternoon saw the East Side-West Side football game. The game was very hotly contested thruout. Both sides were evenly matched. "Deac" Clarke with good interference toted the pigskin 35 yards for the only touchdown. "Deac" then rushed the ball over for the extra point.

The West Side's big 202 round tackle, Brewster was called into the backfield in the last quarter and did some spectacular line-plunging. The game ended before this line-plunging could be converted into touchdowns.

Much credit is due to Herman Ingraham who despite the fact this was his first game, played like a veteran.

A return game will be played this afternoon, on the Silk Mill diamond. Both teams are confident of winning this game and it is sure to be an exciting game.

—M. Brundage-J. Mulholland

Editor's Note.—When Brewster finished his third line plunge he looked and acted like Paul Alderson at the end of the "mile."

? ? ? HEARD BY THE ? ? ?

I think it would be a good thing: If Johnny Cannon would settle his affections on one girl and not chase them all.

If Will Brown would respect the Monroe Doctrine as far as a certain blonde Sophomore is concerned.

If Teresa Dean would stop talking nonsense long enough to answer a few questions in her classes.

If Cecelia Edwards would leave off a little of the surplus "Sherwin-William" and "Gold Medal."

If Johnny Herrick stopped placing his arms around every girl in the halls.

If Johnny Croyle discovered that he really is not such a good playwright as he thinks he is.

If Francis Cable was back in the Eighth Grade.

If all Hi students would speak of this fine high school so I might know how to better it and make it more pleasing to you.

I know it wouldn't be a good thing if some Hi fan knew just who I was. That is, it wouldn't be a good thing for me.

NAVY SINKS THE ARMY

The most successful Crowell Subscription Campaign ever conducted by Andover High School closed last Tuesday at 1:15 p. m., with the Navy sinking the Army to the depth of 58 to 36. A total profit of $55.50 was made. This amount was a little more than enough to pull the Athletic Association out of debt. We wish to thank all those who contributed to the success of our campaign. Remember that your money is doing double duty in that it furnishes you with fine reading material and the A. H. S. teams money for their various sports.

Now for the other side of the campaign. The school was divided into two groups, the Army and the Navy. The former led by Jimmie Mulholland and the latter by T. J. Lynch (good old Joe). Francis Cable was the business manager of the campaign while Mr. Perrone and Miss McElree were the faculty advisors for the Army and Navy respectively. No doubt the Navy parade led by Admiral Joe Lynch which was held immediately after the Assembly program on Friday was the feature of the campaign. The Army mule took such a beating at the hands of Admiral Lynch and his forces that General Mulholland and his cohorts are hoping to do the same to the Navy goat whenever they find it.

The losing side, the Army, entertained the Navy at a party held in the High School gymnasium last night. Only those that sold one or more subscriptions were invited. In the next issue of the Hi Herald look for the details of the Army-Navy party.

P. S.—Mr. Patrick D. Perrone and Mr. James B. Mulholland wish to take this opportunity for publicly congratulating Miss McElree and Timothy Joseph Lynch, Jr., upon the Navy's success. We would hand over the Army sword if they would promise to eat the razzberries sundaes the Army might buy them.

—Jim E. Mulholland.

THANKSGIVING PROGRAMS

Thanksgiving Day programs will be held next Wednesday morning in the High School Auditorium. The Grade Assembly will start at 9 o'clock while the High School Assembly will commence at 11:15. Parents and friends are cordially invited to both assemblies.

ATTENDANCE SCORES

Come on, you Seniors, Sophomores and Juniors, quit playing hookey. Don't you ever want to get that half day off (but still it might be partly the teacher's fault). Here are the scores for the past month and just notice where you are:

Grade	Score
Sixth	10.71
Fifth	15.00
Eighth	21.74
Third	37.00
Seventh	37.74
Frosh Boys	38.75
Frosh Girls	41.53
Fourth	45.60
Second	50.80
First	55.20
Juniors	57.40
Sophomores	58.26
Seniors	103.75

Low score wins.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL PRACTICE

The A. H. S. girls held their first basketball practice last Monday afternoon. More than enough were out for two teams. Altho the squad is mostly made up of underclassmen the team should be successful. Some of our games will be played on Friday afternoons this year.

Miss Ruth Slocum sprained a finger during the first practice session but the injured member expects to be out to the next practice.

—H. Pope.

BOYS' BASKETBALL PRACTICE

About 14 boys attended the first practice on Tuesday afternoon at 4:30. Basketball fundamentals served for practice habits. Some of the Freshmen handled the ball like veterans and should see action in the games if they keep on improving.

GATUSI CAMPFIRE MEETING

The Campfire Girls held their council fire in the school library last Thursday evening. At this meeting we took in our new members, Miss Ruth Slocum and Miss Edna Joyce.

Ruth Slocum told of her traveling experiences last summer. The girls read poems about the good things in each month.

A very impressive lighting ceremony was performed by Florence Parker, Mary Spicer and Wood. The honor beads were awarded and the girls extinguished the fires. Refreshments were served and the meeting was adjourned. —H. Pope.

He: "Dearest, your stockings seem rather wrinkled."

She: "You brute! I haven't any on!"

ASSEMBLY PROGRAM

Last Friday a very interesting assembly was held by the boys of the Freshman Class, under the direction of Mr. Perrone. James Cannon was the master of ceremonies who introduced all of the notables.

The program was as follows:

"It is Thirteen Years," Edwin Alderson
National Hymn of France, Assembly
"Tribute to America's Dead in the World War," (Marshall Fosh, Commander-in-Chief of the Allied Forces), this was given in French by James Mulholland.
America ---------- Assembly
"Tribute to America's Dead in the World War," (Haig Feild, Marshall of the British Forces), Oliver Kruger
Tribute ---------- Howard Gath
(General Pershing, Commander-in-Chief of the American Expeditionary Forces).
One Minute Tribute.
All the assembly stood in silence for one minute in memory of the soldiers.
Taps and Echo,
Wisner Cook, Francis Vickers
The Star Spangled Banner, Assembly

After the regular assembly, a parade, led by the navy band, was held in the gym. Joe Lynch was the drum major and handled the broom stick pretty well. Of course, the army mule was there and he sure was maltreated by the navy men. It ended by the navy men killing the army mule who died a slow death on the stage. Joe Lynch says that the army subscription team will die the same way.
