LESSON SUNDAY SCHOOL

JOSEPH SOLD INTO SLAVERY

International Sunday School Lesson for September 13, 1942.

Golden Text: "Love envieth not." I Cor. 13: 4.

Lesson Text: Genesis 37: 23-36.

The story of Joseph is one of the interesting romances of the Old Testament. It reads like a modern story with its unexpected developments and ends with everybody happy and in prosperous condition. Joseph's character stands out in unusual prominence, being one of the old patriarchs of whom no great sin is recorded. Throughout the record, the portrayal of him is one that wins respect, gains sympathy, and causes rejoicing at his ultimate great success.

Joseph's boyhood was marked by unusual traits and events. He was the favorite of his father. Jacob, being the elder son of Rachael, the beloved wife. The affection bestowed upon him and the faith entained in regard to him by Jacob were justified by subsequent developments. Joseph proved faithful in every trust and his fidelity to righteousness and principle was remarkable.

Joseph's brothers hated him, unjustly perhaps, but very easily understood from a human standpoint. He appears to have fixed his convictions early in life as to the errors of life about him, and whenever one of his older brothers acted otherwise. Joseph promptly carried the news to old Jacob. A tattle-tale, as it were, and the world, as a rule, doesn't admire such performances, especially the victims of such straigt-forwordness.

However, it should be borne in mind that Jacob trusted Joseph probably with reason, based on experience, and purposely sent him out to obtain a report on the way his other sons were taking care of his business. It was Joseph's duty to report the truth, and he did so, to his credit.

Modern society suffers many evils today because, under a mistaken idea as to good-fellowship, good men and even officers of the law wink at violations of the statutes. Often it is our duty to report, to discountenance certain customs, and only the recreant and unworthy would want another man to sacrifice the integrity of his life to shield shortcomings.

Men in public life allow graft to pass unchallenged rather than make a row, sit quietly by at misgovernment and political favoritism unless the issue is driven into their faces in so public a way that it can not be avoided. Duty often leads to unpleasant tasks but all honor to the man who shoulders the burdens regardless of popularity or personal fortune.

Another cause of the jealousy of Joseph's brethren was the open preference Jacob exhibited in his behalf. Rather unwise for a parent, jointly responsible to all his children, and usually creating resentment among the other sons and daughters. In Joseph's subsequent peril, only one of his brothers sought to preserve him from any disaster, but he was only successful in reducing the crime from murder to selling Joseph into slavery.

Joseph had dreams, which he frankly and innocently related to his family circle. These were interpreted as indicating that Joseph would rule over them all and another cause of envy and animosity was engendered. Only Jacob, fond parent, found fond enjoyment in the contemplation of the heights to which his son might go. Aside from the lesson proper but interesting is the speculation as to why dreams were relied on then, and God's abandonment of such tokens to man later. Dreams play a big part in Joseph's life—what do you think about them?

Joseph's dreams may have reflected the living thoughts of the youth. The high station which the dreams held out may have been the sleeping reflection of the living ambition in the heart of this Jewish boy. There may be some who will condemn such a spirit. It is well to keep in mind that ambition, like most things in life, can serve both good and evil purposes. An ambition to accomplish something commendable or to develop into a distinguished personality is excellent if accompanied with unselfishness and a desire to serve.

These visions to the youthful Joseph probably had a great influence upon his life. Youth is the period of dreams, when ambition takes shape and ideals influence action. Too often the world has suffered because young men and women refuse to follow the call of a great challenge, either deprecating their own possibility or questioning the aid of Providence in accomplishing their goals.

Age, with the stern realities of life, chills the inspiration of idealism, and doubts the potency and genuineness of the dream. Our advice to young people would be to treasure their dreams and visions and to apply their energies and capacities to their fulfillment.

Joseph's brothers were intensely irritated with him. They resented his predictions and they were jealous of the favor he found with Jacob. So, one day, near Dothan, they saw him coming and said: "Behold, this dreamer cometh," and discussed killing him. Reuben suggested that they leave him in a dry well and Judah subsequently proposed that they sell him into slavery, which they did. His coat, the emblem of his father's partiality, was carried back to the aged Jacob as evidence of Joseph's death. Yet, as we go into the story later, we shall see how all things work for good to those who trust God.

"Old Timers" Take Top Honors In Local Ball Series.

Another Game Will Be Played This Sunday, Preceded by Band Concert.

Heavy hitting by "Bob" Ingersen, Fay Boyd, and "Bollie" Scott of the Andover "old timers" team was just too much for the local Occupation baseball team Sunday in the local baseball series between the two teams. And with Charles Ruger's pitching and two timely hits by his men on bases. "Bob" Ingersen took over the pitching stopping the town team's hits, for "Bob" can really throw that high hard one.

"Pete" DeRemer was outstanding behind the plate for the old timers.

This Sunday's game between the same two teams will be preceded by a band concert, played by the American Legion band from the grand stand at the athletic field from 2 to 4 p. m.

Junk Salvage Drive Here Next Week

Everything From Small Bolts and Nuts to Obsolete Farm Machinery Wanted by the War Effort—Need Is Urgent—Do Your Bit.

Andover will join next week in the nation-wide drive to obtain scrap metals and other materials so badly needed in the war effort.

The immediate need of this scrap is urgent and every man, woman and child in the country is expected to come to the front in this national drive for scrap materials, the lack of which is already beginning to hamper the war effort.

The materials most critically needed at present are scrap metals of all sorts—iron, steel, lead, brass, copper, aluminum, etc., scrap rubber of all kinds, burlap bags and rope. There is no call for tin or paper in this area at present, according to county Salvage Chairman Richard Embser of Wellsville. Mr. Embser states that the tin from this area will be taken as soon as the tin salvage plant in Buffalo can be put in operation, and the response for paper in the recent paper drive was so great that there is still sufficient waste paper in supply at Buffalo. These will undoubtedly be asked for from this area in the future, but at present the critical shortage is in scrap iron and steel.

In Andover the collection is not sponsored by any organization. The local Salvage Committee has made arrangements with junk dealers to come into Andover, collect the junk and pay the owner for it when he gets it. All the committee wants to know is WHERE THE JUNK IS.

Get your junk collected and call any member of the following committee—C. M. Holt, H. W. Jackson, Robert E. Spicer, Howard Burdick and Ralph Burgett.

The final day will be Saturday, Sept. 26 "Junk Rally Day" but the committee asks that you notify them regarding your junk before Saturday if possible.

Every bit of junk metal is wanted and sorely needed, if you haven't sufficient junk to sell, kindly bring it to Holt's Garage where it will be sold and the proceeds from junk left at the garage will be donated to the USO fund.

The main thing is—Get your Junk into the War Effort—Junk the Axis to death.

Local Blackout Was 100 Per Cent

Andover's participation in the Niagara Frontier blackout Wednesday night was 100 per cent. Within five minutes after the alarm was sounded at 9:50 there wasn't a light to be found here, and no violations of any nature were turned in by those in charge. The "all-clear" sounded at 10:20.

Those in charge wish to express their appreciation to all Andover residents for their fine co-operation in carrying out the black-out regulations.

News Briefs About Local Boys In U. S. Service

In a letter from Air Cadet Leo Fulkerson telling of a change of address he writes:

Sept. 8, 1942

Dear Mom and All:

This is the first time I have had a chance to write in two weeks. I am well and hope every one else is the same. I have been too busy to think hardly. We were on the train for two days coming here. I never took such a ride in my life.

I'm in Greenville, Miss., right now. This is a large school, 220 planes. We fly from 1 until 8 at night. It doesn't leave much time. We have classes for two hours in the morning and one hour of athletics.

I have to close for now and I'll write more later. I hope every one is well. Take care of yourselves.

Love, LEO.

My address is:

Charles J. Blanford Appointed Milk Administrator

August Uniform Price Announced at $2.70 Per Hundredweight. Valued at $14,587,718.16.

Announcement has been made this week of the appointment of Charles J. Blanford as Market Administrator of the New York Metropolitan Milk Marketing Order to succeed N. J. Cladakis, who has been granted a military leave of absence for the duration.

Mr. Blanford has been working on milk marketing problems in the New York area for the past six years. He is a native of Missouri and has been an extensive economist in milk marketing at Cornell University.

The uniform price of New York-area approved milk delivered in August in the six states of the metropolitan milkshed was announced Monday to be $2.70 a hundredweight for a rise of 8.9 per cent above the August 1941 rate of $2.48.

N. J. Cladakis, administrator of the New York metropolitan milk marketing area, announced that a farm yield of August milk figures out at $14,587,718.16 and is better than the return of a year ago by 10.5 per cent.

The 22-cent improvement in the uniform price, with an increase of two per cent in production, was the main reason for the rise in the farm return.

WAR BOND QUOTAS FOR SEPTEMBER

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8.—September War Bond Quotas for the 3,070 counties in the nation were announced today by Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of the Treasury, to make up the national September total of $775,000,000.

The September quota for the State of New York is $125,000,000.

In fixing the county quotas, the Treasury has continued its announced policy of setting the monthly quotas in line with the seasonal distribution of income with the billion-dollar monthly national average as the annual goal.

The national quota for May, when the nation went on the billion-a-month annual basis, was $600,000,000. For June, the quota was $880,000,000 and for July it jumped to $1,000,000,000. The August quota was $815,000,000, so to maintain the billion-dollar annual monthly average, the quotas for the Fall and Winter months must necessarily be stepped up considerably to reach the objective set.
