serve Memorial Day; not only . decking the graves of our patriots with flowers. But out of respect and honor to the boys in blue, and to whom this day is one of tender memory, every citizen, youth and child, should observe the day with the mark of respect due it. This is not done by base ball games, dances, or those sports which properly belong to a Fourth of July celebration. Each year we feel the lack of reverance and respectful attention given this day which every American should -feel proud to bestow on these brave men who, for our land, fought, suf fered and died. Each year as we note with saddened thought that the line of the blue grows smaller and a trifle less erect, in proportion, well should become more loyal and thoughtful for them. Surely
