To Cram or Not to Cram

"Oh! I'll flunk this one."

"I surely dread that one.'

"I'll be sick Tuesday morning."

These are several remarks we overheard while passing by a group of students looking over the examination schedule.

Now that the semester is drawing to a close, students find themselves in many different situations, and to the question of "craming" or not "craming" there are just as many answers.

The boy or girl who has studied and done his assignments all through the semester will not be haunted by the thought of "mid-years", but the person who leaves his work neglected and stuffs his head with facts at the last minute will be in a "pretty pickle."

For consistent students these first three weeks of January are no harder or less enjoyable than any other group of days in the semester, for if one does his assignments day by day his work will not only be much easier to digest, but by January he will have the material of all his courses well under control.

After all, it does seem hard to be frantically studious and burn the "midnight oil" during the last weeks in an attempt to get through; and though its pretty late to mend habits this semester, next term can be a different story.

It Seems to Us

A blustery January wind whistled around the corner. Two black Scotties emerged from a sheltering doorway, sniffed the ground and looked about. A scrawny alley cat crossed the street, and with joyous abandon they chased the unfortunate creature. Sliding to a stop before they reached the corner, the Scotties crept cautiously forward and peeked around the building.

"Bow-wow," they remarked, their tails wagging.

It seems to us that mid-year exams are just around the corexams are just around the corner. JW

We Welcome

The students of ACS welcome a new student. She has enrolled in the Freshman class and is taking algebra along with the required Freshman subjects. She has long, dark hair, brown eyes and a cheerful smile. Her name? Rebecca Foster.

Rebecca came from Wellsville High where she was well liked. We like our school and she hopes to make many friends before long.

Andover Whips Alfred-Almond In Close Game

Coming back from the Scio defeat, the Andover Purple Panthers played their best game of the season by beating a strong Alfred-Almond team 26-17.

Andover took the lead at the opening whistle, Karcanes and Dolan leading the scoring while "Bob" Baker and "Jim" Holt played their best game of the year, touching about every rebound that came off the board. The half ended 13-9 in favor of the locals.

Coming out at the third quarter stronger than even the Panthers increased their lead at the three quarters to 22-17.

Ferd Smith, playing his first game at center, proved himself very valuable in getting the ball, and holding Alfred-Almond's star center to one basket.

"Slip" Karcanes and "Naz" Dolan each scored 11 points respectively for the locals, while Rice led the blue-gold attack with 8 points.

This game was one of the best games of the season and the team intends to keep on winning. Andover is now tied with Whitesville and Scio for first place because of the loss to Scio last week.

The next game will be on the Andover court next Thursday against Richburg.

Scio Central Beat Andover 28-24 In Loop Upset

A cocky Andover squad journeyed to Scio Friday night and could not believe what actually happened—little Scio beat us. Scio really deserved this victory. They out-passed, out-fought and out-played the Panthers. It was the first league loss for the Andover team, leaving them tied with Scio and Whitesville for first place.

The game was nip and tuck thruout the first half, ending 10-10. It was even until the last quarter when Coach Paul Fuller's boys forged ahead and kept the lead thruout the game.

The shooting of Hennessey and Strum featured the Scio atack, for they scored 10-8 respectively. George Karcanes led the scoring for the Panthers, making 19 of their 24 points. Scio was really checking Dolan and West and prevented them from getting many shots at the basket.

We Need Your Help!

We, the Hi Herald members, are looking for a good title of your semi-annual year book. It's lost somewhere within the school and the year book is to be published soon. A year book without a title isn't much good. Evidences show that several students of A. C. S. are holding one 'till the proper time for presentation is found. Now is the proper time—the title is needed immediately! The only way to find the lost title is to offer a reward to the finder. So If you will submit our lost title you may be the winner of the two dollar prize being offered. A box will be placed in the school library in which you may place the suggested title and your name. We want and need your cooperation. This title is valuable for the spirit of A. C. S. students!

Dear Editor:

To Whom It May Concern—

Many students have wondered when the school Honor Roll is going to be brought up to date. Have the people on the Student Council wondered too?

This year it has been impossible to have the regular four assemblies that we have enjoyed other years, so why can't the Student Council get up a student assembly? If they do this the complete student body should cooperate. There's lots of hidden talent around A. C. S.

Scout Troop Acquires New Uniforms, Flag

A new Girl Scout flag has been purchased with money collected by the troop committee from the Girl Scouts' parents, it was announced at the regular meeting of the Girl Scouts held Wednesday evening, January 5, in the A. C. S. gymnasium. The flag is of Navy blue and white wool bunting with the Girl Scout emblem, the trefóil, on it. Above the emblem is written "Troop II' and below it "Andover, New York" in large print. Thanks have been extended to the parents and to the troop committee who so willingly collected the funds.

Four of the girls also have new uniforms: Marjory Hoagland, Virginia Hoagland, Meta Hoagland and Patricia Dolan. Several other girls wish to acquire uniforms in the near future.

A pantomime was presented by several members, and the patrol meeting was held. The meeting was closed with circular promises and the laws of the Scouts were read. Then taps was played.

"Lassie Come Home"

The well-loved story "Lassie Come Home," has recently been made into a beautiful technicolor motion picture. It is highly recommended and will be enjoyed by lovers of dogs and admirers of Eric Knight alike.

The author of "Lassie Come Home" was an Englishman who fought in the first World War for England, in the second for America, his adopted country. He was killed in action.

Most people have a warm spot in their hearts for dogs, especially for the kind of dog Lassie, a brown and white Collie, represents. The appeal of a thorobred is always strong. Add to this the loveliness of a Yorkshire moor and the pathetic loneliness of a boy separated from his dog, and you have the recipe for a story that tugs at your heartstrings.

It was during a depression in England that Dan McGuire sold his son's dog in order to have money for food for his family. Lassie was taken into northern Scotland. After escaping from her kennels Lassie started for home. Picture in your mind a map of Scotland and England. Trace a route from northern Scotland down hundreds of miles to Yorkshire, England, and you can visualize the loyalty of a loving dog. Going home—what meaning those words must have had to a dog who had been separated from her master for several months.

It had always been said that Lassie brought good luck to her family; and surely enough, as soon as Lassie reached home, a bullet in her back, bloody, starving and ragged, Dan McGuire obtained a job. The warmth with which Lassie was received by her young master was enough to repay doubly the hunger, wounds and sufferings she had undergone. Lassie had come home.

School Heads Attend Principals' Conference

Principal Glenn E. Bretsch and Vice Principal M. D. Olmsted attended the annual meeting of the Association of Secondary School Principals held in Syracuse December 28-29. Approximately 800 principals from New York State schools met at this meeting to discuss the theme, "Schools' Adjustment to War Demands."

Both Mr. Bretsch and Mr. Olmsted reported spending a profitable two days with many new ideas gained that may be applied in the administration of the Andover Central School.

Science Dept. Sponsors Movies On All Subjects

ACS students have been privileged to enjoy many selected movies closely connected with their courses.

Last week several unusual movies were shown to several different classes as follows: "Keep 'Em Rollin," for Mrs. McKibben's social studies classes; "Secret Weapon," for the agricultural classes; "Symphony Orchestra" for third, fifth and sixth grades; "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow," for the Homemaking Classes, and "This Amazing America" for practically all the classes. It was an excellent picture.

New Year Sees Spic n' Span ACS

The two ACS janitors, "Jim" and "John" Nobles, did a wonderful job cleaning our school over vacation. They waxed all the floors in the school, cleaned the halls and gave the gymnasium floor a new coat of varnish. Reports from the janitor says they were kept "busy enough" over vacation.

Meet the People

That happy-go-lucky fellow who strolls thru the halls of ACS is "Jug" Dunham. "Jug" is a sophomore in high school, a member of the Student Council, and an active member of the basketball team.

"Jug" gets his nickname from his childhood days in Pennsylvania.

"Jug's" favorite sport is basketball, and he is "crazy" about porcupines, a dish that originated in Pennsylvania.

His favorite subject is algebra and after finishing school he wishes ("Jug's exact words) "to go out and work." If a sense of humor, a wonderful disposition, and determination are necessary to fulfill that ambition, then it's practically done.

County Farmers Praised For War Production

Allegany county farmers did a big job in 1943 in helping produce livestock and food despite the small amount of local farm labor available, restrictions on the purchase of farming machinery, feed, etc., incident to the war situation according to figures made public by County Agricultural Agent Clifford R. Harrington. He said:

"The farmers of Allegany county had jobs in 1943. The foods they produced are vital products needed in the prosecution of the war. With a shortage of labor, machinery and supplies they accomplished the following results:

"Operated 300 farms. Kept 39,000 dairy animals, 200,000 head of poultry, 8,300 sheep, 6,600 horses, 6,000 hogs and some other miscellaneous stock. They produced 148,000,000 pounds of milk, 25,000,000 eggs, 3,000,000 pounds of dry beans, 450,000 bushels of potatoes, peas and sweet corn for canning, meat, honey, maple products, and many other products; harvesting 89,000 acres of hay, 34,000 acres of grain, and 8,000 acres of corn for feed."

In making a ton of steel from scrap metal, the mills save two tons of limestone and coke which are required to make the steel directly from high-grade iron ore.

New Openings for 17-Year-Olds in Navy

An unusual opportunity is being offered young men of the 17 year age who are interested in the U. S. Navy, it has been announced by John P. Baker, in charge of recruiting in Olean, and every applicant who can meet the physical requirements, and then passes a test in radio can be enlisted as a season first class, rather than an apprentice seaman. The former rating is comparable in base pay to that of a corporal in the Marine Corps or Army.

The test is given to recruits at the main station at Buffalo and then the individual is retained at that point in an inactive duty status until the outcome of the test is known. In the event they pass, they are immediately rated seaman first class.

Upon successful completion of the course in radio instruction, they are then rated petty officers first class, the next to the highest non-commissioned officer rating in the Naval service.

Another opportunity being offered 17 year old young men by the Navy is ratings in the hospital corps. Those who have had Red Cross first aid training, and their qualifications meet the standards of the Naval medical department, can be enlisted with the rating of Hospital apprentice first class or Hospital apprentice second class leading up to pharmacist's ratings in the petty officer group. These ratings in base pay are comparitive respectively with those of seaman first and second class.

Young men interested in these service branches of the Navy are urged to contact the Navy recruiting station at Olean for further details.

Thank-You Letter

Leon E. Hopkins, president of the Allegany Health & Tuberculosis Association, today expressed the deep appreciation of the board of directors of the association for the splendid support given by the people of Allegany County during the current Christmas Seal Sale. In an open letter, addressed "To Every Purchaser of Christmas Seals," he wrote:

"The Board of Directors of the Allegany Health and Tuberculosis Association wish to express their sincere appreciation for the splendid financiaal support for carrying on the program of prevention and control of tuberculosis and health education which the association conducts the year round in all communities and schools of Allegany County.

"In addition to the above work, the association maintains a health camp on their property at Cuba Lake. 176 underprivileged children were at the camp during the two-three week periods.

"From the sale of Christmas Sels eighty three cents of every dollar remains for use in Allegany County. Seventeen cents goes to assist the national and state associations. You will be interested to know that in 1917 when this association was organized that the death loss from tuberculosis was 69% in Allegany County while now the loss ratio from tuberculosis is less than 12%. We can assure you that these funds are carefully used under the able management of Miss Catherine Codispoti, Executive Secretary.

"Our goal for Allegany County this year is $6,000 and to date we have on hand $5,850.00. I urge those who have not yet contributed to his worthy cause to do so shortly."

Only $150.00 is now needed to meet the goal to $6,000. "We are confident of receiving this amount because the last few days have brought a steady stream of contributions, many of which the senders have voluntarily increased," Mr. Hopkins said.
