that all the Seniors could wander about as they pleased until I told him that today is Senior Day and the Seniors replace the faculty which makes everything just fine (and full of laughs).

Bill Dougherty just loves to play with the public address system. He is principal today and is taking full advantage of his rights (hope we get sent to the office—is the favorite byword of the girls today). It's really a laugh to see Jim Backus and Pete Howland try to keep study hall quiet and the general science class is really telling Vic Clarke off. Janice Walton is utterly helpless with her Latin classes (ha! I can imagine) and Bill Dougherty can answer and explain any question asked in physics (ouch!).

Ann Dean is teaching eighth grade history and Pat Temple is being told off by the eighth grade math class.

The school is very quiet and reserved since the pupils are well in hand. (I'll really be punished for that one). Tomorrow the students will get back to their grind for exam week of hall-gossip, pass-sneaking, lessons half done if at all and really honest-to-goodness cheating on tests. "After all, we want to learn," I tell Harvey, "and we know how to do it and pass, too" (sometimes).

Harvey left here very puzzled and more or less convinced that times have changed since he went to school. ST

Sophomore Symphonies

The Sophomores certainly took a beating class day, the Seniors really taking out their hatred on them.

They say that where there's a will there's a way, isn't that right, Pat? Les can dance swell, can't he?

Dolores Snyder's hair certainly looked nice Monday morning.

Surprise! Surprise! Earl Richardson was working Monday, even though it was class day. Laurence Hoyt was too, and that is still a greater surprise.

Phyllis Nye is still making those visits to that "quaint hamlet" called Whitesville, to see a certain someone.

Helen Yannie really accomplished something while sitting in the corner Monday afternoon.

Jo Ann and Ray are still going steady and if you promise not to tell we'll let you in on a little secret. Monday was their fifth anniversary—months, that is.

Jim Burgett can't seem to find a girl to suit him in Andover so he decided to go to Wellsville where he now goes with a very nice girl. PAD-HKY
