New Accident Report Simplifies Motor Law

Albany.—The Bureau of Motor Vehicles moved to eliminate unnecessary license suspensions now made under the Motor Vehicle Safety-Responsibility law by means of a new accident report form combining a simplified version of the old report form with notice of insurance status.

Motor Vehicle Commissioner Clifford J. Fletcher, announcing the new form would be used starting September 1, said complying motorists would be spared the annoyance of unnecessary suspensions and correspondence as a result of drastic procedural changes which the form would permit, while the Motor Vehicle Bureau would be saved an immense amount of administrative work thru reduced accident damage evaluation, suspension, and filing operations. Local police will be relieved of much of the current suspension enforcement load.

The new report forms are already being distributed to all motor vehicle offices and police agencies thruout the state. The new form is designated "Form MV-104 Rev." The old form, which will not be used after this month, has been identified as "Form MV-104."

The unnecessary damage evaluations and license suspensions, which were estimated to total 50,000 last year and accounted for about half of all Safety-Responsibility law suspensions, occur when the Motor Vehicle Bureau is not notified of the insurance coverage of a person involved in an accident. The Motor Vehicle Commissioner has been required by law to act in every case within 60 days after receipt of an accident report. If there is no evidence of insurance, he must evaluate damages and suspend licenses of uninsured operators who failed to comply with requirements of the law.

"In the absence of notice of insurance, we have been compelled to suspend licenses of thousands of legally insured operators and owners, restoring the licenses upon later notification," Commissioner Fletcher said. "Under the original system now being discarded, the notice of insurance, Form SR-21, was filed apart from the accident report, usually by insurance companies. Even when properly filed, matching this notice with the correct accident report form frequently presented difficulties.

"Under the new plan, permitted by 1947 legislation, and the revision of forms, the accident report and notice of insurance are consolidated in one stream-lined blank, so that the Motor Vehicle Bureau will have the full information it needs to take proper action under the Safety-Responsibility law."

In addition, a new amendment makes inoperative the 60-day limit for suspension action, when the Commissioner is satisfied the information reported to him concerning insurance coverage is erroneous. This change will also protect insured motorists from suspensions which are avoidable when complete reports have been made to the Motor Vehicle Bureau.

Commissioner Fletcher reminded motorists that the operator of a vehicle has the primary responsibility of reporting an accident immediately to the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles. If the operator is unable to report, the owner of the vehicle must do so.

"No one should rely upon a third party to forward an accident report to the Commissioner," he said.

Failure to file a report or failure to file complete information concerning both accident and insurance status, or failure to respond promptly to a communication from the Bureau requesting further information may result in license suspension.

The new report form makes these important changes:

Accidents involving property damage only (damage to the property of any one person in excess of $25) may be fully reported and signed on the front of the new blank.

All accidents involving personal injury must be reported fully, using both sides of the form, and the reporting party must sign on the back of the form.

Insurance information must be furnished on the supplementary form designated as Form SR-21, which is made a part of the new accident blank. In order to give accurate information it may be necessary for the operator or owner to consult his insurance agent.
