

things in which the estate is interested in itself, and the things in which both are interested.

It is apparent, Mr. Wickersham continues, that the interest of the state is such that the city cannot be left to frame its own charter and make its own laws, affecting its own operations with out the state reserving some power of disaffirmance of the charter provisions lest its own paramount interests should be injured or destroyed by the acts of its own creature.

These principles are concisely summed up in the Republican platform adopted at Saratoga in 1914, Mr. Wickersham says, and in conformity with these principles article XV. of the revised constitution declares that:

"Every city shall have the exclusive power to manage, regulate, and control its property, affairs and municipal government."

This, he declares, is the broad grant of home rule, qualified only to meet the conditions enumerated, thus: "Subject to the provisions of the constitution and subject, further, to the provisions (1) of the general laws of the state; (2) of laws applying to all cities of the state without classification or distinction; and (3) of laws applying to a county not wholly included in a city establishing or affecting the relation between such a county and a city therein."

The revision or amendment of a city charter, Mr. Wickersham continues, when adopted by the legislative body of the city, becomes a law with the approval of the mayor and the board of estimate and apportionment, if there be one. An amendment which changes the framework of the government of the city or modifies restrictions as to issuing bonds or contracting debts, before it becomes effective must be submitted to the legislature and takes effect 60 days after that, unless in the meantime the legislature in joint session disapproves.

The provisions in the existing constitution giving to cities a suspensory vote over special laws affecting them are continued and applied to special city laws and such bills are made subject to approval by every city affected as well as by the governor. If disapproved while the legislature is in session they may become laws, if repassed by each house of the legislature and approved by the governor.

THE THREE-A-WEEK EDITION OF THE NEW YORK WORLD

Practically a Daily at the Price of a Weekly. No Other Newspaper in the World Gives So Much at so Low a Price

The year 1914 has been the most extraordinary in the history of modern times. It has witnessed the outbreak of the great European war, a struggle so Titanic that it makes all others look small.

You live in momentous times, and you should not miss any of the tremendous events that are occurring. No other newspaper will inform you with the promptness and cheapness of the World. Moreover a year's subscription to it will take you far into our next Presidential campaign.

The Three-A-Week World's regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and The Andover News together for one year for $1.75.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.00.

His Unkind Fling.

"I saw him holding her hand," said her small brother, whereat all the other members of the family looked up.

"Yes," she replied calmly; "he has been studying palmistry."

"Oh!" said the small brother.

"He was reading the story of my life," she persisted defiantly.

For a moment it looked as if she had subdued the small brother. Then he remarked, "You must be pretty old, sis."

"What do you mean?" she demanded.

"It was a long story."

"Don't be absurd, Tommy."

The Cost of Being A Christian

It is customary for "worldlings" to place-pride and money-swollen and pleasure-bitten to speak commiseratingly of the great loss entailed in being a Christian. There is a loss to be sure. Paul recognized it. "What things were counted loss I counted gain," he confesses. Nation, place, money, prestige, fame, friends he lost for Christ's sake. What did he gain? Let the history of 19 centuries estimate his gain—and the world's gain. He lost temporal to gain and to be eternal.

There is a Loss; Certainly.

"The Christian loses the wages of the evil, the crooked, the paltry, the small, the flimsy, the low, the earthly, the frivolous. He misses nothing worth while. A Christian must give up—what a gentleman and lady should give up as a matter of culture, courtesy, scuse and reason, nothing more. A Christian can 'do' what any sensible person should; no less.

LONGER TERMS FOR OFFICE

N. P. L. Makes Important Changes in Constitution and Form of Policy

Rochester, Sept. 26.—The convention of the National Protective Legion, which has been in session here since Tuesday, was adjourned yesterday at noon, and most of the delegates have left for their homes.

The session yesterday was devoted to completing the presentation of the proposed amendments to the constitution and the reading of the reports of the committees. October 16, the anniversary of the foundation of the order, was adopted as the date for the annual celebration of Legion day by the lodges throughout the country, and the red carnation was adopted as the representative flower of the organization.

Important Amendments

Amendments adopted yesterday provided for the collection of a special fund to defray the expenses of delegates at the biennial national convention, the extension of the term of office of the representatives and national officers from two to four years, and the appointment by the national president of officers in local lodges should they themselves fail to elect them.

One amendment to their disability form of insurance, known as Class B, provided for the payment of $100 for the loss of an eye, hand, foot or limb. Another amendment to the same class provided that after October 1 the Legion will write another insurance policy. The premium will be 75 cents a month, which will provide a payment of $5 a week for disability. Minor changes were made in the Class C form of insurance, relating to policies which are written after October 1.

Another amendment to the constitution provided that the expenses of delegates to the national conventions will be paid in future from a per capita tax levied on the organization as a whole, instead of being left to the individual legions, as formerly.

LAYS 287 EGGS IN 330 DAYS

Philadelphia, Sept. 26.—A new world's record in egg laying was established to-day when Lady Eglantine, a white Leghorn, laid her 287th egg in 330 days at the Delaware College Agricultural Experiment Station, Newark, Del. The best previous record was 286 eggs in 365 days, made last year by a Plymouth Rock hen.

The new champion is an American hen bred from an English strain at the Eglantine Farms, Greensboro, Md. Five hens of this strain have laid 1,138 eggs in 47 weeks.

Let's Be Sensible, Beloved.

The Christian life is the normal standard, four-square, good, true, right, beautiful and more abundant life. If that prospect is unpleasing by all means seek some lower road. There are plenty of others ways. But if life appeals seek the Christ-way. There is no yoke except honest service; no cross except rightly owed responsibility, no crown except those of good sense; no "shalt not" except those clearly involved in being courteous, square and honest. And the offer of religion is the big life, the beautiful life, the true life, the standard life and out of these the eternal life.

Let Us Reason Together.

If a man and woman with the Christ-spirit, living according to His program, growing in His likeness, doing His work, are "at home" anywhere on the earth, it follows that they will be "at home" anywhere in the universe.

NATIONAL LIGHT WEEK

This is a National Gas Lighting Week. In every city in the United States, gas companies have set aside the days from September 26th to October 2nd, to inform the public, by show-room displays and other means of demonstration, of certain wonderful advances which have recently been made in gas lighting, discoveries which bid fair to revolutionize all lighting with the exception of that obtained from the great solar body.

It is natural, almost inevitable, that such discoveries should originate in the laboratories of the Welsbach Company, who first brought out the incandescent gas lighting system. This new method of lighting, developed and perfected by the Welsbach Company, is based on the kinetic principle of burner construction and is considered by experts to be the most important discovery in the lighting field since Dr. Carl Auer von Welsbach discovered the incandescent gas mantle. The Panama-Pacific International Exposition awarded the Grand Prize—highest honor—to the Welsbach Company for its two new lights constructed on the kinetic principle—the "C. E. Z." Gas light and the Welsbach Kinetic Gas Bowl.

"C. E. Z." Light is in itself perhaps the most wonderful lighting discovery of recent years. During Lighting Week it is receiving its first national introduction to the public.

It is not only a wonder in mechanical simplicity, volume and quality of light; but it represents a great stride forward in the constant endeavor of scientists to reduce the cost of maintenance.

The contrast between the simple inexpensive "C. E. Z. Light and the luxurious and artistic Welsbach Kinetic Lighting Bowls illustrates graphically the freedom of design and adaptability possible with the kinetic principle of burner construction. The types of fixtures may, and do, vary widely, but they are alike in radiating an abundance of eye comforting light which amazes and delights all observers.

They are alike, too, in their attractive appearance, extreme convenience of operation, and marked economy. And they have forever done away with fixture and ceiling discoloration, inside glassware, such as chimneys and cylinders, and other features, which have in the past made some methods of lighting rather complicated.

Lighting week is meant as a service to all users of gas, freely offered by the Gas Company as a convenient and interesting method of informing the public, at large, of the marked progress in all fields of modern gas lighting.

It will pay every user of light—and does not that mean every individual—to devote some time during this week to the interesting displays and demonstrations with which the Gas Company is celebrating First National Gas Lighting Week.

The woman who is too busy to read the ads is too busy to buy wisely.

RECORD GROWTH IN OLEAN

Shows Greatest Increase in Five Years of Any City of Its Size

Albany, Sept. 26.—Olean was a city of 17,981, including 71 inmates of institutions, when the state census was taken last June. Official figures for Olean's population were given out at the office of secretary of state today. For a city of its size Olean's growth during the last five years takes front rank. Since 1910 the city has increased 3,233.

Olean's affluence number 1,367 in 1900 Olean's population, according to the figures of that year, was 9,462. From 1900 to 1905 the city had a slow growth, gaining but 701 residents. From 1905 to 1910 the city forged ahead rapidly, increasing by 4,585 or nearly one-half and attaining a population of 14,748 when the general census was taken in 1910. During the last fifteen years Olean has advanced from a city of 9,462 residents to one of 17,981, a growth of 8,519, of which practically all has been made within the last ten years.

ANTS THAT STRIKE

Certain kinds of black ants have little yellow ants which do most of their work for them. Once in awhile these little yellow fellows will go on strike, and the blacks try to force them back to work by cutting off their food supply. If that does not succeed they will attack the strikers in force or make a raid and get another gang of yellows into the colony. But the newcomers, as a rule, join the strikers. The strike ends by the yellows escaping and founding a colony for themselves, or they give in and settle down to work again.
