Died, in the town of Hartsville, Monday, May 29, 1893, Nora, wife of J. E. Appier, aged 26 years. The deceased leaves a babe about two weeks old. The funeral was held at the house this afternoon. Much sympathy is expressed for the husband by his neighbors and friends.

It will be seen by advertisement in another column that the village trustees have decided to again submit to the taxpayers of the village the question whether they desire to own and maintain a system of water works. This action is the result of a petition recently presented to the Board. On account of a lack of time and space, more extended remarks upon this subject are deferred. Investigate the matter of water works. If it is a good thing we want it, otherwise we do not.

It is seldom Mr. W. J. Penny cracks a joke intentionally but when he does, it counts. Monday morning he was conversing with a scribe when their talk drifted into different classes of news. Finally Mr. Penny told the pencil pusher that in Andover the other day a man was kept in the lockup for twenty-four hours without anything to eat or drink. Thinking he had a good juicy story in tow, the newspaperman's eyes flashed while he eagerly asked the question "why?" The answer was concise and logical: "He was dead."—Cuba Patriot.

Frank Corkins, one of the hands employed by Lee's circus, which was in Andover last Thursday, was arrested by officer Clarence O'Donnell on a charge of assault in the second degree committed on the person of T. J. Regan. L. C. Van Fleet appeared for the people and the prisoner was arranged Friday morning before Justice Harman. After arraignment Corkins decided to obtain counsel, and he secured the services of attorney Crayton L. Earley. The examination lasted nearly all day, and the prisoner was held to await the action of the Grand Jury. Officer O'Donnell took him to Angelica Saturday.

The candidates in Allegany for Assemblyman and Treasurer this fall, who have been announced in the public press are: Assembly, Dr. A. T. Bacon, Canaseraga; J. E. Munn, Oranell; Wm. Weaver, Angelica; Treasurer, Charles Ricker, Fillmore; W. B. Manley, Belfast; G. M. Pratt, Rushford. The books of entry probably will not be closed before the middle of September, and there is every indication that this list will be more than doubled before convention day. We understand there is no opposition to School Commissioner Pollard for a second term, and there should not be, for he has made an efficient and faithful official.—Cuba Patriot.
