Somebody cut one star from a flag that was used in decorating the opera house on Memorial Day. This made a veteran mad, and he offered $10 for knowledge of who did it. Uncle Sam frequently adds new stars to the flag, but never takes one away, and the man who tries to do the latter is deserving of the same treatment as the one who hauls the flag down.

Some time ago Officer Nobles received word from Canisteo to arrest a "tall slim fellow with all the fingers off the left hand." Monday in driving through Andover Nobles saw such a man and brought him to Wellsville and photographed Officer Halsey at Canisteo. The man came in on train one last night, and took the prisoner Koscoe Staller to the station where he is charged with burglary.

A change of dates has been made for the presentation of the opera of "Nell Gwynne" in Hornellsville, and the last performance will not be given until Friday evening of this week. On that evening train 5 will stop at this station to accommodate those who go from here, and it is probable that this arrangement will result in a large attendance from Andover.

Mrs. Frank Kemp was taken with a fainting spell last Saturday afternoon while at the Memorial Day services. She did not recover readily and was taken to Dr. Brainard's office, where efforts to restore consciousness were unavailing until about 8 o'clock in the evening, at which time she began to show signs of recovery. She was able to be taken home about 11 o'clock.

The News has received, with the compliments of Charles A. Ball of Wellsville, Assistant Clerk in the State Senate, a copy of the "Red Book" for 1896, and we desire to return to that gentleman our prettiest thanks for his kindness in providing us with that valuable work. The Red Book for 1896 is more complete than any of its predecessors, and contains a fund of information not obtainable from any other source.

It is a custom now-a-days for everybody in business to have an "opening," and the new brewery at Hornellsville followed the custom yesterday. There were other attractions in the same city, however, and perhaps the man you think went to the "opening" merely attended the ball game or the opera of "Nell Gwynne" in the evening. Perhaps, also, the very reverse of this was the fact. Anyhow, the ball game and the opera are said to have been good. We haven't seen anybody who sampled the beer.

In days of old, the warriors bold
Drank sparkling wine at night,
But in this age, it's all the rage
To drink pure "Heart's Delight."

The transmission of electricity from Niagara Falls to New York is a marvelous achievement. Equally remarkable is the favor with which Heart's Delight Coffee has been received by the trade.
