Farm Bureau Dairy and Poultry Meetings Are Scheduled

The Farm Bureau has arranged a series of meetings thruout Allegany county for dairymen and poultry keepers during November 10th thru 14th. Professor W. T. Crandall of the animal husbandry department and Prof. H. E. Botsford of the poultry department of Cornell University, will lecture and lead the discussions.

These one day meetings will start at 10 a. m., and close at 3:30 p. m., on the following schedule:

Almond, Grange hall, Tuesday, Nov. 10th.

Andover, Grange hall, Wednesday Nov. 11th.

Friendship, Grange hall, Thursday, Nov. 12th.

Angelica, town hall, Friday, Nov. 13th.

A luncheon of about 35c will be served at noon by co-operating ladies groups.

Clifford R. Harrington, county agricultural agent, states that this is the first group of meetings planned for this winter by the Farm Bureau. One day regional meetings of this type will replace the lengthier county-wide schools held in former years to save travel and time for the farmers.

This first series of meetings will be devoted to winter feeding and management of dairy cattle and to winter feeding and flock management of poultry.

The morning and afternoon sessions will be divided on each subject. The wives and junior partners who frequently take charge of the farm poultry flock will attend with the dairymen.

Farm Machinery Temporarily Frozen

H. L. Hodnett, chairman of the Allegany County Farm Machinery Rationing Committee, informs us that effective November 1st, all farm machinery and equipment is temporarily frozen in the hands of dealers. This he states will be in effect until quotas for the counties can be established.

In the meantime dealers are required to file inventories with the County Rationing Committee at the Farm Bureau office in Belmont.

Items included in the "Freeze" include all farm machines such as tractors, reapers, mowers, plows, etc. Dairy equipment including milkers, coolers, separators and milk cans. Spraying outfits, water systems, silos and all fencing materials are also included in the order.

Until quotas are established farmers must rely on the equipment which they now have.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

CHRISTIAN NURTURE IN THE FAMILY

International Sunday School Lesson for November 8, 1942.

Golden Text: "Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it." Proverbs 22:6.

Lesson Text: Deut. 6:4-9; 20-25; 2 Timothy 3:14-15.

Of the three institutions which form the basis of modern society, the home, the school and the church it can be safely said that the home is the most important, because as the home succeeds or fails, the others follow. The trend of the past decade or two, away from the home as a center of family life has had its noticeable effects on society as a whole.

It is well then, that we turn our serious consideration to a discussion such as this. In order that the influence of the home shall be Christian, it is obvious that one or both of the parents establishing the home must be professing Christians.

The Scripture passages chosen for our study, altho written so long ago, still impress the lesson of parental responsibility for the religious education of their children. Too often today, parents depend entirely on the few minutes their children spend in a Sunday School for the children's entire religious education. One hour, once a week, if a child attends regularly, is hardly enough instruction to give the child much understanding of his or her religious responsibilities.

The Jews were commanded to "diligently" teach religious truths to their children. They were to explain to them what the commandments of God mean and what their significance for them was. They were to tell their children about the history of Israel, about the goodness of God to the Israelites in delivering them from the hand of Pharaoh, and they were to teach their children to "love Jehovah thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might."

It is obvious, however, that parents cannot teach their children what they themselves do not know. Without seeming to judge, it is apparent that there are many parents today who are unable, from their own knowledge, to adequately teach their children religious truths. And, sad to say, many of these parents are professing Christians and some are prominent members of our churches.

If a couple sincerely desires that their children shall be brought up in a Christian atmosphere, they must remember that the "atmosphere" begins with them. The most effective training that a little child can get in the rudiments of religious education should come from a loving mother and father, who practice their religious beliefs in the confines of their homes. Love for God and love for each other evidenced in kindness, courtesy, unselfishness and generosity will leave its deep impression on the life of any child in such a home.

Parents should set the example for the children in public worship. Too often parents send their children to Sunday School while they loll around the home, reading the Sunday newspaper. It is no wonder that the children soon rebel against being sent to something in which their parents show no interest and evidently fail to appreciate.

Too often the Bible is a show piece in the family bookcase or on the living-room table, never opened until the pastor calls or some catastrophe occurs. Religious matters are never mentioned in the family discussions, unless in a critical tone and God's name is never heard except as a curse word.

Perhaps one of the good things to come as a result of this terrible conflict in which we are engaged is the tightening of family ties as boys go into the service and as the lack of gasoline and tires force many families to find their pleasures at home together. Some one has said that some families are now, for the first time, getting to know each other and, surprisingly, to like each other.

Parents are urged, in the words of our Golden Text, to "train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it." Parents who never think of neglecting the education of their children, who often sacrifice greatly to provide the very best in the way of college training, often never give a second thought to their religious education, which is, by far, the more important to the child.

Cuba Man Fatally Injured by Truck

Lawrence Oldham, 59, of Cuba was fatally injured early Monday morning when he was struck by a milk truck at the underpass at North Cuba.

According to reports Oldham stepped out from in back of another car directly in the path of the truck, which belonged to Mattie Eastman and was driven by James R. McCarthy of Cuba.

A certificate of accidental death was issued after an investigation by state police and Coroner Dr. N. H. Fuller.

Trapping Season Coon, Skunk and Mink Open

The trapping season for raccoon, skunk and mink opened today, Thursday, Nov. 5. The open season for raccoons runs until January 20; skunk thru February 10 and mink until March 15.

Furbearing animals, with certain exceptions, may be taken in any manner, day or night, during the open season. Raccoon may not be taken from dens or houses or by cutting den trees. Skunks cannot be taken from holes, or dens by digging or with the aid of dogs. The use of smoke, chemicals, gas or poison is prohibited in taking all furbearing animals.

Traps of the leg-gripping type having teeth in the jaws or having a greater spread of jaws than six inches cannot be used to take furbearing animals. Traps must bear the name of the operator and must be visited at least once every 24 hours.

Conservation Department officials also pointed out that there is no open season for otter, fisher, sable or marten in New York State. Open seasons on beaver are set by Conservation Department order and when deemed advisable occur during the month of March. The muskrat season in New York State opens the first day of January.

Tax Sale List Is Small

The list of delinquent 1941 taxes published last week in the Allegany County Democrat and the Northern Allegany Observer is the smallest in some time. The list carries 540 parcels as compared with a list of 1,022 parcels in the preceding year.

L and C. Store Now Observing 26th Year In Hornell

One of Hornell's leading stores, The L & C Coat, Suit & Dress Co., Inc., is now celebrating its 26th year in business. Starting as a small ladies' apparel shop, the business has grown until today it is one of the leading ready-to-wear shops in the Southern Tier. The store today occupies three floors of two adjoining buildings. In addition to ladies' apparel, a complete line of children's clothing and men's furnishings are now carried.

As has been the custom for the past 26 years, each year a large sale is held in connection with the anniversary, at which time many special values are offered to the public as an expression of appreciation for their loyal patronage. While it is difficult this year to offer special values due to higher costs and material shortages, Mr. Wineburg store manager, stated that a sale would be held. At the present time ample stocks are now on hand, and by careful buying the quality of the merchandise has been maintained. Prices are the same, and in accordance with price ceilings established by the government.

Possible shortages, however, are in view in the future. Already a number of items are off the market or practically impossible to obtain. Substitutes for these items are now being carried and should help to fill the needs of the public. Silk stockings for example are now replaced by rayons. Many other items are difficult to obtain and then only in limited quantities.

Mr. Wineburg stated that it is the duty of every store today to protect the interests of the public and sell available merchandise only where it is needed. This must be done he said, to meet shortages and curtailed production.

Notice of Meeting to Hear Complaints in Relation To Assessment Roll

TAKE NOTICE, that the Assessors of the Village of Andover have prepared their assessment roll for the current fiscal year; that a copy thereof has been filed with the undersigned, Frances B. Rogers, at her office in said Village, where it may be seen and examined by any person at all times during business hours until the third Tuesday of November, 1942, and that on said third Tuesday of November, 1942, at the Village Office between the hours of 1:00 P. M. until 5:00 P. M. the Board of Trustees and Assessors will meet for the purpose of completing such assessment roll and of hearing and determining complaints in relation thereto on the application of any person considering himself aggrieved thereby.

November 3, 1942.

FRANCES B. ROGERS, Village Clerk

One way to have apple pie and cheese together is to cover the top of a baked apple pie with grated or thinly sliced American cheese and, just before serving, put it in a moderate oven until the cheese melts.

During the year 1941, sixty per cent of the buyers of farm land were farmers themselves. Half of the farmer-buyers were tenant farmers.

LIBRARY NEWS

"Forward With Books"

If you have followed this column over a period of time you may have read some of the interesting books for adult and young people which have been listed here as being in our library. All over the country, librarians, teachers, social workers, anyone working for the development of the group in which he is endeavoring to arouse interest, urges the reading of good books. Books carry you into the realm of fancy. As you read you are carried away on the wings of boundless, glorious thoughts.

Thus Book Week, November 15 to 21st this year, finds us waging a war, which can plant namelessness terror in the hearts of children if great efforts are not made to guard against the shocks of this brutal foe. For books can transport them into places and times remote from the grim present—can give them the complete relaxation the growing mind so badly needs. Books can bring happiness that is the right of every boy and girl in our world.

In 1942 the slogan "Forward With Books," the children will renew the living principles in our common life and make the most of them.

Thru good education and good reading our young people will live in another age of great pioneering. Our new methods of transport, new systems of communication will bring about a life where no people will seem foreign to us.
