An American engineer named Hob-son has contributed to the Revue Bleue son has contributed to the Actualian in article on the Eastern situation, in which he claimly expresses his doubts which he plainly expresses his doubts of Lord Salisbury's belief that the concert of the powers may eventually lead to a cessation of the present armed peace. He would have Britain go to war at once, since he believes that by next year, or the year after, France and Russia together will have a far strong-er navy than Britain will then possess. er nay than Britain will then possess.

Mr. Hobson declares that the dual alliance of France and Russia will easily dispose of the triple alliance..

"France for money. Russia for men," he says, "are almost inexhaustible, but the triple alliance cannot stand the strain of keeping up its armaments much longer, and England will have to make very heavy sacrifices to regain a httle of the superiority which she will have lost in warships of the first-class." Russia and France will, therefore, wait till the rest of Europe is bankrupt, and then, perhaps, arrange a new alliance. In this way, Mr. Hobson arrives at the conclusion that England ought to go to war immediately, "since every day that passes puts her in a state of increasing inferiority at sea as compared with her adversaries." It is clear that Mr. Hob-son's article was written for a French and Russian alliance.

If any of The Times readers have a desire to enjoy duck and brant shooting such as was had in the '60's, they can be suited at this time along the "Easten Shore," anywhere between Hog Island and Cape Charles.

It is not often in these times that one can see ten acres of ducks as close as the hairs on a brush, but this was really seen on Wednesday last from a blind on the east end of Hog Island, while further out were thousands of brant and one could hear the hoarse "honk" of the cunado goose. So far all the ducks are butter-balls, hen bill divers. broad bills and sheldrake. Very few mallard or redheads.

Every man along the shore has forty reasons for this sudden invasion of the birds, each one more absurd than the other, and naturalists are just as much astray; in fact, no one knows why, with the same conditions prevailing. ducks will be plenty one season and scarce another.

It is a hig thing to get sixty brace of ducks in a day in these times, yet on this very ground Tom Bayard, of Delaware, and Harry Pintard, of Baltimore, got 166 on one tide with breechloaders in 1869. On the Jersey coast Mr. Belcher, of Philadelphia, killed 200 brant off Brigantine in the same year.

On Tuesday last two Philadelphians got eighty ducks and brant in five hours and lost at least a third more. In old times the loading of the guns would have consumed nearly three hours, but conditions are easier, now that one has a gun that he can charge lying on his back.

The Dogs of Madagascar.

An acquaintance of mine who has just returned from Madagascar tells many interesting stories of that far away land of trouble, but, being a great admirer of dogs, he never tires of dwelling on the remarkable intelligence of the nondescript curs that infest the island.

"Like the dogs of Constantinople, said he, "they know no owners, permit no familiarities and make no friends. They are self-reliant scavengers, with all the cunning and intelligence that chronic hunger inspires. They are no-madic in their habits and always travel in large packs, sometimes traversing great distances in an extraordinarily short space of time.

"The island is cut up by a great num-The Island is cut up a great number of deep, sluggish streams, and pestilential swamps which are infested with crocodiles and caymans. Those voracious reptiles don't want a better dinner than a strny dog, and no one knows better than the dogs themselves. When a pack of marauding canines come to a stream they know that they have to resort to strategy in order to cross in safety, so the whole pack get together and they bark and howl and bark furiously for several minutes. A crocodile or an alligator that has slept for a month will wake up as soon as be hears a dog bark, and commence a still hunt for the dog. The result is that every reptile within hearing of the yelping pack husties up as near as he can approach and waits for one to plunge in. When the river is full of them the dogs suddenly dash up stream about 300 yards, plunge in and swim across before the alligators get done snapping their jaws together, and off till they stream, when the strategy is repeated.

Mortis Presisance, of No. 1 Pint Street, Ree Tork, who is a real estate agent and collector of reads, caught a severe cold early last spring, which settled upon his kidneys. Soon he began to suffer severe pain in his backbone, adds and chest. His symptoms grow rapidly more alarming, until at last he was as seipless as a child and could scarcely move ie lay on his bed. As Mr. Presian as he lay on his bed. As Mr. Preslaner is well known in the part of the fown where he resides, he had many sympathiaers, who did all they could to help him.

Though a native of Berlin, Mr. Preslaner has lived in this country for forty years, having served the sufficient war. He can be considered with the Nineteenth Illinois Intantry, taking part in many battles and marching with General Sherman to the sea, while in Georgia, Mr. Preslaner was promoted to first Sergeant for bravery on the hidd of action. He is now a member of Roites Post, tt. A. R., and is one of the most popular men is the Post.

Mr. Preslaner told a reporter the story of his dresdful illness and wonderful recovery. The reporter met him as he was returning from a long walk, and, saying that he had beard of his won-ierful cure, asked him to this the story. When Mr. Preslaner was comfortably scaled in his pleasant parlor, he told thus following story, which, he said, he hoped everyone who was suffering as he had suffered, would read. His words were as follows: "To begin with, I was taken sick just a year and a month ago, having taken a severe cold which settled on my kidneys. At first I thought the pain I suffered would soon pass away, but, instend of doing this, it grow more intense every day, so that in a week I could walk only with considerable difficulty.

"I called if a doctor, who said I had locomotor staxis and began treating me for that disease. He did me no good, and all summer long I could earney attend to my business at all. Then I called another doctor and took his medicine for several weeks, but experienced no rolled. Dr. Truman Nichols, of No. 237 East Broadway, who I at last called in, helped me more than any of the other doctors, but along towards fall I grow worse, despite his treatment. I think, Dr. Nichols is a good doctor and understood my case, but despite this fact his medicines did me no lasting cood.

"Early in November the little strength I had in my logs left me and I was unable to stand. The pain in my back and sides became almost unbearable and my lumbs grew cold. Ancectric battery I hought failed to-kelp, and for weeks I felt myself gradually growing weaker until all hope loft me. "Sometime before this I had read of a wonderful cure a man had received from Dr. Williams" Pink Pills for Fale People, but was so prejudiced against what I thought of what I had read and of the symptoms of the man who had been cured. They were precisely the same as mine, and at last, with my wife's earnest entreaty, I consented to try Pink Pills. "I am now convinced that these pilks awad my life. Gradually my strength began to return, the desire to live grew stronger. After having taken three boxes I left myself he gan to return, the desire to live grew stronger. After having taken three boxes I left my bed. This was enriy in March. All path had left me, and that terrible dead feeling in my lees had gone away.
