THE FIRST WOMAN TO VOTE IN AMERICA

Mrs. Catt Discovers Her In an Old-Time New Yorker.

This is the season of county conventions for suffrage campaigners, who are organized by assembly districts along the lines followed by political parties. Chairmen of the campaign districts which follow roughly the lines of the judicial districts are rounding up their workers, county by county, and campaign officers are being elected in preparation for an arduous summer and fall campaign.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, who as president of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance guides the struggle for the women of twenty-six nations as chairman of the Empire State campaign committee likewise guides the women of New York state in their suffrage activities. For weeks she has been on tour, going from one county convention to another, establishing schools for women watchers at the polls, heartening the local workers and welding them into closer organization. At the Rochester convention she took time to say that everywhere she found New York women fired with the ambition to become voters. "This ambition is a direct inheritance for women New Yorkers," said Mrs. Catt and straightway fell into on of her story telling moods.

"It is perhaps not so generally known as it might be that the first white woman to vote in America was a New Yorker. Her name was Lady Deborah Moody. Her voting was not extensive, but it was at least equal to that permitted to any man in the colony.

"In 1632 she was left a widow with one son. In 1640 she sailed for America and purchased a farm in Massachusetts. Evidently she was not possessed of a large store of worldly goods since a contemporary wrote of her, 'She is a good lady, but almost undone by buying Master Humphries' farm.' Possibly she was quite 'undone' later, since in 1642 she removed to New York and settled at Hempstead. However, in the year previous her Salem

CITATION FOR PROBATE OF WILL

To Frances Payne, Mima Doss, Latha Bronner, Jennie Manning, and Flora Breneman, heirs at law and next of kin of John C. Nichols, send GREETING:

Whereas Abby Jane Nichols who resides at Andover, N. Y., has lately applied to the Surrogate's Court of our County of Allegany, to have a certain instrument in writing, relating to both real and personal property, duly proved as the last Will and Testament of John C. Nichols, who was at the time of his death a resident of Andover, Allegany County, N. Y., deceased.

Therefore, you and each of you are cited to show cause before the Surrogate's Court of our County of Allegany, at the Surrogate's Office in the Village of Belmont, N. Y., on the 28th day of May, 1915, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, why the said Will and Testament should not be admitted to probate as a will of real and personal property.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, we have caused the Seal of the Surrogate's Court of the said County of Allegany to be hereunto affixed.

WITNESS, Hon. James T. Ward, Dist. Atty. and (L.S.) Acting Surrogate of said County, at Belmont, N. Y., this 23rd day of April, in the year of our Lord One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifteen.

JAMES T. WARD,

Dist. Atty. and Acting Surrogate.

NOTE:—This citation is served to give you Legal Notice of the proceedings; but you are not obliged to appear unless you desire to do so. 21

McGinty, late of the Town of Andover, in said County, deceased to present the same with the vouchers therefor, to the undersigned administratrix at the law office of Francis B. O'Connor, Baldwin Block, Village of Wellsville, said County, on or before November 1st, 1915.

CARRIE CHAPMAN CATT.

church had called her to task for holding 'that baptism of infants was no ordinance of God,' and history records that she came to New York in order to secure religious liberty.

"Liberty of worship she undoubtedly found, but she had literally jumped from the proverbial frying pan into the fire, as an Indian war was raging on Long Island. One day her house was completely surrounded by a large band of natives brandishing their battleaxes. She managed to disperse them, but for many months she lived as did her neighbors, in constant dread of unexpected treachery. Lady Moody's voice was always heard at the councils continually called to consider problems of the war, and it was largely due to her wisdom and management that peace was finally restored.

"So bravely did she repel attacks of the Indians during the war that Kieft, the Dutch director general, gave to her honored Lady Deborah Moody, her heirs and two others a patent for the great tract of land now covered by the town of Gravesend, and there she lived until her death.

"It so happened that in the year 1655 Gravesend had neglected to make its usual nomination of officers to Director Stuyvesant, then the head of the colony. In consequence he wrote to Lady Moody, the oldest patentee of the town, and to two other inhabitants, asking them to perform the duty as required by their patent. A month later the nominations were sent in a document signed by Deborah Moody and John Tilton 'in behalf of the rest.' Had it not been for this incident the fact that Lady Moody performed the same political obligations as the men of the colony would never have been known. For how many years she possessed the right and whether there were other women patentees similarly privileged the inadequate records of the times do not reveal.

"From all which it will be seen that whoever the woman who gets to the polls first at the first election after the longed for suffrage victory—Nov. 2—it will not be possible for her to claim the proud distinction of being New York's first woman voter. Lady Moody's feat will remain for 260 years."
