Red Cross, OCD Look to Volunteers For Civil Defense

Washington, D. C.—To the question, "What can I do for America?" the Red Cross is providing an answer for hundreds of thousands of men and women who want to do their part on the civilian defense front.

For women, the Red Cross is providing an 80-hour training course to recruit a corps of 100,000 Nurse's Aides. It is the Red Cross' newest project, undertaken at the request of the U. S. Office of Civilian Defense to relieve the current pressure on nursing facilities.

With thousands of nurses being taken into military service with our armed forces, civilian nursing has suffered a direct blow, the Red Cross points out. Moreover, the defense program has created additional health problems which has heightened the need for civilian nursing.

Red Cross Nurse's Aides will serve as assistants to registered nurses, performing scores of important duties which will enable nurses to care for more cases. The Red Cross stresses that Nurse's Aides will not take the place of the registered nurse, but will serve in an auxiliary capacity.

On the more dramatic side of civilian defense, the Red Cross is gearing its far-flung disaster fighting machine to handle mass feeding, housing and clothing of evacuees under wartime conditions. In cooperation with the Office of Civilian Defense, chapters are strengthening disaster relief committees to cope with man-made disaster much on the same scale as relief operations following natural catastrophe. Organization along these lines include preparedness measures for fires, explosions and epidemics which may be expected to result from accelerated industrial activity incident to national defense or sabotage.

Strictly as a precautionary measure, the Red Cross is devising means of confronting emergency relief in the event of sporadic air or sea attacks, considered conceivable hazards in some coastal and boundary areas.

The need for First Aid in civilian defense has not been neglected by the Red Cross. Last year nearly 600,000 were trained in emergency treatment of the injured. This year the figure is expected to go much higher with special emphasis being placed on the formation of detachments which would serve as units in factories, office buildings, schools and other places where persons are concentrated.

Red Cross courses in Home Nursing and in Nutrition also are being expanded as a feature of the civilian defense program, it was pointed out. Mounting health hazards and the shortage of civilian nurses may at any time obligate the housewife—or even the man of the house—to assist in caring for the sick. Likewise, the Red Cross is placing greater emphasis on Nutrition courses designed to teach householders the art of purchasing and preparing well-balanced meals within the range of the family pocketbook.

Many Hunters Successful In Bagging Deer

Various Deer Stories Heard. Buffalo Party Bags First Buck of the Season In This Vicinity.

Deer hunters have been running wildly about Andover all this week, some with a smile and many others with a growl.

The first deer of the season locally was shot by Hannibal Loudt of Buffalo. Mr. Loudt and a party of friends went hunting with John Lever on Lever Hill and at 7:10 had his deer, a 190-pound eight-point buck.

Other successful hunters reported so far are: Donald Emery, Francis Mead, Harold Scribner, Ralph Shaff, Clayton Burger, Basil Dunham, Victor Hoagland, Richard McAndrew, Howard McAndrew, Carl Honegger, Floyd VanCurren, Carl Monroe, Warren Gilleland, Theodore Gilleland, Clinton York, Kenneth Waters, Harold Wyckoff, Leon Perry and William Doran of Andover and Reg. Kinnear of Towanda.

We have listened attentively to all kinds of deer stories (all unofficial of course) but the best one made the rounds Tuesday morning. The Short cabins on Route 17 were all filled Monday night with ardent hunters, who rushed out early Tuesday morning in quest of venison. The report has it that a bread truck coming into Andover a little after seven had to stop a few feet above the cabins to let a flock of deer cross the road, two of which were bucks.

Another report (also unofficial) is that one of the deer bagged had exceptionally poor vision and was easy prey to the hunter's blitzkrieg.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our thanks to all who showed kindness in our hour of bereavement. To the Rev. L. H. Kerns for his kind words, to the ones who furnished cars and flowers and to the neighbors for their kind sympathy.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Goodridge and family.

Lady: "I ain't got no time to read no magazines."

Salesman: "Glad to send you the latest book on correct English."

County Draft Board Gets Call For Examinations

Total of 37 Men Called From Allegany County For Pre-Induction Examination.

Last Friday Allegany county's two draft boards received a call for a total of 37 men to report in Buffalo for pre-induction medical examination.

This is the first call made to Allegany county draft boards under the new pre-induction examination program. The new procedure calls the selectees for final examination prior to the induction call. The men will be taken to Buffalo by bus, examined and returned to their respective counties the same day. If they pass the examination they will be given at least two weeks in which to arrange their personal affairs before leaving for camp, and if they do not pass they are at liberty to continue as before. This program does away with men leaving jobs, etc., to report for examination at Buffalo and then if they do not pass the physical examination be out all the way around.

The Wellsville board has been called to send 23 men to Buffalo on December 1 and the Belmont board will send 14 men on December 2.

The contingents will leave their respective communities at 8 o'clock in the morning on chartered buses. The buses will be held in Buffalo until all men have been examined and are ready to return to their homes.

The calling of 23 men for pre-induction examination however, does not necessarily mean that 23 men will be called in the next induction quota, which is not expected until after Christmas.

Undergoes Operation

The New Motor Vehicle Safety-Responsibility Law At a Glance

The new Motor Vehicle Safety-Responsibility Law, passed unanimously at the last session of the legislature, becomes effective Jan. 1, 1942. Because it directly concerns some 3,000,000 licensed motor vehicle owners and operators of New York State, and indirectly every citizen, this newspaper, in collaboration with the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, will present a series of articles setting forth the salient provisions of the law.

This first article will discuss the aims of the law and the conditions under which a person may come under its provisions. Subsequent articles will discuss the methods by which requirements of the law may be met, the operation of the law, judgments taken under the law, penalties and exemptions, and miscellaneous requirements and restrictions.

As its title indicates, the law has two general aims: First to establish financial responsibility on the highways by requiring that anyone who owns or operates a car shall pay for damages he causes to others or forfeit his driving license and registration plates; secondly, to serve as an incentive for better driving by increasing the motorist's stake in safety and placing a premium on good driving records.

The statute is NOT a COMPULSORY insurance law. A motorist is not required to take out insurance as a prerequisite to obtaining a driver's license or registration plates. A careful driver who avoids involvement in an accident and maintains a good driving record will not be denied the use of the highway. But, as will be seen from reading the provisions of the law in future articles, if he is involved in an accident he will suffer much less inconvenience if he is protected by insurance or a bond.

Anyone who owns or operates an automobile may be affected by the provisions of the law, including those which call for revocation or suspension of his driving license and vehicle registration, in any of the following circumstances:

1—If he is involved in an accident resulting in any personal injury or property damage in excess of $25;

2—If he fails to satisfy within 15 days an accident judgment in any amount for personal injury, or for property damage in excess of $25;

3—If his driver's license is suspended or revoked as the result of certain convictions, such as reckless or drunken driving, or leaving the scene of an accident;

4—If his driving record is such that the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles feels it is in the best interest of the public to require proof of future financial responsibility.

Under certain circumstances, the law also affects residents of New York State while operating cars in other states or in Canada. For instance, if a resident of New York State is convicted of certain offenses such as drunken or reckless driving, or has a judgment taken against him in any other state or in Canada, upon receipt of notice of this fact the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles is required to proceed in the same manner as tho the occurrence were in this state.

All provisions of the act also apply to non-resident owners and operators using the streets and highways of New York State under the same circumstances as they would apply to a resident.

Thruout the law reference is made to security and to financial responsibility for the future. These terms should not be confused. Security, the law states, shall cover damages for an accident which has already occurred; financial responsibility for the future insures payment for damages in a possible future accident. The application of these terms may be explained as follows:

Following an accident which results in property damage of more than $25, or personal injury in any amount, owners or operators, or both, of the motor vehicles involved are required by the law to put up security to satisfy any judgment which might arise because of the accident. If they are unable to show that they were covered by insurance or were satisfactorily bonded at the time of the accident, security must be furnished in the form of money, other negatiable collateral or bonds.

The amount of security required will be determined by the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, but shall not exceed $5,000 to $10,000 for bodily injury and $1,000 for property damage. In the average case, of course, it is reasonable to expect that the amount required will be well below these maximum figures.

When an owner or operator in any manner becomes subject to the new law, he must not only put up security but must also immediately furnish and thereafter maintain proof of financial responsibility for the future in order to retain his driving and registration privileges.

Proof of financial responsibility means proof of ability to pay up to $5,000 because of one injury or death, up to $10,000 because of injury or death of two or more persons and up to $1,000 for property damage resulting from an accident.

The law provides three methods whereby this proof may be given:

1—By furnishing proof that a "five-ten-and-one" motor vehicle liability insurance policy, written by a company authorized to do business in New York State, is in force, or

2—By filing a corporate or personal bond guaranteeing payment in the same amounts, or

3—By depositing $11,000 in cash or in securities which have a market value of $11,000.

Another article explaining the law in operation, will be published next week.

Another Truck Overturns At Greenwood

Local Firemen Make Two Runs to Greenwood, One Last Wednesday and the Other Monday Night.

Andover's new fire truck made two runs to Greenwood in the past week, the first last Wednesday about noon when a large truck and tractor overturned on the corner of Main street and Route 17 and fire was feared from the gasoline.

The truck, driven by Stephen G. Karl of Allegany was loaded with steel rails enroute to Cameron Mills and went out of control when the brakes gave out about 200 feet from the intersection. It struck a parked automobile in front of the Dale Baker store and overturned, completely pancaking the car.

Edward D. Benson of Canisteo, driver of the car, which was owned by the General Food Sales company of Syracuse, was in the Baker store at the time. Karl, driver of the truck, and George Wolf, also of Allegany were pinned in the cab but when finally released from the wreckage proved to have suffered only minor injuries.

This intersection, one of the worst on Route 17, has been the scene of several bad accidents and many near ones and steps should be taken to eliminate this hazard of a sharp turn into traffic at the foot of a steep hill.

The second call came about 9 o'clock Monday night, when fire was discovered in the home of George Case. After a quick run the blaze was extinguished with small damage to the home.
