COMMISSION ON INDUS- TRIAL RELATIONS

Chairman Frank P. Walsh and the representatives of labor will present a minority report for the Commission on Industrial Relations, and a majority report will be handed in by the three representatives of capital, who will be supported by Mrs. Borden J. Harriman, the rich widow who was given a job on the Commission. The Commission attracted interest particularly because of its investigation of the Colorado coal strike, and Mr. Walsh's rigid examination of John D. Rockefeller, junior. Walsh is bitterly arraigned by some of his associates on the Commission, and he is accused of advancing all sorts of socialistic dogma. This charge is sustained by his proposal that all estates in excess of one million dollars be seized. It may at first seem disappointing that so important a Commission should fail in presenting a unanimous report, but when it is recalled that the United States Supreme Court usually divides in about the same proportion, whenever there is an important question involved, it is hardly reasonable to expect any other result.

Walsh is the victim of attack for very simple reasons that were apparent to everyone who attended the hearings at Washington, New York or other parts of the country. His wonderful grasp of the vital issues between labor and capital, and his fearless championship of human rights, ought to mark him as one of humanity's noblest friends. But quite on the contrary, it has brought the customary ridicule and misinterpretation that is usually manufactured by that part of the metropolitan press which faithfully serves its masters. One might suppose that Walsh was a pop-eyed, red-fisted devil from the things that have been said of him. On the contrary, he is a successful practicing attorney, one of the best cross-examiners in the country; and he is gifted with the power to analyze a great problem in a way possessed by few men. When he was in Washington it was acknowledged by those who frequented the hearings, that he was the master mind of the Commission. Perhaps it was a fault, but Walsh was brutally direct with Mr. Rockefeller and some of the other witnesses, and whenever he gave a name to a thing it was so plain that there was no mistaking a spade for a soup tureen.

Congress will have the results of this Commission's work before it, and maybe it will be turned to good advantage. However the chances are that the whole thing will be pigeon-holed the same as were the returns from committees that investigated the money trust, the steel corporations, etc. Nevertheless it must not be assumed that no concrete results have not been obtained in each instance, as a considerable part of the public has followed each affair of these, and the Colorado and Michigan strikes election contributions etc. and the public mind has been strengthened through obtaining a better knowledge of the affairs of their country.

What to Eat

In certain tropical countries the natives live on different kinds of fruit, and there are evidences that the banana, cocount and mango are as good for men and women as sturdy and strong as the meat eaters of the United States. The Chinese grow big and strong from eating rice, and the Arabs are fierce and healthy, and their meat is dates. Some Americans with broken-down digestive apparatus, advocate grapes, nuts, buttermilk or vegetable diets; but as a rule the lives of most people of the United States are shortened, and it could be truthfully written on their death certificates: "Died of a surfait."

American Peace Congress

The rabid militarists and the peace at any price advocates will have to take such satisfaction as they can find out of the present universal discussion of "preparedness." As a matter of fact it is not likely that the United States is going to lose its head, and there are plain evidences that from President Wilson down to the most humble Congressman there is a disposition to carefully map out a plan of suitable defence for the United States, without aping the military methods of European countries. New conditions will be met, and new methods of properly potting the land and the sea will be provided in much the same way as cities increase their "force" when a convention, circus, or a big special function comes to town.

The American Peace Society, which heretofore has made a straight appeal for disarmament, will hold its annual convention in San Francisco in October, and it has Belgian, Persian and Swiss speakers on its program. The Peace Society is in accord with the sober sense of the country in favoring proper preparedness and keeping it; but it insists that new conditions should eventually be evolved, that will make world disarmament not only "possible, out practical.

Typewriters and Stenography

Thirty-five years ago there was not a typewriter owned by the United States Government, and it is doubtful whether there were a dozen stenographers. Today there are approximately 45,000 employees in the Department at Washington, and of these one-third have either a typewriter or stenographer note-book or both in front of them. The Pitman system of shorthand in its varying forms, is most generally employed and about sixty per cent of all the typewriters supplied are the Underwood. In some Departments, like that of the Navy, scarcely any other machine is found. Stenography and typewriting have thoroughly revolutionized the manner of conducting the Government business, and it is doubtful whether the public business could be carried on without these comparatively modern acquisitions. Typewriters and fair stenographers have utterly destroyed the making of historic state papers, and the museums of the future will continue to thrive, as at present, on displays of the chirography of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and others. The Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson regimes would have found themselves swamped if the quill or pen had been necessary to carry on the work of the Executive office. In that one branch of the administration there are scores of stenographers and typists. Surely the old order changeth, and the ways of our forefathers are pretty crude when placed in comparison with present-day methods.

Computing Railroad Swindles

The Interstate Commerce Commission estimates the losses caused to the Rock Island Railroad under the Reid-Morse syndicate at $20,000,000. The New Haven loot was never audited, nor has the process been applied to other big railroads of the country whose earning powers, as in the case of the two above roads, were made a sort of side issue to the stock-gamblers who manipulated their affairs. But Uncle Sam is doing a good piece of work in regulating these industries and he was none too soon otherwise some of their stocks would have become about as valueless as Confederate money.

Blowing Up Thrashing Machines

The Agricultural Department has prepared an alibi in case the Germans should be accused of blowing up American thrashing machines. Several hundred machines actually exploded during the last thrashing season. It has been found that the mixture of dust and air in the chambers of machines are touched off by electric charges, and this can be prevented through grounding the cylinder shafts by running wires from a brush contact with the shaft to an iron rod driven in moist soil.

AMONG THE SUFFRAGISTS

New Mexico is a perfectly good manhood suffrage states that the anti-suffrage speakers ignore. It hasn't any child labor law; it won't let a woman sit on a school board or a charity board. The Survey reports that every bit of social legislation failed in the last legislature. It's sole contribution to human progress was to pass a law requiring a wife's signature to make valid the sale of property which already belonged to her equally with her husband. The men of New Mexico are reported as being just as sure as the men of the East that the women of the State need no better legal protection than that offered by their menfolk.

A few years ago Mrs. Eugene Marsh in Webster Grove, Missouri, found a poor working girl of fifteen whose drunken father collected her wages while her mother remained destitute. The heroic efforts of Mrs. Marsh culminated in 1913 in the passage of an equal guardian law in her State.

Back of most of the laws for the benefit of women and children will be found a Mrs. Marsh struggling against the apathy if not the hostility of men. Then an unkind fate decrees that these same laws that they secured with such difficulty because having no direct political influence shall be used as so many arguments against giving women direct influence by means of the vote.

It has been decreed in Illinois by the State Board of Administration that men and women doing the same work in state institutions shall receive the same pay.

In commenting on this new departure Grace Wilbur Trout, a noted club woman of Chicago, said in an interview, "Illinois women can vote and students of political economy know that no class of persons in history ever received fair treatment from a government in which they had no voice."

In New York, according to Mrs. Crocker, civil service examiner, women in the civil service often do the same work that men do and do it better but for a lesser wage.

The new democracy whose leading feature is social justice can alone save this country from anarchy. Chicago is taking the lead in this new movement: the entry of women into politics is the main impetus; this was the message brought by the pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Chicago to his hearers at the Brick Presbyterian Church of New York whose pulpit he recently occupied.

Anecdotes about Lucy Stone are revived at this season when suffragists are celebrating anniversary of her birth. One of the most touching tells of her rejoicing over her continued good fortune. This good fortune lay in the fact that while she was sometimes saluted with eggs they were never rotten.

Her optimism has only been equalled by the man who rejoiced when his legs were cut off in a railway accident because, as he said, he would never suffer again from cold feet.

GREAT HORNELL FAIR THIS WEEK

With an abundance of good weather the Great Hornell Fair which is being held this week is proving to be a greater success than ever, even without the usual exhibit of cattle, sheep and swine. These have been omitted on account of quarantine for the foot-and-mouth disease, but a visitor does not notice their absence because their places have been filled with other very interesting and educational exhibits. The pigeon roost contains 500 homing pigeons and 100 rabbits and is the most popular place on the grounds. The moving picture show, run up the State Department of Agriculture and Health, and showing various diseases including the dreaded foot-and-mouth disease is crowded to capacity all the time. The cattle sheep and swine barns have been converted into poultry buildings, public comforts and good stabling for visiting farmers. The merry midway is crowded with the usual riding devices, the dare-devil motordrome and more than a dozen high class shows. The Rural School Displays, the City and Rural School exhibits, the Child's Welfare Exhibits, the Parcel Post exhibit and the Gladiola Display in the Main Building are new and popular adventures among the fairs. The Dayton Family, Kirk's Vocal Orchestra and brass quartette, the 3 Alex. the two Harolds and the various other special attractions are better than advertised, while exceptionally large fields in the races furnish exciting sport. As usual, the Great Hornell Fair is the event of the year in this locality, and scores another success.

When you pay a dollar more than you need to pay for something, simply because you do not read ads, you're not showing very much business ability—do you think?

Good Printing is a Persistent Influence Exerted in Your Behalf

Every bit of Printing that goes out to serve you makes some kind of an impression. Poor printing will leave a poor impression of its user as surely would poor clothes, a poor store or poor office. You can get the GOOD KIND at this office—in large or small quantities.

Yes; Some Good Printing Costs Too Much, too

It's the same as with other good things. The temptation to charge "stiff prices" for high-class things or high-class service is always natural, but it's not always justifiable. As to printing, you pay more for it at some places than others. We are one of the "others."
