THE MAN WITH TEN DOLLARS

and no debts is a Capitalist. He is a potential Captain of Industry. He is in position to control the labor of four men for day, the labor of one man for several days; and in this way multiply his own individual efforts.

So Ten Dollars isn't such a small thing after all. To be the owner of Ten Dollars with the opportunities it brings is well worth striving for. And it isn't so very hard to accumulate Ten Dollars, or $100, or even $1,000 with its larger opportunities,—if you go about it the right way, the safe, business-like way.

YOU can do it. Just start an account with us and add to it as you can. It will probably surprise you how quickly you can accumulate a "working balance"—an amount sufficient for a small investment. Try it.

CONSTANTINOPLE

The Siege and Sacking of the Famous City by Mohammed II.

Mohammed II. moved to begin his great siege of Constantinople in February, 1453, but the ponderous character of his artillery made it impossible to get his weapons in place for three months longer, and the real siege began in April. It lasted fifty-three days, and Mohammed entered the city and extinguished the last remains of the Roman empire on May 29.

Cannon were still in the experimental stage, and there was a belief that the bigger the gun the more destructive it would be, so Mohammed had a cannon made, the diameter of whose mouth is said to have been two feet and a half. Stone balls were still in use in those days.

Mohammed had 70,000 men, while the force of the Christians did not exceed 9,000. The Turkish fleet consisted of 320 vessels. The Christians were inadequately supplied with gunpowder, and every repulse they inflicted on the Turks brought nearer the day of their own downfall.

Battering rains, cannon and liquid fire were used constantly in the attack upon the half ruined forts of Constantinople, and at one time the Turks sent forward a wooden turret on rollers, which was destroyed by the Greeks and their allies. A Christian squadron of only five ships repulsed the Turks in a desperate naval engagement, though Mohammed himself, sitting on horseback on the beach, yelled reproaches at his sailors and even spurred his horse into the sea.

Mohammed conceived the desperate operation of carrying his ships overland from the Bosphorus into the higher part of the harbor. The upper harbor was occupied. The Ottoman cannon demolished the Greek forts in forty days, and the final assault began in the morning of May 29. The Emperor Constantine fought to the last and died like a hero, and a pitiless sack of the city began the moment it fell, under the explicit permission and order of Mohammed himself. An invasion of Serbia began with in a few days, and the Turk was placed firmly on his European throne.—New York Times.
