Indeed, a pastorate of more than eight or ten years is now a decided rarity, though there are notable exceptions to this rule.

A farmer living in Channahon, Ill lit his pipe and threw the match in the bottom of the carriage. First thing he knew his wife's clothing and his own were ablaze. There is a double moral to this story. On the one hand, it may be used as an argument against smoking and on the other against a man riding out with his wife.
