

THE ANDOVER NEWS

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR.

HAMILTON C. NORRIS, EDITOR

ANDOVER, N. Y., May 24, 1893.

Grover Pratt of Rushford, W. B. Manley of Belfast and Charles Ricker of Fillmore are announced as candidates for County Treasurer.

The cost of the Chinese Exclusion Act, if it should be enforced, would not only be the $6,000,000 required to deport the Chinamen, but the loss of a trade worth $25,000,000.

The Presbyterian General Assembly met in Washington Thursday with about 600 members present. The assembly expects to remain in session about ten days and will dispose of much important business, including the famous heresy case of Dr. Briggs and the proposed revision of the Church Creed.

Judge Lochren, the new Commissioner of Pensions, has made a decided stir by announcing his purpose to make the local Medical Boards which examine applicants for pensions in all sections of the country exclusively democratic, instead of allowing the opposition one out of every three members, as has been the custom ever since those boards were established.

There is not much doubt but the World's Fair at Chicago will have a decided tendency to keep all kinds of provisions up in price this year. Americans who usually go abroad every year will largely stay this side the water, becoming consumers at home; and thousands of foreigners will become consumers here also as visitors to the World's Fair. Then again, eastern producers will be benefited by the great crowds at Chicago who will consume the produce of the west, and thus prevent its coming east to compete in eastern markets with like products of eastern producers.

So far as the deportation of the unregistered Chinese is concerned the U. S. Government is about in the same fix as the man who couldn't if he wanted to, and did not want to anyway. The Government hasn't enough money available to send 1,000 of the more than 100,000 unregistered Chinamen back to their homes, and it is not probable that any attempt will be made to send any of them back until Congress appropriates money to pay the expenses. This predicament was entirely unexpected, as it had been the opinion of the President and nearly every member of his cabinet that the Supreme Court would declare the Geary act unconstitutional, but it is now history that the court by a vote of 5 to 3 decided it constitutional. There has been lots of talk about the probability of the Chinese government retaliating by driving all Americans out of China, but the Chinese minister here has assured Secretary Gresham that his government not only would not attempt to retaliate, but had already taken ample precautions to protect such Americans as reside in remote parts of China from attacks which mobs of ignorant natives might be inclined to make upon them when the news reaches them. It is not regarded as very probable that with the present rather low state of available cash in the Treasury Congress will vote the $6,000,000 estimated to be required. It is thought more likely that a compromise allowing those Chinamen already here to remain will be the final result.
