Rev. Rogers to Make Church Survey

Ithaca, Oct. 11. — The Rev. Albert Rogers of Alfred Station will survey Allegany county under an assignment of The Rural Church Institute at Cornell University, Ithaca and the New York State Council of Churches. Every church outside a population center of 10,000 will be marked on a county map and six items of information secured. These items include: Pastor's name and address and number of years in present pastorate, number of resident members, amount of annual budget, Sunday School enrollment, and youth society enrollment.

This survey is being carried on in every county in the state outside of the New York City Metropolitan area and is the first attempt ever made to list the town and country churches. Local council of churches and ministerial associations are assisting with the survey and appropriate funds. When the results are tabulated and the maps completed, they will be deposited with church leaders in each county.

Correction

In the article appearing in last week's News concerning the new Andover building corporation, the name should have been spelled Alroso Builders, Inc.

Another error we wish to correct is that it was Donald DeRemer instead of Leo DeRemer who moved to their new home on Water street.

Putnam County, N. Y., was named after General Israel Putnam of Revoluntionary fame.
