The 5th War Loan Starts Next Week

WHEREVER your invasion forces are fighting—at sea, in the air, on the ground—they're working together for victory. They know that they must depend on each other, for only by coordinated teamwork will they win thru to final victory in the earliest possible time.

The Fifth War Loan starts next week. It's going to take teamwork—a lot of it—to put this drive over the top. For we've got a job to do. As the tempo of invasion rises every one of us must mobilize for support of our fighting men.

In every city, town and hamlet men and women like yourself have banded together as war bond Volunteer Workers, giving their time to taking your subscriptions for bonds. Support them. Give them the kind of teamwork our boys are giving each other on the fighting fronts!

When your Volunteer Worker calls, double your war bond subscription. It's their job to help raise $16 billions of money for victory during this Fifth drive, $6 billions from individuals like yourself.

Make up your mind to welcome your Victory Volunteer with a friendly smile and an open checkbook—remembering that it's teamwork that does it!

Waste Paper Salvage Will Speed Victory

IN AN APPEAL for more waste paper as a raw material for war production, Real Admiral Harry L. Brinser, inspector of Naval material, declared that failure to save waste paper can delay the return of troops from the war.

Admiral Brinser said: "There is absolutely no exaggeration in the statement that waste paper may be as deciding an influence in the war's outcome as the mobilization of the fleet of pleasure craft that saved the British Army at Dunkirk.

"One of thousands of Navy uses of waste paper is the apparently unimportant but necessary container which protects the shell in transit, from the finisher's bench to the gun breach. Cardboard containers are absolutely necessary in transporting 20 and 40 millimeter ammunition tracers and projectiles which have to be manufactured to extremely close tolerances. Shipping requires that each of these shells, and there are millions shipped monthly, must be protected so that they cannot chip or mar one another—If marred, the projectile would not reach the target due to irregularities in flight.

"Your cooperation in the saving of waste paper will result in delivery of vital material, thereby insuring an early victory. Perhaps delay in turning in that waste paper pile may delay the return of your son from this war!"

Submit to the present evil, lest a greater one befall you.

You can't beat a good time unexpectedly arrived at.

Some people never go into action at a dinner party until the body of an innocent absentee is put on the carving block.

A woman, we are told, should have five husbands: an intellectual companion, a muscular toiler, a financial genius, a practical plumber and electrician, and at least one romantic playboy.

Experience makes cowards of us all.

TOWN and FARM in WARTIME

Prepared by OFFICE OF WAR INFORMATION

Country Deposits Up 137 Per Cent

Demand deposits in country banks (consisting largely of ordinary checking accounts) increased 137 per cent from 1940 to April, 1944, according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Such an increasing body of idle funds, more that twice that of four years ago, could cause inflationary trouble if country depositors began using their funds to bid against each other for the purchase of land at increasing prices, the BAE advises. Already land values have risen almost two-fifths above their pre-war average — an increase that is inflationary in many areas. Furthermore, in some of the principal farming areas the volume of land sales in 1943 surpassed previous high levels reached in 1919 and the number of farms resold after only a short period of ownership increased. Following the inflataion of land values during the last war, land prices broke sharply in 1920.

Farmers Use Prisoners of War

The work done by prisoners of war in the United States either is in or related almost entirely to agriculture, forestry or food processing, the Office of War Information reports. No farmer may house prisoners, and prisoners are sent to farms only when there is work for units of 10 or more. The War Food Administration does not generally advocate the use of prisoners of war side by side with civilians. Prisoners are always guarded by American soldiers. Approximately 45,500 prisoners worked on farms in 28 states last year, mostly in the South, harvesting peanuts, rice, cotton and sugar cane.

Identify Veterans Fully

To facilitate prompt reply and to simplify identification, all mail addressed to the Veterans Administration on matters concerning veterans should give the full name of the veteran, the date of his birth, his serial number, rank and organization and the "C" and "N" numbers on any checks or letters received from the Veterans Adminstration. The master index of this agency contains more than 19 million names. Among these are over 200,000 Smiths, of which at least 12,000 have the given name of John.

Civilian Gas 43 Per Cent of 1941

Passenger car drivers now receive only 43 per cent as much gasoline as they used in 1941, the Petroleum Administration for War says. While Americans have reduced pessenger car mileage from the peacetime level by about 57 per cent, the English have reduced their by 88 per cent.

Families Want to Build Homes

In a recent nationwide survey of consumers requirements, a large number of the families interviewed said they intend to use their savings for buying or building a house before buying durable goods, the War Production Board announces. Among durable goods covered in the survey, washing machines are now in great demand, with electric irons and mechanical refrigerators next in order.

Refunds to Income Tax Payers

While one million 1943 income tax refunds have been made by the Treasury Department, it will be several months before all of approximately 18 million taxpayers will get refunds to which they are entitled, according to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. Each refund, however, will include interest at the rate of 6 per cent per year from March 15, this year, to the date the refund is scheduled. First attention was given to claims of members of the armed forces. No action is needed on the part of the taxpayer unless he has moved from the address shown on his return, in which case he should send both his old and new addresses to the collector of internal revenue in the district in which the return was filed.

Christmas Mail to Men Overseas

Christmas mail to armed forces overseas this year is expected to exceed last year's record. Plans are now being made by the Post Office, War and Navy Departments to handle this mail. From September 15 to October 15, Christmas gift packages for men overseas will be accepted for mailing if they are no more than five pounds in weight, 15 inches in length and 36 inches in length and girth combined. Only one such package will be accepted from the same person to the same addressee during any one week, the War Department announces.

ROUND-UP

Special consideration will be given returning war veterans who apply for rationed farm machinery, WFA announces. — A total of 6,098 farm-type wheel tractors were produced during the week ending May 27, which represents the highest wartime production rate yet attained, WPB reports.

Synthetic vitamin C, which promotes healing of wounds, may now be made from sugar beet pulp thru a new shorter process worked out by the National Bureau of Standards.

The Office of Price Administration says: New ceiling prices will increase the retail cost of jumbo shrimp about seven cents a can and large shrimp about one cent a can. — The June quota of New passenger cars available for rationing is the shortest supply of automobiles since the beginning of the war. — The new ceiling prices for a 14-ounce can of codfish or haddock flakes will represent an increase of 6¾ cents to the individual consumer.

Wellsville Editor to Award Printing Scholarships

Hubert D. Bliss, publisher of The Allegany County Democrat, has been selected among 20 publishers affiliated with the New York Press Association privileged to award free scholarships for the Department of Publishing and Printing in Mechanics Institute at Rochester. The designation was contained in a letter from Read Clarke, publisher of The Perry Record and president of the NYPA.

Two free scholarships will be awarded within the territory assigned to Mr. Bliss. A dinner meeting will be held at the Hotel Rochester Friday evening, when Byron Culver, head of the Department of Publishing and Printing at Mechanics Institute will explain the plan. Until that time the territory embraced by the two scholarships available on selection by the Wellsville publisher will not be known.

The plan has been formulated to cope with the personnel shortage that has developed in the printing business due to the war. The time-honored practice of weekly newspapers of training printers and linotype operators in their own shops has been disrupted at the same time many employees have been lost to war service. The new cooperative plan represents such a departure in the training methods, as to suggest a new era quite aside from the immediate war impetus back of it.

Under the plan, a scholarship holder would attend the school a few months full-time, and then alternate with a month in a newspaper office and a month at school. In addition to having free tuition, the student would be paid for plant work.

Appreciate Your United States Citizenship

The following newspaper clipping was brought to us by the American Legion Auxiliary Americanism Chairman, Reta Myers and is well worth the attention of the average American citizen today:

They were so eager, those 20 men and women in Naturalization Court Monday. Shoes—and faces—shining they raised their right hands and listened as the clerk read the oath of citizenship.

They were citizens now!

Soberly they heard the justice speak about THEIR country. How it wasn't perfect, but it was the finest and best in all the earth.

How citizenship was a privilege but obligations went with it. How some citizens too often fail to sense their duties.

"We're proud to demand our rights, but whenever you have a right, there goes with it a corresponding duty."

"It's your duty to participate in the affairs of your government—a duty you owe for your privilege of being a citizen."

Then coming up, two by two, signing their names on their Certificates of Naturalization, some writing slowly, every letter formed just so. Proud to write. One stolid woman in the blue dress, hair knotted behind. "I come twenty-fi' miles for this. Could you send. I give dollar."

The deputy county clerk waved it aside. "We'll mail it to you." No, the woman insisted, left the bill, turned to go. "Thank you, thank you ev'body," she said, out loud in court.

The woman who kissed the man who was waiting in the spectators' seats. The stocky chap, explaining: "I no write so well." The ruddy-faced man with white mustache and bow tie. A nun in black robe and large gold cross, face framed in white beneath her cap.

This was like a wedding, solemn, but joyful. Eyes misty but not sad. Faces sober but not sorrowful. And everybody leaving smiles behind. "Thank you, thank you, ev'body."

Gratitude. Hope. Citizens, 20 new citizens.

If you had seen those 20 you'd have been ashamed. I was. Too many of us don't give a hoot about our citizenship. It just came along with us in the maternity ward, and we never bothered to get rid of it.

That's right. We never get tears in our eyes because of it. We never waited, as some of those 20 did, two or three or seven years to get a citizenship certificate.

Lightly our obligations as citizens rest on our shoulders. We never lost any sleep because we are citizens. We never got our feet wet if we could help it.

Nor do we bother to vote sometimes, unless somebody sends around a car and begs us to come down to the polls.

And run for office? Let George do it.

Maybe the 20 feel different because they can appreciate America by contrast with their native lands. Germany. Italy. Bombing and bullets and death. People hungry and afraid. Slaves.

Maybe they're glad for a chance to vote because under Hitler you vote—one way.

We vote as we please IF we please. And the neighbor's son down the street gives his life so we can vote if we please. Smug about our obligations? Prone to demand our rights, did the judge say? We yell our fool heads off if somebody steps on our little toe.

Maybe, watching the light in these new Americans' eyes, we'll be ashamed. Maybe from those who never had a chance to have our obligations, we'll appreciate ours a little more. God knows, we ought to.—by Gilbert B. Stinger.
