Another Service Offered By County Veteran's Bureau

A contact representative from the Veterans Administration will spend two days a week in Allegany County, one of them at the Allegany County Veteran's Service Agency in Belmont, the other in the U. S. Employment Service office in Wellsville, it is announced by Robert W. Nicholson, director of the agency.

Working closely with the Agency's staff, the new VA contact Representative Edwin G. Sayers, will be prepared to service the veterans in regard to the many benefits to which they have access.

Working out of the newly opened Hornell office of the Veterans' Administration, Mr. Sayers will spend two days a week in Allegany County, and in addition, will spend Wednesdays in Dansville, in adjoining Livingston County.

He plans to spend all day Thursday in Belmont, at the Agency—which is located in the Court House there—and all day Friday at the USES in Wellsville.

His addition will round out the facilities available to the County's veterans.

Sayers and the County Director will be available to veterans for the processing of medical, hospital and domiciliary care; compensation and pension; vocational rehabilitation training.

He will work with the State Veterans' Counselor assigned to the agency to counsel veterans on education, guarantee of loans, National Service Life Insurance, and other entitlements.

His presence will also complete an itinerant service which the Agency has been devising for the purpose of serving all areas of the county.

"The addition of the contact representative will greatly enhance the Agency's facilities and its service to Veterans," Mr. Nicholson pointed out. "It will eliminate confusion for veterans in the county, make for a well coordinated and well intergrated service and make 'one stop' service for the veteran more of a reality. With the contact representative working in the Agency and with the Agency continuing to cooperate to the utmost with other agencies serving the veteran, the veteran's best interest will be served to the fullest."

The contact representative is joining the county at a time when emphasis is being placed on the importance of National Service Life Insurance to the veteran. Sayers is well qualified to discuss NSLI with the veterans—he has just recently completed an intensive training period in NSLI at the Buffalo Regional Office of the VA. He urges veterans with questions on their NSLI to contact him.

The Allegany County American Legion, in conjunction with the County Veterans Service Agency, is preparing to open an intensive county-wide drive to bring home to the veterans the true facts and advantages of NSLI.
