ANOTHER GAS WELL!

A Good Showing on E. J. Brown's Farm in Greenwood

The gas well just finished on Mr. E. J Brown's farm in the town of Green wood, about three miles southeast of Andover, was shot yesterday. This well was drilled by Dr. N. P. Brainard of village and C. Lester and A. A. Woods of Bichburg. It is located a short distance from the "old Brown well," drilled several years ago, which vas always thought to contain a good showing of gas.

The well shot yesterday will at once be tubed and tested. From present indi-cations it is thought the well will show pressure of from 100 to 150 pounds to he square inch.

The same parties will at once begin he rig for another well on Uriah Davis' farm in this town. There is every prospect that these gentlemen have con trol of some valuable gas and oil territory, and it is to be hoped they will not be disappointed,

James Owen Interviewed

A correspondent in this place for the Alfred Sun interviewed Mr. James Owen, proprietor of the tannery here relative to the recent shut down of that institution. Here is what Mr. Owen said to the correspondent:

said to the correspondent:

"I never saw myself out of work before since I came to this country, in 1872. What makes the depression in business? Well, I say and have said all through, it isn't the silver question; it's the fear that the Government will ruin protected industries. If manufacturers knew what the tariff legisla. rum protected industries. If manufacturers knew what the tariff legislation is to be, good or bad, they would know what to do; but even with sufficient currency to do business, we can not manufacture at a loss. Destroy the not manufacture at a loss. Deatroy the power of the maker to make goods at a profit-feven a small one—and you drive the maker out of the market and his men out of their employment. I worked in Great Britain, 12 hours a day, for three shillings sterling. Think of that! Seventy-five cents a day, and board at three dollars a week. For my first work in America I received ten shillings federal and board; and board then was five dollars a week. Oh, I know about wages across the Atlantic, and I know what protected industry has done for this country."

W. R. Brewster died at the home of his son, Jefferson Brewster; Sept. 1st, 1893, aged 78 years and two months. He was one of the settlers of Green wood fifty years ago, at which time there was scarcely clearing enough on the place he took up to build his log house. Upon that place five children were born to him, including his son Jefferson, with whom he spent his last days. Among the children of the deceased are Mrs. Margaret Failing of West Union, Mrs. Jane Wateley of Troupsburg, Mrs. Emily Lisk of Romulus, and Mrs. Frank Perry of West Danby, N. Y. Deceased had a stroke of paralysis two years previous to his death, so his death was not unexpected. He was the author, of a number of poems. The following, which was read at the funeral, being one of them: W. R. Brewster died at the home of
