

ASTER IN BALTIMORE

The Cathedral the Mecca of Roman Catholics.

Satelli and Cardinal Gibbons in Attendance, the Latter Preaching an Easter Day Sermon—Washington and Columbus Eulogized—Services at Other Churches.

BALTIMORE, March 26.—The cathedral yesterday the mecca of Roman Catholics and the imposing edifice was crowded at the several masses and other services. The ceremonies were of more than usual interest. Most Rev. Archb. Satelli, papal legate to the United States, said the pontifical mass, and Cardinal Gibbons preached an Easter day sermon at the 11 o'clock service. Not a foot of space within the massive structure was unoccupied, hundreds being unable to get as far as the steps. The cardinal took for his text the third chapter of the Epistle of Paul the Apostle to the Colossians. He spoke for little more than half an hour. His eminence said in part: "It is related in the gospel that Jesus is related to the son of a widowed mother as he was borne to his last resting place. We may well imagine the joy which filled the heart of this loving mother when she saw her son rise from the tomb. With what delight she embraced him; and, returning home she cast aside her emblem of mourning and donned her garments of joy. "Such is the joy which fills the heart of our mother church this day at the resurrection of her spouse; a resurrection not followed by death, like that of the widow's son, or of Lazarus; for Christ, risen from the dead, dieth no more. The church has laid aside her habiliments of mourning and is clothed with the festive garments of joy. "It is a law of human glory, shaped indelibly upon the page of history, that few men have ever attained to posthumous renown who had not in life endured many trials and hardships and sufferings. Washington had to pass through many dark and dreary days; he passed through the memorable scenes of Trenton, Valley Forge and Yorktown before he was honored by his countrymen with the beautiful title of 'Father of His Country.' Columbus would never have received the honors recently paid him by both hemispheres if he had not risked his reputation and his life by sailing over an unknown ocean in quest of a new world. And if such is the law of fame on earth, how can we expect to attain to heavenly glory without self-sacrifice and self-denial? "Christ has discovered for us a new earth and a new heaven. He beckons us to follow him, and says: 'Fear not storms from without nor passions within. Look up to me, the author and finisher of your faith.' "Easter services in the churches of all denominations were well attended.

It was not the intention of the young prince to return so soon unless he had in response to a call, as he was informed that his uncle would make a desperate fight to hold the kingdom and keep him away from his just rights.

One other carriage was somewhat damaged and some contents of the train were broken. The total damage, however, will not exceed 15,000 francs.

THE WEEK IN BUSINESS

The Senate Almost Without a Programme.

Veto of the Seigniorage Bill May Precipitate Various Silver Propositions and Unlimited Opposition to Tariff Reform—Appropriation Bills to Follow Election Cases in House.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—According to the rules to-day is the day of Columbia day in the house and under ordinary conditions the committee in charge of affairs relating to the district would have undisputed right of way for the consideration of measures called up by it. But when the house adjourned Saturday the postal appropriation bill was pending and the consideration of that measure was continued when the house met to-day. When district measures are taken up, the bill to authorize the Metropolitan Street Railway company to change its motive power is the unfinished business. The O'Neil-Joy contested election case from the eleventh district of Missouri will be called up to-morrow. It is the understanding that the republicans will not further oppose the consideration of the resolution declaring O'Neil, (dem.), entitled to the seat now held by Joy (rep.), but they will require the democrats to produce a quorum of their own number to vote on them. The decision of this case may occur several days. After that case has been disposed of the committee on elections may proceed with the English-Hill district, in which the majority have reported in favor of seating English, the democratic contestant. The contested election cases out of the way, the consideration of the general appropriation bills will be resumed, and, according to the opinion of Speaker Crisp, there will be no interruption of the programme until all shall have been passed. Of course, this does not mean that bills may not be displaced by unanimous consent, and doubtless a number of these, against which no objection lies, will be sent to the senate every day.

Strange Case of Blindness.

NEW YORK, March 24.—James Caulfield, 22 years of age, while standing in front of the Brooklyn Citizen, on which he is employed as a reporter, was suddenly stricken with blindness. Several trolley cars were passing at the time, and simultaneously there were two or three brilliant electric flashes. Young Caulfield seemed to be suddenly shocked, and exclaiming, "Oh, my eyes!" reeled back and fell into the arms of a companion. Finding that his sight failed to return, his friends led him to the eye and ear infirmary in Livingston street. The doctors could afford no relief, and the young man was removed to his home.

Exciting Robbery.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., March 24.—Perry Brown, one of the most prominent citizens of this place, took the Santa Fe train for some point in Texas, having with him considerable money. Just outside the city Mr. Brown started from the smoking car to the sleeper, and on the platform was assaulted by four men, who searched his pocket and then threw him head foremost between the cars and jumped off themselves. The skirt of Mr. Brown's overcoat caught on the step and prevented him from being killed, but his right arm, below the elbow, was cut off. When Mr. Brown recovered he walked back to town.

Sanitary Conference.

PARIS, March 24.—At the meeting of the international sanitary conference all of the resolutions of the various commissions, including the preventive measures against cholera and other contagious diseases to be adopted at oriental ports, were approved. Killing Yellowstone Park Game.

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 24.—Word just received from a winter photographing party now in Yellowstone national park is to the effect that hunters have started in to kill game. There is no law protecting the game in the park. The herd of buffalo in the park was increasing rapidly, and there are thousands of elk within its boundaries. Unless congress protects them it will be almost impossible to prevent their destruction.

The Recent Warm Period.

Nebraska's Great Blizzard.

BUFFALO, Wyo., March 26.—The wires are just up after the late storm, which commenced last Monday evening and continued a terrific blizzard for over 76 hours without abating. The temperature averaged zero and blinding snow obscured the sky by clouds of dust. Reports from the men show that the loss of stock is terrible. The storm has averaged 24 inches in severity in this country and the tremendous snowfall insures wonderful grazing next season, sufficient to feed thousands of head of stock which will be driven into the country this spring.

ADMIRAL MELLO TALKS

The Surrender Inevitable After Admiral Benham's Interference.

NEW YORK, March 26.—A morning newspaper's Montevideo, Uruguay, correspondent reports an interview with Admiral Mello, in which the latter is quoted as follows: "I was not at all surprised at the fiasco in Rio bay. I believed the surrender of the fleet was inevitable after the interference of Admiral Benham, of the United States navy, in protecting vessels landing cargoes at the wharves. "Saldanha reached his decision to surrender the fleet without a fight after he had made a desperate attempt to land his forces at Nictheroy. In this attempt Admiral da Gama lost one fourth of his men and was himself seriously wounded. He afterward dispatched the Aquidaban to the south loaded with all the portable munitions of war he possessed which were of value. He also sent away all available marines. "He thus left himself without powder or food and his supply of water was cut off. He was unable to continue operations and did not have a ship which could have crossed the bar under the fire of forts Santa Cruz and Lage. "In this condition he decided to spike all the guns in Fort Villegaigain and on Isla das Cobras and put out of action all the guns on the ships. "He then took refuge with his officers and the marines who remained on foreign warships, and the surrender without a fight was inevitable. "The provisional government junta consists of Silveira Martini for Rio Grande do Sul, Ferreira de Mello for Santo Catharina and Dr. Westphalia for Parana. "The warships of Portugal, having Admiral da Gama and other insurgents aboard, left Itaipu last evening. They were bound south. It is reported that they will proceed to Lisbon. The government of Brazil has not yet determined what action to take on the refusal of Portugal to answer its demand for the surrender of the insurgent refugees. "President Peixoto has mobilized the national guard as part of the army troops, and they have been despatched to the frontier. "It is reported that the revolution in the south, in the state of Parana, has collapsed. News has been received that there are dissensions among the leaders as the result of the surrender of Admiral da Gama. Gen. Saraiva, it is rumored, has returned to Rio Grande do Sul and his army is disintegrating. "The epidemic of yellow fever continues. The new cases now average sixty a day. "The United States cruiser New York has sailed for St. Lucia, West Indies.

ISABELLA PLATT'S STORY.

A Very Tame and Commonplace, But Unexplanatory Statement. DERRY, Conn., March 26.—Isabella Platt, the seventeen-year-old girl who caused considerable excitement a fortnight ago by disappearing from school in Shelton and turning up unconscious in the highway before her home at night, has told the story of her adventure, and it proves a very tame and commonplace one, and by no means explanatory of her subsequent illness. She says that when she left school on the morning of March 8 it was in obedience to a sudden and indefinable impulse to get out into the sunshine. She walked over to Derby, just across the river, and then it occurred to her that she would like to go off somewhere on the railroad. She had some money in her pocketbook and she bought a ticket for Bridgeport.

ELOPED WITH A NEGRO.

A New Jersey Farmer's Wife Deserts Her Husband and Babe. FLEMINGTON, N. J., March 26.—Mrs. Calvin Brady, wife of a young farmer of Ringoes, near here, has eloped with Henry Williamson, a negro, rough, ignorant and black as night. Williamson has been having his washing done on Brady's farm and made such frequent visits to the place that he was warned to stay away. Wednesday night Brady, who had been at work all day preparing for his spring planting, retired soon after eating his supper. Not long after he had gone up stairs his wife entered and took their baby from the bed. She left the room and was gone but a few minutes when she returned and threw the child upon the bed. Without speaking to her husband she again hurried from the room. Brady knew something was wrong and called after his wife, but she did not answer. He hastily dressed and went downstairs. His wife could not be found, and after searching for a time he found a note. It read: "I am going to leave you. I wish you and your children good health. I never expect to see you again."

His dead body was picked up a little later. The accident was witnessed by a large crowd that had gathered to see the ascension.

UNITED MINE WORKERS

Planning for a Great National Movement.

May Result in the Total Suspension of Work By Miners Throughout America, Thus Throwing 100,000 Men Out of Employment—To Follow the English Union's Course. PITTSBURGH, March 24.—President John McBride, of the United Mine Workers of America, has issued a circular call for the fifth annual convention of the organization, to be held at Columbus, commencing April 10. The convention will be the most important yet held, for "a national movement" will be considered. This means the total suspension of work by miners throughout America from Colorado to eastern Pennsylvania. If adopted and a date set, the greatest strike in the history of the miners of America will be inaugurated. There are in America fully 100,000 miners who are attached to the United Mine Workers organization. Preparations for this national movement have been in progress several months. Meetings are being held nightly, conventions called and no means left untried to arouse enthusiasm among the coal diggers for the national movement. The same applies to the Ohio, Tennessee, West Virginia, Indiana, Illinois and Missouri coal fields. In explanation, the call sets forth that sectional or local strikes have been unequal to the task of protecting or advancing wages; that miners striking locally cannot hope to win without co-operation of those at work, and this is not secured; that success altogether depends upon concerted action on the part of the mine workers. President McBride in his official call for a convention sends a programme for independent labor politics to be discussed and acted upon at the meeting. The proposed political action is based upon the course pursued by the trades unions of Great Britain.

THE FULLER MYSTERY.

Police Said to Have a Complete Chain of Evidence to Submit Monday. NEW YORK, March 24.—Although Dr. Conway at the first autopsy made an examination to ascertain if Miss Fuller had been assaulted, Assistant District attorney Hartman says that he does not believe Dr. O'Hare made any effort in this direction at the second autopsy, but confined his examination exclusively to the head of the dead girl. The question is such a vital one in determining a motive for the shooting to support either the theory of suicide or murder, that it is probable the body will be exhumed in order to satisfactorily settle the question in the interests alike of the prosecution and the defense. Mr. Hartman examined a number of witnesses in the case this morning. He said that the police now had a very complete chain of evidence to submit to the coroner's jury on Monday.

The Cowboy Evangelist in Jail.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 24.—John E. Rice, the cowboy evangelist, had a sensational trial before Mayor Connell yesterday afternoon for obstructing the public highways with his meetings. He was a remarkable prisoner, telling the Mayor he feared no laws but those of God and that no police force was large enough to scare him. He grew so animated that he threatened to smash the city's chief executive and the mayor responded in kind, saying that if he tried to do this he would be laid up for repairs. Rice was fined $15, but as he had no money he was sent to jail for twenty days. An attorney is trying to secure his release.
