ASK The Scientist

If you have a question to ask the scientists, mail it to the New York Press Association ,The Castle, Syracuse, N. Y. The Science Board of the Radio Workshop at Syracuse University will answer each week in the Andover News those questions considered most interesting and timely.

Question 1.—An Axis spokesman recently justified the alliance of Japan, Italy and Germany on the grounds that the Japs are yellow Aryans. Could this be true, and to what race do the Japanese belong?

Answer.—The concept of the Aryan race arose in connection with the people of Persia centuries before Christ. Strangely enough if we were to pick a single small area of the world for the seat of the origin of the Aryan race it would be Iran, that small country which England and Russia just occupied to the east of Turkey. Centuries before the Christian era the more supreme of the tribes there called themselves the Aryan race.

The term Aryan has no meaning whatsoever biologically. The most simple definition is probably that the Aryans were the ancestors of the white people. So there can be no such people as yellow Aryans. Aryans must be white by definition.

The most simple breakdown of the human races classifies all people into three races in terms of hair type. The smooth-haired people are the Mongolians, the kinky-haired people are the Negroes, and the wavy-haired people are the Caucasians. Or, these may be classified in terms of color. The yellow are the Mongolians, the black are the Negroes, and the white, the white or Caucasian. The Japanese are distinctly of the Mongol group.

Some of the Japanese characteristics are as follows: The average height of a male Japanese is 5 feet 3½ inches. The average height of the female is 4 feet 10½ inches. The average height of the Korean, just a little farther south is 5 feet 3¾ inches. The average height of the Chinese is 5 feet 7 inches.

The height of the head as compared to the length of the body is greater in the Japanese than in any other people. The height of the head among the English is about one-eighth that of the body. The height of the head of the Europeans is about one-seventh that of the body, and the height of the head of the Japanese is more than that.

Japanese have shorter legs. The Japanese have prominent cheek bones and what appears as a flat face. They have straight hair and a yellow to a yellow-brown skin. The Japanese are not easily ruffled when they are provoked or troubled. They do not fear pain or death. Their supreme virtue is loyalty to the throne and to the country. They have a great pride of race and patriotism. It borders on fanatisism. All of these characteristics make the Japanese a formidable enemy.

The Japanese are more closely related to our Indians than they are to any other people and they compare most closely with the Carib Indians of the northern parts of South American and the Carribean Islands not the Indians of Peru and Columbia and Mexico, but those of the eastern side of the continent.—Dr. Ernest Reed, geneticist.

Question 2.—What is disappearing ink?

Answer. Disappearing ink is composed of certain chemical substances which will slowly change to a colorless or invisible material. If, for example, one writes with a dilute solution of starch, the writing will turn blue on exposure to vapors of iodine, but one standing for some time the color fades out completely.

Another disappearing ink is made from cobalt chloride. The writing is invisible until it is headed whereupon it turns blue. If one breathes upon it or allows it to stand for a time, the writing fades again to invisibility.

There are many so-called secret inks which are invisible until they are treated with a suitable chemical which develops the color. One of the simplest of these is lemon juice. The writing may be brought out with a hot flatiron or by holding the paper over a low flame. This, however, is permanent once the color has been developed.—Dr. Aden King, chemist.

Thirty years ago this week Morris E. Gregory of Corning donated the site of the Steuben County Tuberculosis hospital, which for several years has been out of existence, on the condition that the institution be named the Gregory Tuberculosis hospital.

The farm house on the farm recently purchased by Floyd Kaple of Reuben F. Jenkins was completely destroyed by fire, caused from an overheated stove. Mr. Kaple suffered not only the loss of his home but also sustained heavy losses from farm produce which was stored in the cellar. However insurance was carried on most of the property.

Listed also with fire damage this week is the heavy loss by fire at Canisteo, February 11, when flames destroyed the Comfort building, Zeltwanger's meat market and the Burrell Jewelry store.

We are glad to note that Mrs. Charles Robinson is making a successful recovery from blood poisoning of the hand, caused from the mere prick of a pin.

At the meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union Friday Mrs. Sylvia Mourhess and Mrs. Flora C. Deming were elected delegates and Mrs. W. H. Adams and Mrs. Frisbey alternates to represent the Andover Union at the county institute to be held in Belmont Feb. 28-29.

Miss Jessie Bloss attended the silver wedding given in honor of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Bloss on Thursday, Feb. 15, this being her 25th wedding anniversary.

Atty. and Mrs. Jesse Grantier were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Pease, Sunday.

Leo Raufenbarth attended the Knights of Columbus ball at the Federation building in Hornell Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Richmond of and Mrs. Frank Bloss of Andover, Sunday.

H. E. Snyder was in Jamestown, guest of Miss Howard, Saturday and Sunday.

Edson Langworthy was a business visitor in Buffalo Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Richardson were in Buffalo Tuesday.

Dairymen Are Being Urged To Shun Union

John L. Lewis Is Again Attempting to Inflict His CIO Yoke Upon New York State Dairymen.

We are reprinting the following article from last week's Belmont Dispatch, relative to the proposed plan of John L. Lewis and the CIO to take over the New York Milk Shed. We heartily agree with this article especially in the thought that dairymen should give this proposal a lot of deep study before making any rash moves:

New York State dairymen are again being approached by John L. Lewis' CIO organizers and the word has gone forth that a determined effort is in progress to unite the important milk producing bloc with the United Mine Workers of America.

It will be recalled that the CIO made a brief invasion into Allegany county last year when it essayed a meeting at Andover, only to have it broken up by Legionnaires, quickly assembled by means of the loud speaker system at the Angelica fair, then in progress. The organizers left most peremptorily.

On account of this most recent attempt of the movement to enter the state and in belief that sooner or later Allegany county dairymen will come in contact with same, The Dispatch editor has made contact with one, A. C. Pilger of Batavia, a practice of the Genesee County Cooperative, well versed in the CIO movement, and a prominent downeast agriculturist, and herewith passes along his "beware" views to local clientile with a view to their enlightenment if and when the time should arrive:

The Batavian, recognized thruout the state as an authority on milk price structures and legislation, declares that the DFU is acting "in desperation" and "is jumping from the frying pan into the fire."

Mr. Pilger charges that the CIO is capitalizing on a "jittery" frame of mind of some farmers who are losing their presence of mind because of their inability to make a living and because farm prices are not advancing in proportion to those of other commodities.

"Secretary of Agriculture Wickard and the farmer co-operatives working together under the laws," in his opinion, "hold the only true solution for the farmer's well being.

"That has been clearly demonstrated in the milk industry during the past four years. What is needed to perfect this machinery is to have farmers flock to and support the farmer-controlled co-operatives whose leaders will work intelligently with highly-trained men under Mr. Wickard's leadership.

"This is the only sensible approach—working with men who understand the agricultural business rather than throw huge sums of money into the hands of people (the CIO) who will enrich themselves at the farmers' expense without having the knowledge or the inclination to do any constructive good for the farmer.

"I am told on good authority that the CIO is readying an invasion of New York State farms. My one hope is that dairy farmers will, before acting, give their informed leadership opportunity to present both sides of the case."

The Batavian explained that dairymen in the North Central states were the first to affiliate with the CIO "and they are paying ten cents a cow as an initiation fee and three cents per hundred pounds of milk in dues. Co-operative members here are assessed only two cents per hundred pounds and the co-operative renders a multitude of services, maintains an office for records, handles transportation and takes care of all details.

"Mr. Lewis charged fifty per cent more and renders no service except possibly to furnish leaders for strikes and send out his henchmen to muster more enrollees.

"Why do farmers who are the most conservative people in the country, commit themselves to such a thing as this? It's difficult to find an answer for this question, but my reply is to ask this question:

"Why did the Germans throw themselves under the yoke of Hitler? The men who wrote the Versailles Treaty tilled the soil for Hitler's rise to power. I don't believe the Michigan farmer loves John L. Lewis or his program, but somebody has compelled a set of circumstances whereby the misguided farmer espouses that cause as the least of all evils.

"What are the circumstances?—The inability to make a living, because farm commodities, farm prices are pegged, but the one great thing that goes into the cost of farming is not. That is organized labor which goes into most everything the farmer buys. It is not pegged and will not be.

"And it won't, too, because organized labor holds the voting strength and the politicians won't harm that vast reservoir of votes.

"In his recklessness, the farmer may reason that Mr. Lewis has led the battle which prevents a ceiling over his followers and so will throw tremendous funds into his treasury which is accountable to nobody."

Dairymen's League Meets At Belmont

The monthly meeting of Allegany County Dairymen's League was held at the town hall at Belmont on Monday, Feb. 23rd. The morning session was devoted to delegate reports and a business discussion. There was considerable discussion of the false idea given by the monthly reports of the market administrator as to the increased value of the milk this year over last. These reports fail to take into account the increased cost of producing the milk.

Following dinner served at Ward hall, Mrs. Francisco, president of Amity local, welcomed the members. Mr. Payne, division representative of Elmira spoke of the necessity of strong farm organizations. He stated that farmers are being called unpatriotic because they are demanding a better price for their products. Farmers are not attempting to enrich themselves but without a living price, they cannot hope to hire high priced labor and buy products necessary for high milk production. He urged farmers to think before joining any group allied with a labor organization since not only the farmer himself would come under such an influence but his hired help and all persons performing services for him.

Director Clarke reported on the milk situation and stated that the present price of cheese, butter should be over 50 cents a pound. Mr. Burton of the 4-H spoke on "Victory Gardens" and Mr. Harrington of the Farm Bureau on farm meetings to be held in the future.

The Home Department of the county presented a program which included a report of the activities in each local during the past year, Mrs. Lewis Middaugh, chairman of the associate delegate presented Miss Ann Schoonmaker of New York who spoke on the requirements that war has placed upon rural life, and urged more neighborliness and stated that democracy starting at home continues in the community. At the conclusion of her talk Miss Schoonmaker showed colored moving pictures taken in the county.

Donald Joyce Assigned to Army Vehicle School

Ft. Knox, Ky., Feb. 20.—Acting upon orders issued by Maj. Gen. Jacob L. Devers, Chief of Armored Force, Technician 4th Grade, Donald L. Joyce, 22nd Engineers, 6th Armored Division, son of B. L. Joyce, 52 Chestnut street, Andover, N. Y., reported for a special course of instruction in the Wheeled Vehicle Department of the Armored Force School, "college" of that ultra-mechanized "blitz" branch of the Army.

Headed by Maj. Claude A. Black, the Wheeled Vehicle Department trains skilled experts who maintain and repair the numerous types of wheeled vehicles used by the Armored Force, including the famous "Jeeps," the little "Blitz buggies" or "peeps" and the armored scout cars. The 60-day course is three, including the fundamentals of shop practice and theory of mechanics.

The mammoth 350-building school only one of its kind in the United States, operates 12 hours a day, six days a week, with two six hour shifts It graduates 24,000 enlisted men and 1,440 officers annually as qualified technicians from ten different courses. Started Nov. 4, 1940, the school is commanded by Gen. Stephen G. Henry.

Forest fires in New York were more numerous and losses greater in 1941 than in any of the preceding five years. Statistics compiled by the Conservation Department show that for the 12 months of last year 2,700 forest and brush fires resulted in the burning of 30,501 acres of land or an average of 11.3 acres for each fire. Long periods of dry weather is given by the department at the cause of the increase.

Total Livestock Increased In All Sections

The number of cattle, hogs, and sheep for the country as a whole saw very sizeable increases in numbers from what they were a year ago, according to a State-Federal report issued from the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets.

The number of horses and mules continued to decline, but the number of cattle, hogs and sheep increased, with cattle and sheep numbers both making new all time records and hogs reaching the fourth highest level in over 15 years.

The largest relative increase was in the number of hogs, which was up about 12 per cent. This increase in numbers was a result largely of the large fall pig crop of 1941, which was up 18 per cent from that of 1940.

The number of all cattle on the farms of the country increased during the year by 3,146,000 head to 74,607,000 head. This was an increase of about four per cent during the year. The number of milk cows increased about three per cent.

On January 1, 1942 there were more stock sheep on the farms of the country than there had been during any of the past 50 years.

The number of both horses and mules continued to decline during 1941, with horses down four per cent and mules three per cent. The number of both horse and mule colts raised in 1941 was smaller than in 1940.

Andover News Again Sponsors Spelling Bee

National Buffalo Evening News Spelling Bee Off to a Good Start With 366 Entries Already.

The 1942 National Spelling Bee has gotten off to a good start. The competition conducted for the public, private and parochial schools of Western New York by the Buffalo Evening News, and sponsored in Andover by the Andover News, already has 366 entries altho the contest has not yet been officially announced.

These early entries, it is felt, reflect the high regard with which educators hold the spelling bee, for this is the 15th year the contest has been held in Western New York. The 1942 bee will be governed by the same rules which have been in effect for the past several years.

In six Western New York counties—Allegany, Cattaraugus, Erie, Genesee, Niagara and Orleans—the school superintendents have adopted the National Spelling Bee as the official means of selecting representatives for the State final spelling bee to be held in Syracuse. All the schools in those counties are expected to enroll in order that the best speller may be found for the state and national contests.

Prizes for every school will be distributed by the Buffalo Evening News. The champion speller of each school will be given a copy of the fifth edition of Webster's Collegiate Dictionary. The second best speller will receive a certificate of merit.

A gold medal will be awarded each county champion, while the county runner-up will receive a silver medal. Both champion and runner-up will take part in the Western New York final, which will be held on May 9th. The third best speller will receive a copy of the second edition of Webster's New International Dictionary (unabridged).

The Western New York champion will receive a trip to Washington during the last week in May in which he or she will participate in the National final of the spelling bee. Prizes ranging from $40 to $500 will go to the National winners. The prize money is so distributed that even if a speller misses the first word pronounced, he or she will receive a cash prize of $40. In addition to the prizes in the National contest there will be several days of sightseeing. The champion speller's expenses, plus those of an escort, are paid by the News.

The following schools in Allegany county did not wait for formal announcement of the 1942 National Spelling Bee. They were enrolled last week by the teacher or principal whose name is listed with the name of the school:

Alfred-Almond Central, Harold F. McGraw; Andover Central, Glenn E. Bretsch; Belfast Central, Everett R. Dyer; Belmont High, Frederick M. Strate; Bolivar Central, J. Frederick Whitford; Canaseraga Central, Dayton E. Murray.

Cuba Central, Alfred L. Colburn; Fillmore Central, Andrew F. Haynes; Friendship Central, Robert E. Witter; Rushford Central, Agnes H. Norris; Wellsville Junior High, Geo. P. Jammer; Immaculate Conception, Wellsville, Sister M. Pierre.

Amity 3, Bernice Hartigan; Alma, 5, Alice Cady; Bolivar 7 (Vossburg) Myrtle Shirey; Genesee, 6, Alice H. Baker; Angelica 5, Hester Isaman; West Almond 8, Anna A. Crandall.

MARKET BASKET

Your Dollars Go Farther at Your Market Basket Stores

One of the most important jobs in our Victory program, is the job of the housewife who plans menus, markets for foods, and converts them into meals. Rely on your Market Basket store for good foods—as economically priced as possible.
