Jim Jones and His Dog "Respect"

For his birthday Jim Jones received from his grandfather a dog. He said to Jim: "This dog is not an ordinary dog. It is a dog especially designed for your use by the fairies. It will be called "Respect." He will help you respect other people's property."

Of course, we cannot have such a gift. But we can have respect even tho it is not a dog. The students of ACS need a dog like Jim's. They need to be taught to respect other students' property, the same as Jim.

Papers, pencils and books have disappeared. Some think this is a practical joke, but it is not when the pupil receives O's because his homework is not finished.

We should also respect the school building. The walls were not made to write or wipe your feet against.

The books were not made to write in or to lose.

Do you have respect for other people's property? CMH

Student Council Sells Defense Stamps

Thursday afternoon of last week the Student Council members, if needed, could have been found in the halls. They were working on the construction of a booth from which Defense Savings Stamps were sold Thursday night. The booth was decorated in the patriotic colors of red, white and blue.

Taking turns at selling stamps were Virginia Loring, Ruth Lynch, Arretta Dunham and Norma Steadman.

The Student Council reports that they sold $3.50 worth of stamps and they wish to thank the purchasers for their co-operation in making this a successful effort. BB

Will He Be Andover's "Rickenbacker"?

Just 16 years ago last July there was excitement stirring on Independence Hill. The Lewis' were parents of a son, Leo Lewis, born July 20, 1926. We are told that Leo's favorite pastime—next to reading—is eating and he says that pumpkin pie and chicken are delicious.

He thinks that a Nash car is "super" and basketball is his favorite sport. His favorite movie actor is Errol Flynn and movie actress Veronica Lake. The best movie he ever saw was "Flying Tigers." Leo states that "Drums Along the Mohawk" by Walter Edmonds, was the most interesting book he ever read.

All But No. 2 riders know that Leo's favorite song is "White Christmas" as he furnishes them with its rhythm every morning and night. He likes algebra the best of all subjects.

Leo recalls that he has always liked to sing and in grade school days he used to sing during school hours. After he graduates he wishes to join the Air Corps and train to be an aviator.

Perhaps some day we may see Leo zooming thru the clouds in a P-47.

Andover Central To Enroll In Junior Red Cross

The Andover Central School is starting a campaign this week to enroll every room and if possible every pupil in the American Junior Red Cross, according to a statement made by Principal Glenn E. Bretsch, following a meeting of the teachers Monday afternoon at which the plan was explained.

Any grade room may be enrolled by paying to the Junior Red Cross Headquarters the sum of 50 cents and filing an application. A high school Chapter may be organized by making application and payment of $1.00 for each 100 pupils enrolled.

Each pupil is asked to contribute a nickel or a dime or if this is impossible, a penny so that his name may be added to the Junior Red Cross Roll for his room. All pupils who contribute 10 cents or more will be awarded a Junior Red Cross pin. The money thus collected remains in the local school fund, except for the registration fee for the room, and this money may be used for local Junior Red Cross projects. High school members will receive a membership card. It is possible that this group will be organized as a definite school club with monthly meetings.

Parents may rest assured that all contributions to the Andover Junior Red Cross fund will be used for some worthy local project. Each room enrolled will receive the Junior Red Cross magazine.

Ag. Dept. Offers Rural War Production Course

The "Rural War Production Courses," which will begin Thursday of this week, under the direction of Carl Fribolin, are divided into three main classes.

The first class is "Farm Machinery Repair." The farmers who bring their own machinery will be assisted by Mr. Brinton Baker. Such machinery as mowing machines, drags, grain drills, plows and tractors will be repaired. This class meets on Monday and Tuesday evenings.

The second class consists of lectures and movies on increasing milk production, with Mr. Fribolin as leader.

The third and last class is on increasing vegetable production. In this area it will be based primarily on potato production. This class will not be held until later in the winter.

The public is cordially invited to attend these classes. DB

Scholastic Requirement Set For Basketball Boys

At the first basketball meeting held Tuesday afternoon, it was announced by Coach Ingerson that in order to be eligible for inter-school games this winter, all boys on the squad must maintain at least passing averages in all subjects.

This scholastic requirement was set by the school authorities in the belief that with a limited size squad and a limited number or games this season, the team berths should go to boys who are in good standing in all of their school responsibilities. It is believed that this requirement will not necessarily keep any boy off the squad who really wants to play and will materially increase the scholastic rating of the players.

Coach Ingerson also stressed the importance of the boys keeping in good physical condition, a factor which has probably cost the Andover team more championships than any other one condition. He urged the boys to watch their diet carefully and to give up smoking and other narcotics. These factors will be watched carefully and will be another important determining factor in picking the team.

Teacher's Register 258 Car Owners For "A" Books

The teachers of Andover Central School registered 358 car owners for the gasoline rationing which is to begin December 1.

The car owners came to the school cafeteria Monday or Tuesday, Nov. 9-10 between 4:30-7:30 o'clock or Wednesday or Thursday between 7 and 9 o'clock and gave the necessary information to receive an "A" ration book.

Those who did not register will have to go to the Wellsville ration board for their books and the people who need extra gasoline for business should also apply at Wellsville. PAT

Mrs. Rider Presents Picture of Life at Geneseo

A representative from the Geneseo State Teacher's College, Mrs. Alice Damon Rider, spoke briefly Monday afternoon to Junior and Senior members of the Senior high school student body.

Mrs Rider, of the Library Department, told a bit about life at the Teachers' College. Activities include sports of all kinds as well as the regular studies. There are two degrees that may be received from Geneseo. These are Bachelor of Education and Bachelor of Science.

Mimeographed sheets were handed out by Mrs. Rider to each student present. These contained information about the curricular at the Geneseo State Teachers' College, the estimated cost per week of schooling there, and brief information about the army and navy program in connection with the school.

Pupils interested in becoming elementary teachers, teachers of handicapped children, or librarians in a school or public library, were invited to talk with Mrs. Rider after her talk. JB

Have You Met "Brother Goose"?

For the past four weeks the members of the Senior play cast have been industriously working to make "Brother Goose" the best play yet produced in ACS. The play will be presented November 24 in the ACS auditorium under the direction of Miss Pauline Anderson.

The play centers around the orphaned Adams family, which is composed of Jeff, Wes, Hyacinth and Carol. Jeff, "brother goose" is played by Art Temple. Jeff is an architect by profession but at the moment is tied down to raising younger brother and sisters. The result is hectic. Housekeepers come and go with regularity, unable to cope with the harum-scarum family.

Wes, played by George Karcanes, is always in some state of intense excitement, usually about some girl. His latest interest is in Eve Mason, a Southern girl, over whom he is working hard to make an impression.

Carol, a confident self-possessed young lady is interested mainly in writing limericks which are to win her big prizes. Her latest interest is winning a Chrysler by writing a limerick for "Wheat Puffies." Carol is played by Doris Mead.

Hyacinth, this youngest member of the Adams family, is played by Marilyn Hardy. Football is Hy's passion. She loves it just as much as she hates to do the dishes. (Don't miss the football scene in the play.)

Dorothy Baker plays the part of Helen, the latest in the line of house keepers in the Adams' home. Helen soon leaves after standing as much football as she can.

Sarah, the negress maid from next door, is played by Betty Halsey. Sarah, who does not understand football terms, is always misunderstanding Hy's football terms as a descriptoin of her.

Peggy, played by Elaine Pope, is a young hosiery saleswoman. She finally becomes another housekeeper for the Adams' when she is unable to sell any socks to Jeff.

Eve, the young lady from next door, is from the South and her charm is her own. Her cute, appealing, rather helpless manner immediately makes all the boys want to protect her. Eve is played by Barbara Brownell.

Lenore is a very stunning young lady. She pretends to be interested in the cultural aspects of life and Hy is well aware of her insincerity and thoroly dislikes her. Cecelia Lynch plays the part of Lenore.

Mrs. Trimmer is brutally frank and never minces matters. Underneath her brusque exterior, however, she occasionally shows a natural warmth, as well as a keen sense of humor. She is especially fond of Hy. Mrs. Trimmer is played by Mary Baker.

The truck driver, who is fighting mad at Hy, is played by Leonard Cartwright.

Remember—"Brother Goose" in the Andover Central School auditorium Tuesday evening, Nov. 24th. The curtain rises at 8:15. DM

Hi Herld Closes Lists

The final list of those people who are trying out for the Hi Herald staff and those who are members has been made and in a short time each person will be put either on the crib staff or the varsity staff.

No one else will be accepted for active membership in the Hi Herald until the second semester. However, anyone who wishes to try out for the Hi Herald staff for the second semester may begin writing articles now, for experience, but will not be considered a member of the staff until the second semester. This experience may aid the volunteer in that it may enable him to become a member of the varsity staff in January, immediately, if his work merits it, rather than just a cub reporter. Those who are on the varsity staff receive more points (girls' point system) than those who are on the cub staff. NAC

ONE FOUL SHOT WINS BASKETBALL GAME TUESDAY

Last Tuesday afternoon during the Junior and Senior girls' physical education class, a very exciting basketball game was in full swing between Cecelia Lynch's team and Doris Mead's. At the half the score was tied at 2-2, with Doris Sick and Marian Stevens obtaining the honors for the two respective points.

At the end of the last quarter, a double foul was made by Marilyn Hardy and Elaine Pope. The final winning basket was made by Marilyn Hardy, which broke the score by one point.

In the Freshman girls' physical education class Maxine Clark was the champion of the badminton game. MJH

TWENTY BOYS REPORT FOR FIRST PRACTICE

The Purple Panthers held their first hardwood practice Monday evening. Twenty boys reported and underwent a strenuous period of fundamentals and of offensive and defensive work.

Among those reporting were seven veterans of last year's combine in "Slip" Karcanes, "Naze" Dolan, "Whitey" Gorsuch, "Jim" Driscoll, "Jake" Shellman, "Art" Temple and "Chuck" Holt.

From last year's outstanding second team is Dick Ludden, Harold West and Bob Baker who show much promise for the coming year.

Among the other players reporting who looked promising were Brice Kenyon, Leo Lewis, John Richardson, George Phillipson, Pete Howland, Ferd Smith, Pat Lynch, Carlton Ordway, Francis Horan and Dick Potter.

The locals probably have more veteran material than any school in the county to work with and should turn in an outstanding season. MG

Syrian Shepherd Visits School

Jesse P. Robertson Presents Unusual Program

Mr. Pesse Phillips Robertson of Spokane, Wash., presented a very interesting assembly last Thursday morning entitled "Song Hits of 1942 (BC)"

Mr. Robertson, dressed in the costume of a Syrian shepherd, played musical instruments of ancient times which he, himself, had made or collected. Mr. Robertson first became interested in this profession while attending a class in music and physics at Columbia State Teachers' College. The students were required to make instruments and, after making a few successful ones Mr. Robertson became very interested in this occupation.

Many of these instruments have real historic backgrounds. The tiny horn made from the horn of a ram was presented to Mr. Robertson by a Jewish religious organization. Most of the odd sounding horns and string instruments were made by Mr. Robertson. He enjoys this very much and said that they are easy to make. It really is surprising to what uses one can put things. The symphonia was made from a goat skin rug. The symphonia was the bag-pipe-like instrument made of skin covered with curly hair.

Mr. Robertson's next stop was at the Alfred-Almond Central school.

He said that we had been a very courteous audience and that he enjoyed his part of it very much. JB

With Needle and Spoon

The girls in the seventh and eighth grades have been continuing with their regular group work.

Girls in homemaking ninth year have been discussing manners while in the home, at school, at parties and with their girl and boy friends.

Girls in Homemaking A helped with the exhibit work. The exhibit was concerned with better lunches a box, and a paper bag. They had mimeographed suggestions for foods people could bring in their lunches. These girls also helped with the tea that was served Nov. 12 in the homemaking room.

The girls in Home Economics 7 have been studying personalities and how they may improve their personalities. Miss Mahl had a conference with each of the girls about their personalities. These girls gave the homemaking room a thoro cleaning. PJ

Kindergarten Has Most Visitors During Week

The kindergarten was honored with the most visitors during National Education Week. It had a total of 14 visitors.

The kindergarten class has been studying the lives of Indians and has been greatly amused by making Indian men and women, canoes, hats and tepees out of heavy paper.

This week the class bought $8.30 worth of Defense Stamps, making a total of $75.95 so far this year.

Mrs. Allen's first grade has three new pupils. Doris Barnhart from Olean, Marjorie Trowbridge from Scio and Max Sandford from Almond. They also had three visitors during National Education Week. The class bought $3.20 worth of Stamps this past week, making this a total of $34.20 for the year.

In Miss Sequin's first grade the pupils were honored with six visitors last week and have a new pupil, Diane Trowbridge, from Scio.

The second grade made a Thanksgiving bulletin board illustrating "the home of plenty" which Miss Clark's pupils made. They had three visitors last week.

Miss Striker's second grade had four visitors last week and has a new pupil, Bruce Trowbridge. They also made a bulletin board, "Animal Bookland."

Miss Kuhn's fifth and sixth grades are studying Pilgrims and have made models of Pilgrim men and women for display. They had a total of six visitors last week for National Education Week. MJH

Exhibit Features "Education For Free Men"

In observance of American Education Week and its theme "Education for Free Men," Andover Central School held an open house (exhibit) and tea last Thursday evening, Nov. 12th, from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Parents, friends and the general public were invited to enjoy refreshments of tea and cookies in the homemaking room. The tea was served by the high school faculty members and was planned by Miss Mahl and the girls in the homemaking A Class. Betty Jean Rice and Jean Halsey did the dishes and "cleaned up" after the guests left.

The library was decorated with books which were recently purchased. A book booth, covered with red, white and blue crepe paper, was constructed in front of the newspaper rack. Colorful new books of every variety imaginaable were shown there for graders and high school students.

Several patriotic displays were mounted on the bulletin boards. One board had on it a very good picture of General MacArthur, flanked by the words "Faith in Our Fighting Men," and book covers advertising books on different branches of the service, such as the Army, the Navy, the Merchant Marine and the Air Forces.

Twenty-seven brightly colored miniature flags of the various United Nations were displayed against a white background on another bulletin board.

In the halls were seen various displays which showed how greatly certain subjects in the school curriculum aid in the war effort by training one for defense work and the service, and how the school was participating in the war effort. WG-SM

He Smokes Chesterfields . . . And Satisfies!

Donning our coats and hats, we rushed from school and briskly walked down the street. We hurriedly stopped into Dr. S. B. Scott's impressive waiting room. My friend and I waited, wondering what the other people were there for. Seeing that we had a long wait, I tried to study my history but found it impossible because of the thrilling, romantic serial of Doctor Jim Brent on the small radio that stood on the mantle.

Assuming that I could not do my uninteresting studies, I scanned a magazine, looking at the numerous illustrations.

I was just beginning to become deeply interested in reading a magazine when Mrs. Ordway, the receptionist, announced that we were next. Persuading my friend to go with me, we uncertainly entered the doctor's office.

There sat Doctor Scott, attired in an expertly tailored gray suit, nonchalantly smoking a Chesterfield cigarette.

Andover's one and only doctor has been summoned by the War Department to remain here temporarily. Upon further questioning, I found that Dr. Scott was born in Lynshburg, Virginia. He always wanted to be a doctor and that his father had been a doctor.

When he isn't working he spends many leisure hours on Greenwood Hill at his cottage. While here he keeps in tune with his favorite pastimes, hunting and fishing. If we could stop in at his cottage some time we'd hear him at his most common habit, whistling.

Dr. Scott is especially active in the Elks Club at Wellsville. Being school doctor keeps him "on the jump"—ask Bebe Dean, she makes trips at regular intervals to get bandaged up. VML
