Children Cry FOR FLEISHER'S CASTORIA

SNATCHED FROM DEATH.

A Perilous Rescue After an Involuntary Plunge Overboard.
While reefing a new pair of lee sheets on board a small schooner, the author of "My Vagabondage," then a lad of fourteen, dropped headlong into the seething foam about the bows. The next moment he was jerked to the surface, dragged along through the water for the space of thirty seconds and left gasping. He says:
Two parts of a patent link had separated. I had instinctively grasped, as I fell, the end of the stay that led from the topmast head through the iron loop at the outer end of the bowsprit. My unconscious hold on that had brought me to the surface, as the smack lifted her head to the swell, and I still clutched it.
Now began a game at which I had never before played. Every time the head of the vessel dipped between the pale green and mud tinged rollers I grasped up the slack chain for dear life, but when she rose again she tore it through my hands.
Whenever I saw the bowsprit descending I thought I might get hold of it and clamber back to it. Yet that means of rescue was denied me. On each occasion it uplifted when only a few inches beyond my reach. It was then that the cook came on deck. He came to the bow, saw me and ran aft to the companionway, shouting, "Ted's overboard! Ted's overboard!" Before he could say more all hands were on deck, almost pushing each other aside in their eager efforts to be first.
Little more than a second sufficed to bring the four to the weather bow. There the skipper seized a line and threw it to me, but I failed to get hold of it. Again he threw, and again I missed it. Brown clambered out on the bowsprit and tried to reach me with his hand whenever the spar descended, but could not.
"Let go," roared the skipper, "and we'll pick you up!" But I felt that to release my grasp was to sink at once, for my strength was almost gone. I dared not let go.
"Hold on!" yelled Brown. "Get hold of my legs!" and he slid head first over the rail by the fore shroud, as the other two seized his ankles. I floated near, the chain slipped from me, I was just sinking. Brown called out, "Lower!"
They let him down another foot. His arms and head came into the icy water. His clutch fastened on my clothes, and by one of those superhuman efforts that men are capable of at such times, we were lifted clear over the bulwarks into safety.
Premature Explosion.
"Madam," said the street car conductor, "is this your boy?"
"Yes, sir; he is," she snapped.
"And I am not going to pay any fare for him, either. He isn't five years old yet!"
"I didn't dream of asking you to pay fare for him, madam. I was only going to tell you he's the brightest and handsomest little fellow I've seen for many a day."
Then he passed down the aisle, leaving the portly dame speechless and gasping for breath.—Chicago Tribune.
Cheerfulness.
The true secret of good health and immunity from disease lies in laughing out and practicing the golden mean of every crisis. Cheerfulness is one of the best aids to length of days. It is possible to cultivate this quality, and in the interests of those about us, no less than in our own, it ought to be cultivated.

THE FORUM

WASHINGTON AND LINCOLN

By Rev. V. L. Eggleston

It is a happy coincidence that the birthdays of these two greatest Presidents of our Republic occur during February, the Lincoln anniversary on the twelfth and the Washington on the twenty-second. As the years pass these two stand out in the presidential line in a class by themselves. There have been more brilliant men in the presidential chair, and men of larger culture and stronger powers in certain directions. But these two are not approached in the most essential qualities of true greatness—sound judgment in difficult and critical situations, patience under reproach and opposition, real feeling for the inherent rights of humanity and incorruptible moral sublimity of character.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN
A head how sober; a heart how spacious;
A manner equal with high or low;
Rough but gentle, uncouth but gracious,
And still inclining to lips of woe.
Patient when saddest, calm when sternest,
Grieved when rigid for justice' sake;
Given to jest, yet ever in earnest
If aught of right or truth were at stake.
Simple of heart, yet shrewd therein,
Slow to resolve, but firm to hold;
Still with parable and with myth
Seasoning truth, like them of old;
Aptest humor and quaintest pith;
(Still we smile o'er the tales he told.)
But how true to the Common Cause!
Of his task how unweary!
How hard he worked, how good he was.
How kindly and how cheery!
How much he cared for the State,
How little for praise or pelf!
A man too simply great
To scheme for his proper self.
But in mirth that strong heart rested
From its strife the false and violent—
A jester!—So Henry jested,
So jested William the Silent.
Yet who so might pierce the guise
Of mirth in the man we mourn,
Would mark, and with grieved surprise,
All the great soul had borne,
In the piteous lines, and the kind, sad eyes
So dreadfully wearied and worn.
And we trusted, (the last dread page
Once turned, of our Dooms day Scrolled)
To have seen him, sunny of soul,
In a cheery, grand old age.
But, Father, 'tis well with thee!
And since ever, when God draws nigh,
Some grief for the good must be,
'Twas well, even so to die.
Henry Howard Brownell,
Summer, 1865.

A TEST FOR LIVER COMPLAINT
MENTALLY UNHAPPY—PHYSICALLY DULL
The Liver, sluggish and inactive, first shows itself in a mental state—unhappy and critical. Never is there joy in living, as when the stomach and liver are doing their work. Keep your liver active and healthy by using Dr. King's New Life Pills; they empty the bowels freely, tone up your stomach, cure your constipation and purify the blood. 25¢ at druggist, Bucklen's Arctica Salve excellent for Piles.—Advertisement.

PROMPT ACTION WILL STOP YOUR COUGH
When you first catch a cold (often indicated by a sneeze or cough), break it up at once. The idea that "it does not matter" often leads to serious complications. The remedy which immediately and easily penetrates the lining of the throat is the kind demanded. Dr. King's New Discovery soothes the irritation, loosens the phlegm. You feel better at once. "It seemed to reach the very spot of my cough" is one of many honest testimonials. 50¢, at your druggist.—Advertisement.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Rev. F. M. Baker, Pastor.

"I WAS GLAD WHEN THEY SAID UNTO ME LET US GO INTO THE HOUSE OF THE LORD."
A third sermon in the series on "Getting Married" will be one with the above title, an effort to depict and exalt the home that every young man or woman is dreaming about or seeking to realize in life. This will be the theme at the next federated service in this church on Feb. 21st. Appreciating the hearty response with which this series has been received and the large attendance each evening the pastor plans the two closing themes, "The Home You Want" and "Fatherhood and Motherhood." Absolute frankness and clear-cut convictions will continue to be the method and the object of these addresses.

Protection for the Home

The strongest desire of husband and wife is the welfare of their children. The husband works hard to provide for them, and would be glad to know how best to safeguard them. The wife works hard, too—in the home—and is equally interested with her husband in sound insurance protection, such as that offered by the

Postal Life Insurance Company

It will pay you

To find out just what the POSTAL LIFE can do for you. The Company issues all the standard legal-reserve policy-forms: it supplies all personal information to all applicants—men, women and young people—and distance from New York does not hinder. Just write and say:
"Mail me life-insurance particulars for my age," and be sure to mention this paper.
In your letter be sure to give
1. Your Full Name
2. Your Occupation
3. The Exact Date of your Birth
The request for information placed you under no obligation and no agent will be sent to visit you. The Postal Life does not employ agents but gives policyholders the benefit of agents' commissions—the first year and every other.

SOUTH HILL

Feb. 3.—The bear that was in Tuesday did not see how, so according to us, we may look for another one.
Leland Livermore and Cramer, were recent guests of Mrs. C. O. Livermore in Hallsport.
John Dean and his mother A. Dean, enjoyed their trip to Wellsville last week, a couple of days visiting friends in that city.
Phil Krowl returned to town last week, where he had been employed.
Miss Nellie Horan was the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. H. Horan, from Saturday until Monday.
Miss Florence Frey of Wellsville spent Sunday with her mother, Mrs. P. A. Dean and her friends in Hallsport.
Henry Horan drove to Wellsville Tuesday and incidentally in the big wrestling match drew the crowd that was seen there.
Miss May Dean returned to town Monday.
Marshall Huggins of New York, who is visiting with his mother and brother John McAndrew in Wellsville, was in town Tuesday. He is interested in the Wellsville Hospital and neighbors that it is somewhat improved.
