A Few Things That Have Happened Within One or Two Hundred Miles of Here.

County Court will be held at the Court House in Belmont beginning on Monday, February 12th.

Newton P. Fassett, father of ex-Senator J. Sloat Fassett, died at his home in Elmira, last Wednesday, aged 71 years.

Casey & Case, furniture dealers of Wellsville, who made an assignment last fall, have settled with their creditors for thirty cents on the dollar.

Congressman Hooker has secured the passage of a bill granting a pension to Mrs. Lavica Hall of Fillmore, who is a widow of a veteran of the War of 1812.

Claire Jordan of Alfred-Centre has bought the oil interest of Messrs. Crandall Lester and A. B. Cottrell, located on the Reading farm, in the town of Wirt.

Howard Cobb of Independence, who played with the Wellsville ball team last summer, has been selected as pitcher for the Cornell University nine for the coming season.

Senator Higgins of Olean cast the only vote against appropriating an additional $200,000 to carry on the work of the unfinished State capitol. His constituents applaud his act.

Ezra Kendall's play "The Substitute," which has been recently produced by the author in several towns of the county, is unusually interesting to Alleganyans from the fact that the scenes are laid in and about Rushford and Centerville.

Lee McEvoy, aged 20 years, was burned to death in an oilwell near Duke Centre Saturday night. The young man was engaged in pumping the well, and it is supposed that he lay down to sleep in the boiler house. The building caught fire in some manner and he was burned to a crisp.

Mrs. Robert Niles of Alfred Station, died very suddenly at her home Wednesday morning. Mrs. Niles had been ill with the grip but was supposed to be better. She arose as usual Wednesday morning and was taken suddenly worse while dressing; she failed rapidly and died in a few minutes.

When the case of Charles J. Clere, the ex-reformatory convict, who through his guardian brought an action for $25,000 damages against Superintendent Brockway, was moved for trial by the attorney for the defence last week in Supreme Court, no one representing the plaintiff was present and the case was dismissed by the court.

William E. Brown dropped dead in the billiard parlors of the Page House in Hornellsville at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon. Brown was born in Scotland and was about 53 years old. Last Wednesday evening he went to serve a summons on S. Coons, whom he charged with assaulting him and who was tried on that charge and acquitted for lack of evidence. Not an hour after the trial was over Brown was a dead man. The cause assigned is heart failure.

The venerable editor of the Coopers-town Journal, Samuel M. Shaw, has kept a continuous weather record for forty years and says: "In all these years the climate of Otsego county has not changed. However extreme the temperature may be, for either heat or cold at any particular season, the yearly average never varies. So closely is this proven by the year just ended that the mean temperature of 1893 is but one-half of a degree less than the average of the thirty years previous."

Michael Hallinan, a farmer, residing in the town of Tuscarora, was killed by his horse running away last Saturday evening. He was in Addison trading Saturday and left for home about 5 o'clock. After taking his groceries to the house he drove to the watering trough, a short distance from the house and watered his horses. About an hour afterward he was found lying dead beside the road, with one horse also dead, lying partly upon his body. It is supposed that after watering his horses, Mr. Hallinan attempted to check them up when they took fright and ran away, dragging him until one of them stumbled and fell upon him, killing him instantly. Deceased was 72 years of age.

Now Look Out For Postmasters.

The latest rumor in regard to the appointment of Democratic postmasters is that the Administration has decided to meet the members of organized New York Democracy who is considered more than half way, but in doing so the New York senators will continue to be snubbed. This arrangement is already in effect. Outside New York city the dealings of the Administration regarding patronage will be with Democratic representatives in congress, and in the Republican congressional districts of the state arrangements will be made with the members of the state committee. Postmaster-General Bissell is said to be authority for this statement, and probably responsible for the new condition of affairs.

If the rumor outlined above is true, the appointment of postmasters in this vicinity ought to begin before long. A little time will tell the story.

Mrs. Mourhess has a full line of corsets and corset waists, corset steels and elastic laces; all kinds of ladies' underwear, ladies' union suits in black and cream, hose and hose supporters, black and white, knitting cotton, zephyrs and ice wool, handkerchiefs and stamped goods of all kinds, small Japanese baskets and work baskets, velvets, satins, silks and ribbons of all kinds. Everything in the millinery line at greatly reduced prices.

Sudden Death of James Conley.

Mr. James Conley, who lived opposite the Mead school house in the town of Greenwood, died very suddenly Monday forenoon. He was in usual health in the morning, and did a share of the work around the barn. After going into the house he was taken violently ill. A physician was summoned, but before he arrived Mr. Conley was dead. The doctor pronounced the cause of death to be heart difficulty, from which Mr. Conley has previously suffered. The deceased was 70 years of age and leaves a wife and family.

The funeral was held this afternoon at the M. E. church in this village, Rev. J. M. Leach officiating.

The sympathy of many friends and neighbors is extended to the afflicted family.

The Water Works Tested.

Last Thursday morning at about 4:30 o'clock the fire alarm was sounded, the first time since the completion of the water works. The building opposite the depot owned by Richard O'Boyle of Hornellsville and occupied by John Bice as a shoe shop, was wrapped in flames when the alarm was given. The hose company quickly responded to the summons and soon had two lines of hose laid. The residence of F. J. Myles, just east of the burning building, was in danger and attention was first turned to saving that. A powerful stream of water put upon the roof of Mr. Myles' house soon removed all danger in that quarter, and the stream was directed upon the burning building. In just one and three-eighths seconds after the water touched the O'Boyle building the fire was under control, and soon afterward one black side of the building and other standing timbers demonstrated that water will put out fire. Mr. Bice had occupied this building but a short time. He had considerable machinery and stock on hand for manufacturing shoes. He places his loss at $1,100, and had an insurance of $600.

We understand Mr. O'Boyle places the loss on his building at $600, with no insurance.

Mr. Bice has rented the basement in the Hale Davis building, on the corner of Main and Greenwood streets, and will continue the manufacture of boots and shoes at that place for the present.

The former wife of Charles S. Whitney of Belmont, from whom Mr. Whitney was divorced about four years ago, is now trying to have the divorce set aside. She has recently been living in Buffalo with Mr. Whitney's daughter, who married Ira H. Myers, the correspondent named in the divorce proceedings.
