Higgins' Best-Ever Sweet Peas

Elsewhere will be found in this paper a notice of the famous Sweet Peas of Edgar A. Higgins, which discriminating lover of these popular flowers all over the country have for years found to be even more than is claimed for them.

Mr. Higgins is a newspaper man whose fascinating fad since boyhood has been the study and culture of the most beautiful Sweet Peas. He is often called upon to act as judge at fairs and flower carnivals and he has won hundreds of coveted premiums in the hottest competition with leading specialists all over the country.

His collections are composed of varieties he has personally grown and tasted, and his patrons thus get the benefit of his study and experience. This paper takes pleasure in assuring all who send him orders that they will be both justly and generously dealt with.

A STUMBLING BLOCK.

Governor Sulzer Between Two Fires in the New York Subway Situation.

The Greater New York subway contracts, involving the expenditure of $350,000,000, are violently opposed by the Hearst papers and the New York World. The term of Commissioner Wilcox will expire Feb. 1. He was instrumental in negotiating the contracts, and if a new commissioner is appointed who is opposed to the policy of municipal partnership with capital the entire subject may be thrown open again.

Governor Sulzer is committed to the policy of appointing an organization Democrat in place of Wilcox, but only as a matter of patronage. He doesn't wish to be mixed up in the larger question, which involves the outlay of millions and the future of a great city. But whether he will or no his entire future seems likely to be involved in the appointment, as W. R. Hearst is a candidate for the commission.

This places the governor on the horns of a dilemma. If he appoints Hearst he will be held responsible not only for the overturning of the subway contracts, but for any future policy Hearst may adopt. He will also offend Tammany Hall. If he refuses to appoint Hearst or some one who holds Hearst's views he will lose the support of the American and the New York World.

Civilizing Influence of Baseball.

Dr. Charles William Elliot, for forty years president of Harvard, recently stated that "baseball has been the greatest single factor for good among the Chinese." In explanation of his statement he says that it has done much among the younger classes to induce them to abandon games of chance.

Not long ago some of our educators in the Philippines gave similar testimony as to the civilizing influence of baseball among the Filipinos.

The national game is being vindicated. It did not need vindication among people of red blood, but some of the dilettante affected to despise it. Now even they are being converted, which makes it unanimous.

In future ages baseball may be classed with the railroad, public schools, democracy and newspapers as one of the great civilizing influences of the world. All of these are abused by some classes of people, but there have been knoekers, cynics and pessimists since time began. Despite the carping all of these institutions are fairly healthy and vigorous and are conquering all lands.

There is a psychological principle involved, which is that human beings go in the direction of their desire. They can be coaxed toward civilization much better than they can be driven. Now there is an element of popularity in baseball which means that it satisfies human desire.

Baseball is a healthy game that develops the best qualities. It requires skill and muscle. It takes people into the open. It begets a spirit of fair play. It is essentially democratic. It appeals to all kinds and conditions of men.

If the Chinese have taken up baseball there is hope that their new republic has come to stay.
