NEED SANITARIUMS FOR WHITE PLAGUE

American Institutions Compared With Those in Germany.

In Many Respects This Country Leads, While in Others There is Room for Great Improvement—Seaside Sanitariums Beneficial For Bone or Glandular Tuberculosis Patients.

Wallington, Conn. — The state of Connecticut, which has been priding itself on the excellence of its institutions for the fight against tuberculosis, has much to learn from Germany, according to the report of Dr. Stephen J. Maher of New Haven, chairman of the state tuberculosis commission. Dr. Maher went to Berlin to attend the recent conference, and his report to Governor Baldwin shows in what respects Connecticut is remiss.

First of all he pleads for a seaside sanitarium. Germany, Dr. Maher says, leads the world in the number and variety of its sanitariums. This is largely due to the fact that half or more of the population is enrolled in sickness and disability insurance companies; hence it is advantageous to the organizations to cure their tuberculosis patients as soon as possible.

American sanitarium equipment compares favorably with that which Dr. Maher saw abroad. The German sanitariums are of brick or stone, while in this state they are entirely of wood. The grounds about German institutions are carefully groomed, while here the erection of buildings and systematizing of management have hitherto engrossed attention. German sanitariums make a feature of X ray machines and a tiled douche room, neither of which Connecticut buildings have. To the douche room patients must go every day for a vigorous hose douching.

Dr. Maher thinks American nurses are better, quicker and more attentive to details.

The wards for infants are wonders in Germany. They are of glass and tile and are really large incubators, with elaborate contrivances for regulating temperature and ventilation. All milk is served pasteurized or sterilized. All babies are carefully tested from birth with tuberculin for evidence of taint of tuberculosis.

America leads Germany in its open air treatment of patients, and it does not place a limitation upon the stay of a patient. In Germany the patient remains no longer than four or six months. At the end of that time the improved cases are supposed to know how to continue the treatment at home and the unimproved are sent home as incapable of receiving further benefit. The patients then remain in care of friends until the end. If the incurable has no home the insurance company sends him, as a rule, to the general hospital of the district.

Germany, however, is ahead in forest schools and seaside sanitariums for bone or glandular tuberculosis patients.

DREAM LOCATES WILL.

Debutant Lost For Many Years Found by Dead Man's Sister.

Decatur, Ill.—Miss Helen Locklin of Bement, Ill., has finally presented at her lawyer's office here a long lost will, drawn by her late brother, Frank Locklin. She had dreamed of its location and by finding it saved her home and truck garden from sale to satisfy a judgment she had obtained herself.

Frank Locklin died in 1910, leaving three sisters. Helen had long helped him make a living and expected that the will would bequeath her the home. No will could be found. A week or two ago a dream gave her a clew which led to her recovery of the document.
