Mrs. Henrietta C. Baker.

In a letter from Dwight B. Baker of Brooklyn, to the editor, we learn for the first time of the death of his estimable wife, Mrs. Henrietta C. Baker, last Spring. In speaking of her, Mr. Baker says: "She lived in Andover a few short years. Many of her very dear friends there have also sone to that other land from which no traveler returns, yet it is unspeakably comforting to believe that "Whosoever liveth and believeth in] Me shall never die." A most remarkable halo of beauty, kindness and & lovliness, untainted by any trace of evil or wrong, surrounded her whole life and being. Her maiden rame was 'a Conklin. Born in Monsey, N.
