SEVENTH-DAY BAPTIST CHURCH

Rev. V. L. Eggleston will preach at 10:30 on Sabbath morning. Sabbath School at 11:30. Prayer Meeting on Friday evening at 7:30. Leader, Mrs. Emma Robbins.

PREBYTERIAN CHURCH

Hamilton B. Williams, Minister

Sunday Morning, Oct. 10.

The minister will be glad for the day as an opportunity for fellowship and for building the kingdom.

The Evening Meeting

The incoming pastor of the M. E. church will see the people of the town in full numbers to give him a hearty welcome and God-speed in his work. Let everybody be present.

Mr. Eggleston's Second Sermon

We cannot date every person present last Sunday night for having heard a sermon interpretation of the message of the church. It was a very happy day.

An Autumn Service

The church will hold a service on Sunday, October 10, at 10:30. The address has been chosen by many of our large cities, and many things have been asked to repeat it. You can not afford to miss this as you may never have the chance again.

The Young Peoples Service

The Christian Endeavor Society will hold their regular service at 6:30. Subjects: "Be a Leader; Be a Follower."

The Federated Service

The federated service of the churches of the village will be held in the M. E. church at 7:30. This will be the first time that Brother Collins, the new pastor of the M. E. church, appears at an evening service, and we should give him a hearty welcome. Come and be one to do so.

The Mid-Week Services

The Women's Missionary Society will meet with Mrs. Foster on Tuesday afternoon. The program will be very interesting and you will learn much about the countries and work being done in them. Do not forget that the second quarter's dues are payable at this time. Let all the ladies come.

The Mid-Week Service

The mid-week meeting of the church will be held on Thursday at 7:30. Come and bring someone that will have the word "trust" in it.

His Unkind Fling

"I saw him holding her hand," said her small brother, wherewith all the other members of the family looked up.

"Yes," she replied calmly, "he has been studying palmistry."

"Oh!" said the small brother.

"He was reading the story of my life," she persisted defiantly.

For a moment it looked as if she had subdued the small brother. Then he remarked, "You must be pretty old, sis."

"What do you mean?" she demanded.

"It was a long story."

"Don't be afraid, Tommy."

Ring in the New

It is possible that in some quarters the present day interpreting of Jesus and his message in social equations is distasteful. A socialized religion (they fear) will break down the century-entangled hedge between the sacred and the secular. What they fear we welcome. We want all of life sacred. We want no aloofness... but every church system, every individual disciple interpreting in the social order his Christ-spirit.

By Their Fruits Only

Reactions establish scientific propositions. It cannot possibly be the spirit of Christ that establishes a color-line, say, or a social-grade line, or a race-line. The geographical boundaries of the Christian church may not be less extensive than those the Christ fixed. The uttermost man is his marking; the people of the hedge and byway; those in darkness; the publican and sinner; the thief!

Nineteen Centuries; What Cheer?

We've had the "fatherworldly" theories of religion a long time in operation. Behold to-day what has happened. Ten million men and more are trying to kill each other. That's a pleasant occasion for Christmas and in the "new world" of today, it is a very happy day.

And Now the Way Is Dark.

Survey the savage economic conditions—the great masses living in haunted houses, wretchedness, distress, hunger, cold hopelessness, heart-ache, all the children of poverty, the crime of the 20th century. And religion has nothing but "alms," when it should long ago have made such a condition impossible. Read Jesus' home-church sermon for illumination along the line of his business... because he (God) hath sent me to build up the broken-hearted, release the captives, etc.

The Low Levels Tragic

People are not so wicked as they are content with the paltry. The sin of materialism is pitifully low levels upon which it deludes people with a feeling that that is all life is—just a physical and material objection. It is the content of the mole who has just enough seeing to distinguish light from darkness. Only the human moles mistake darkness for light.

Ponder This My Beloved.

A survey of the world shows that the very things which today rob the human being of the glory and beauty of life are the very things that Jesus came to destroy, the very things which would have destroyed him had he not by some strange chance, not the nation that he was born in, but the people of that nation, who were the very ones who were to be saved by his death.

Watchmen Tell Us Of The Night.

The night is going, the morning is coming. Shall you be found to be children of the night? Watch for the dawn; it will bring to pass the freedom of heaven by being ourselves interpreters in our little world of a truth that makes for peace and goodwill and equity and progress. A little fire kindles great matters.

How many times have you noticed the bloom on the cheek of the maiden from the farm?

It is not artificial, no indeed. It is the result of a clean mind; of right living; of the red blood that flows in a healthy body made stronger and better by associations with the green fields and fresh air of the country. When you see the bright eye and the tinted cheek of the country maid just thank your stars that we have such girls in this country, for posterity will write their stories in the years to come.

A city dude once drove up to a country store and stepped gingerly from his expensive, limousine with eye-glasses dangling at the front of his immaculate vest.

At the same time a farmer drove up with his Ford and stepped leisurely to the pavement. The dude glanced at the farmer with a supercilious stare and stalked laughingly into the store. The farmer merely grinned and turned around to greet his friend, the banker. The dude was on salary and living right up to his means. The farmer had mortgages plastered on property all over the territory, had money to burn in the bank, and owned a great farm that insured his independence for the rest of his days, and a comfortable fortune for his family at his death. Which of the two was the better man? Of course not all city people are duds or idiots, and not all farmers are rich. But you see this same little comedy enacted in every town where automobiles find their way in the Summer months. At least it is worth a passing thought.

Our hand is always outstretched to callers in this office, and particularly so when they come with a dollar in their mit.

After serious consideration we are of the opinion that the United States may survive the departure of Dr. Dumba. Git!

"Yesterday it was my privilege to listen to the arguments presented by members of the house of representatives for and against woman suffrage, and as I listened I for one woman thanked God that I had no vote and therefore was not responsible for the specimens of statesmanship that I beheld.
