Andover's well known reputation of doing things right has been fully carried out, and when the doors are opened the public will behold one of Another of Andover's Most Highly the finest play houses in Western New York. Lasting credit is due to Contractor Scott Prest, whose exceptir nal ability and untiring energy has made this building possible. He has rlans and directions of Leon H. Lampert & Son, architects and decorating artists, of Rochester, who have built some of the finest theatres in Amer-

The Auditorium is on the ground floor, with nine easy exits and has a seating capacity of about 600. The lower floor containing 352 comfortable mahogany chairs. The upper and low er boxes on either side, balcony and prosecium arch are decorated in stucco by Wm. H. Maltby & Sons, art ists. The stage is of ample size and ':eight and the dressing rooms are su ficient to conveniently accomodate the best traveling companies. The elabcrate scenery and stage settings are from the studio of Alphonse Ball of

The entire building has been built by popular subscription by Andover citizens. It is 92 feet in width on dition to the Auditorium and lobby, four stores a commodious lodge room one suite of living rooms and a public hall opening from Main Street, with a hard wood floor 33x82 feet. The building is built of brick and tile and is nearly fire proof.

At first it was planned to finish the building in a plain, substantial manne and postpone the interior decorations, expensive seats and scenery until such a time as revenue might be secured from popular benefits for that purpose. Anticipating that the people would appreciate the building furnish (c) complete and generously patronize the entertainments which will be hell for that purpose, the company assuman indebtedness of $1,500 beyond what they had provided a way for pa: ment, and the NEWS prophesies that the first entertainment will be so wel
