MAY

MAY, generally considered one of the most attractive and pleasant of the twelve months of the year began yesterday, and will be joyously heralded as the forerunner of summer after a late spring. Flowers should appear, garden work should be on its way. We should be definitely "out of the woods."

The origins of the names of most months are easy to trace; not so for May. It is generally agreed that it was named for Maia, the Roman goddess of Spring.

Originally, May was the third month but it became fifth when the Romans placed January and February at the beginning of the year. It always has had 31 days. Its special flower is the hawthorn and its gem the emerald.

Since earliest times the first of May has been marked by outdoor festivities and children have danced about the maypole for hundreds of years.

May is marked by many important historical anniversaries. Here is one for each day of the month:

May 1, Dewey's Manila Bay victory, 1898; 2, death of da Vinci, Italian artist, 1519; 3, birth of Machiavelli, Florentine sculptor and writer, 1469-1529; 4, Rhode Island throws off British yoke, 1776; 5, death of Napoleon, 1821; 6, birth of Robert E. Peary, first to reach North Pole, 1856-1920; 7, Cunard Line Lusitania sunk by German submarine with loss of 1,198 lives in 1915; 8, Battle of Palo Alto began, 1846; 9, President Adams appointed this a national fast day, 1798; 10, Last spike driven in Union Pacific railroad, 1869. America's first trans-continental railroad.

May 11, Minnesota admitted to the union, 1858; 12, Mother's Day; birth of Florence Nightingale, founder of modern nursing, 1820-1910; 13, first telephone exchange, 1878, in Massachusetts; 14, Gen. Pershing in command of U. S. Armies in France, 1917; 15, gas explosion in the Cleveland clinic caused death of 125 people in 1929; 16, three U. S. Navy seaplanes made first attempt to span the ocean by air, 1919; 17, birth of Edward Jenner, discoverer of vaccination, 1749-1823; 18, peace conference at The Hague established permanent court of arbitration in 1899; 19, treaty between U. S. and Mexico ratified in 1849; 20, Lindbergh began flight to Paris, 1927.

May 21, American Association of Red Cross founded, 1881; 22, Leopold and Loeb murder of Franks child in Chicago, 1924; 23, South Carolina ratified the constitution, 1788; 24, first telegraph message sent in 1844; 25, birth of Ralph Waldo Emerson, 1803-1882; 26, Montana territory created; 27, Charles Lindbergh and Ann Morrow married, 1929; 28, first Yank victory at Cantigny, France, 1918; 29, birth of Patrick Henry, 1736-1799; 30, Memorial Day; 31, Johnstown flood, 1889, 2,209 lives lost.

Father Goes Fishing

THIS year April has been a month more like March—capricious winds, snow and floods. The fact that in April the fishing season is open sets the month of April as a special month and fishing a special event. Father went fishing! Not that fish had much to do with it, as it wouldn't be wise to depend for food upon his fishing. The psychology of the activity has puzzled many a person. Few can appreciate what a day of freedom in the woods and meadows can mean to a father and his youthful companion.

The amount of fishing that is done is of little consequence. It is the experiences, the happenings that live long in the memory. The mother partridge and many small brownish streaked downy babies discovered at the edge of the woods. How cleverly Mother Nature has provided the protection of these inhabitants. The mother snake and several little ones sunning themselves. How it was learned that most snakes were good friends of the farmer. If we can keep our feet on the earth and remain meek and lowly, our heads would have a better chance of living among the stars.

Other "fishing" trips, when the mother deer and twin fawns were startled by their favorite spring. The time the bee tree was discovered and father told about the wonderful society in which the bee lives.

Yes, that kind of "fishing" has many justifications. Indeed it should be part of every youngster's education.

Garden Holds No Bare Spots

FIRST comes one warm day then another and the face of the world changes. Buds venture a peep at the sun. Inquiring sprouts push up thru the dark earth to the light. The office worker looks up from his desk with far-away thoughts.

Forsythia bursts into sudden gold; grass is alive and green; vanishing violet and languishing lilacs in some latitudes serve to reiterate what every fancier of flowers knows well—that the joy of raising roses is tempered by the shortness of the season. He goes in for tulips but finds that the growing season is over before it really starts. Those who dote on chrysanthemums must await the advent of autumn, altho scientists are making wonderful progress by shortening the sunlight and hastening the coming of the "vernal season."

Happy then, is the man, who having space and opportunity to indulge his horticultural hobby, recites with flowers the entire agricultural alphabet from Asters to Zinnias. For him the garden holds no bare spots. From the time the Early Darwins display their bloom until the the first frost silvers the marigolds, he lives despite sweltering summers, in a land of enduring spring.

Tightening Bands of War

IN THE famous saying of Kipling,' "In the Spring look for trouble in the Balkans," just now, despite the fighting in the Scandinavian area and Nazi reported strongholds, Americans are no less shocked by the Nazi war on defenseless Norway and possibly Sweden than they were by the Soviet attack on Finland. But they have not grown too numb to feel the succeeding impacts of violence upon European civilization, nor too bewildered to sense their wider implications.

We find ourselves attempting to maintain in practice a complete neutrality which we cannot maintain in thought. We are not ready to make European war ours in any military sense. Yet we are coming closer and closer to the question of whether we can refuse such aid as we may give thru economic means to those who are fighting and suffering because to fight seems at present the one alternative.

The Allies face a hard task and the geographic setup is not in their favor. However, it would be a mistake to judge the final outcome by the reverses they have suffered in the early stages of the war.

Motor Vehicle Commissioner Mealey Issues Warnings

Albany, May 1.—Motor vehicle license issuing offices thruout New York State have begun the renewal of chauffeur licenses which expire May 31, 1940.

Commissioner Carroll E. Mealey of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles last week advised district and county clerks' issuing offices to prepare for the May renewal period and additional supplies of application forms have been forwarded.

Chauffeurs who are uncertain about the expiration date on their licenses are advised to examine them.

With "moving day" here again, the commissioner also reminds motorists about changes of address. The Vehicle and Traffic Law requires all car owners and operators to notify the commissioner in writing of any change of residence within ten days.

Hundreds of licenses are suspended every moving season because motorists overlook this provision of the law.

Plans for Wellsvlile Parkway Announced

Details for the proposed parkway along the east bank of the Genesee river just off Main street were announced last Thursday evening by David A. Young, president of the Wellsville Chamber of Commerce at the annual banquet.

The proposed plan provides for a parkway along the Genesee river from Fassett street to West Pearl street with an extension of Madison street to the parkway. Tentative plans also call for the setting aside of a plot of land on the river bank for the construction of a fire station, village lockup and police justice offices, as well as considerable parking space.

This project has been under construction for some time and if carried out will be a big help in solving Wellsville's parking problem.
