The Raines excise bill is now before the Legislature in an amended form, and its early passage by both houses is expected. Boards of excise in many cities have within the past ten days renewed large numbers of unexpired licenses, thus enabling saloon keepers to evade for one year the higher fees prescribed by the Raines bill.

For several years past the C. L. S. C. of this village has been divided into "sides," with a captain for each side. The number of credits gained by each member have been carefully recorded, and the side having the least number of credits each half year has provided some sort of an entertainment for the victors. During the first half of the present year Mrs. A. M. Burrows and Mrs. F. S. Clark were the captains. Mrs. Burrows' side won the greater number of counts, and last Wednesday evening the ladies on Mrs. Clark's side treated the victors, and the husbands of all the members, to a most enjoyable banquet, at the home of Mrs. Clark. The elegant spread set before the guests gave conclusive evidence that the ladies had not, during the progress of their literary studies, forgotten how to prepare and serve a repast. Other pleasurable features also contributed to the evening's enjoyment, and the entertainment in all its details was voted a grand success.
