

THE ANDOVER NEWS

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR.

HAMILTON C. NORRIS, EDITOR

ANDOVER, N. Y., July 19, 1893.

Twelve preachers calling themselves recruits of heaven have set up a tent in Tipton, Ind., and hold services night and day without intermission. They preach the early end of the world with the fervor of fanatics. Hundreds flock to hear them. They profess to go into trances and preach while in this condition. Scores of their converts develop the same powers, and tell wonderful stories of their visits to heaven and hell.

By an almost unanimous vote, a large majority of the World's Fair directors decided last Friday that after July 16 the gates of the Exposition shall be closed to the public on Sunday. But this action, it appears, does not finally settle the question. A temporary injunction obtained several weeks ago by Chas. W. Clingham, one of the stockholders in the Exposition company and a tax payer of Chicago, compelling the gates to be kept open, still stands in the way.

The lower house of the Michigan legislature lately voted to restore capital punishment in that state, the penalty to be inflicted only upon conviction through direct testimony, circumstantial evidence being held as not justifying the death sentence. Since the abrogation of the death penalty in Michigan, crime, it is asserted, has increased. The size of the majority voting for its reinstatement indicates a radical change in popular sentiment in favor of the new law.

Whether Pasteur and Koch's peculiar modes of treatment will ultimately prevail or not, their theory of blood-contamination is the correct one, though not original. It was on this theory that Dr. J. C. Ayer, of Lowell, Mass., nearly 50 years ago, formulated Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

M. Hammerly, a well-known business man of Hillsboro, Va., sends this testimony to the merits of Ayer's Sarsaparilla: "Several years ago, I hurt my leg, the injury leaving a sore which led to erysipelas. My sufferings were extreme, my leg, from the knee to the ankle, being a solid sore, which began to extend to other parts of the body. After trying various remedies, I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, before I had finished the first bottle, I experienced great relief; the second bottle effected a complete cure."
