Neuralgia's Pangs

L. A. Burrows.

Are the warning cries from overworked, worried, weak, hungry and exhausted nerves—nerves that have been abused and neglected until outraged nature could stand the strain no longer without a protest. Every piercing, cutting, tearing, burning, pressing pain of this dreadful disease is a call for help. Why not heed this call while relief is within your reach? Now is the time to begin; and the best of all remedies to use is

NOTES AND COMMENTA This lesson immediately follows the last lesson in point of time, being Tues day afternoon, April 4, the third day before the crucifixion. Jesus is on His way from the temple to Bethany, on the Mount of Olives, overlooking Jerusalem. Through the parable of the virgins He utters prophecies and warnings to His disciples. The lesson analysis covers the following three points: 1. The Preparation for the Bridegroom.-2. The Cry at Midnight.-Ver. 5-9. 3. The Arrival of the Bridegroom.-Ver.

After silencing His enemies, the gen- Clice. tle, tender Jesus pronounced the most terrible woes upon them because of their falseness and misleading of the people, closing with a touching lament that would befall it on account of its rejection of Him. He saw a poor widow casting into the treasury her little offering, and praised her, for she had given all she had. His public ministry was closed. As Jesus went out of the temple with His disciples, He prophesied that the immense stones in the temple foundations should all be thrown down. On their way to Bethany they sat down on the western slope of the Mount of Olives, where they for weeks is living could look down upon the city. There Jesus foretold the dreadful troubles she had stored As they were still sitting on the I' mountain side. Jesus described His conown coming again in great glory. Those warned the servant to be awake and watching. But the one we study to-day looks rather to a preparation that should be made long before. It was the custom to celebrate a marriage by a procession from the house of the bride to that of the bridegroom. It was generally at night, and everybody had to carry a lighted For Grip aches use lamp. Each of the girls should have brought enough oil to last, and have had it with her. This was something they knew they would need, and could have attended to it many days before. While waiting for the wedding procession there was no reason why they should keep awake. The procession would come with noise and music. Had they been all ready they could have been getting refreshing sleep so as to be bright for the feast. But the preparation had been neglected. It is not parable. It is to make sure of the prep. LUSS OF MANHOOD
