

THE ANDOVER NEWS
ONE DOLLAR A YEAR.

HAMILTON C. NORRIS, EDITOR

ANDOVER, N. Y., February 12, 1896.

The merry jingling of silver which was heard in the Senate will find no echo in the House, where the free coinage substitute will be buried.

If such things be possible, the spirit of George Washington must be a little vexed with the freedom the syndicate press writers are taking with his domestic affairs.

It should be recorded in Senator Tillman's favor that he doesn't resort to comic valentines to let another man know what he thinks of him. He speaks night out in meeting.

Minnesota is also a victim of the British boundary fiend. Something like 1000 square miles were wrongfully taken from the northern end of the state by the English boundary commission of 1842.

The New York magistrate who decided, by honorably discharging a woman charged with taking money from her husband's pocket, that such purloining of cash was one of the legal prerogatives of a wife, may yet have a monument.

If the verdict of that Missouri jury be carried out and millionaire Duestrow be hung for murdering his wife and child, respect for the law will be greatly increased among those who are always saying that rich men are not punished for their crimes.

The people are beginning to suspect that a country which has so much ready money to invest in government bonds, and yet is compelled from time to time to borrow to keep itself running, must have a financial system which is a very rare and remarkable curiosity.

In deciding to go to the Holy Land instead of into a campaign for a seat in the U. S. Senate Mr. Wanamaker displayed good business sense. He will doubtless get enjoyment, as well as numerous attractions for his bargain counters, out of his trip, while he had no certainty of getting anything except worry out of the political venture.

There was never a campaign for President in which there was so little active contest and none where there was so great an element of uncertainty as at present. There are practically no candidates for the Democratic nomination—at least no formal applications have yet been filed except by Gov. Matthews of Indiana. Col. Morrison and President Cleveland are the only other persons talked about. There are plenty of candidates on the Republican side and they are all more or less popular and satisfactory to the party, but it is difficult to make an estimate of their comparative strength, because so many of the men who control votes are indifferent and so many more are holding back to see which way the cat is going to jump.

Nobody can doubt, after the number and the value of the bond bids that were opened last Thursday, which represented nearly five times the money that was wanted, that Uncle Sam's credit is still good, even if he is spending from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 a year more than his income. Never within the memory of oldest employees of the treasury department has so much interest been exhibited in the floating of a government loan, and the President and Secretary Carlisle now see how mistaken they were last February, when they intrusted the protection of the public credit to a syndicate of foreigners instead of our own people. The very number and character of the bids, the eagerness of the people to get government bonds, and the demonstration to the world that they are capable of furnishing as much money as the government may want for lawful purposes, is enough to stop the drain upon the treasury and raise the value of government securities higher than they have been for some time.

A great many people take The Buffalo Morning Express because that is recognized as the proper thing to do. Thousands of others swell its circulation because it prints what they want and when they want it. Legislative matters are carefully covered by special correspondents in Washington and Albany. An expert furnishes the market reports. The railroad department is complete. Shippers and mariners depend upon it for the latest reports on their interests. In sporting news The Express continues to lead all competitors. To tell the truth, it gives more for 50 cents a month than can be had anywhere else on so-called "bargain days."

A young man in Lowell, Mass., troubled for years with a constant succession of boils on his neck, was completely cured by taking only three bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Another result of the treatment was greatly improved digestion with increased avoirdupois.

A good farm of 150 acres, three miles from the railroad, will be sold on easy terms. Inquire at the office of Van Fleet & Phillips, Andover, N. Y.
