Wayland School Has $150,000 Fire

Fire believed to have started from lightning was discovered in the Wayland Central School building early Saturday morning did an estimated $150,000 damage to the large brick structure.

Fire companies from Dansville and Springwater were called to aid.

Altho the brick walls are still standing, water and fire damage practically destroyed the interior of the building.

Potato Growers to Hold Field Day

The 13th summer field day for New York State potato growers will be held Thursday, August 8 on the farm of Burt Peffer in Bliss, Wyoming county. This is the first time since 1941 that the event is being held to which between 5,000 and 10,000 growers are usually in attendance.

It is reported that potato growers will be able to see in operation the largest exhibit of modern potato-growing equipment ever assembled in one spot. This will include portable irrigation units, tractors, plows, harrows, diggers, bin loaders, stone pickers and harvest combines.

One of the new high-speed stream-line trains was advertised to pass thru a small Southern town, and a large crowd was on hand at the station to see it go by. Among the crowd was an old negro. On scheduled time the train shot past the station at 110 miles an hour.

The old negro gazed at the shining spectacle as it disappeared in the distance, and was finally overheard to exclaim:

"So far as Ah's concerned, dey certainly ain't goin' to need no Jim Crow car on dat train!"

Brooklyn Bridge, connecting Manhattan at City Hall with Borough Hall, Brooklyn, is the first bridge between Manhattan and Brooklyn. It was opened in 1883 and cost $15,000,000.
