They call the Atlantic cable. Bold Cyrus Field, he said, says he. "I have a pretty notion, That I can lay a telegraph Across the Atlantic ocean."

Then all the people laughed and said They'd like to see him do it: He might get half-seas-over, but He never could go through it. To carry out his foolish plan

He never would be able: He might as well go hang himself With his Atlantic cable. But Cyrus was a valiant man.

A fellow of decision: And heeded not their mocking words, Their laughter and derision. Twice did his bravest efforts fail. And yet his mind was stable:

He wa'n't the man to break his heart "Once more, my gallant boys!" he cried! "Three times!—you know the fable"— ("I'll make it thirty," muttered he.
