Our National Capital

Events of Interest from the Seat of Government by the News Special Correspondent, J. E. Jones

PRESIDENT IS TO MARRY

Washington, D. C., October 9.—Woodrow Wilson as a lover, has achieved a splendid success in capturing one of the handsomest and most lovable widows in the National Capital. Dame Rumor toyed with the story for a time, but even the newspaper men assembled for a special event at the Press Club, gasped with astonishment when the bulletin was posted. The bride-elect is a prominent social leader, owns the great Galt jewelry store that all visitors to Washington have admired, and as the "first lady of the land" has the natural charm to attain eminent popularity like that achieved by Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Cleveland. After the first spasms of surprise Washington decided that "if the President wants to marry again that it is his own business," and that after all it will be a fine thing for the country and the Capital—and consequently, since the Washingtonians were not asked to give their consent, they have nevertheless decided the gratuitously offer the same in a hearty manner.

Our New Battle Cruisers

In case of war with a foreign country the fleets of the United States Navy would be compelled to put to sea and fight the enemy, since there would be no hiding in secret places, as has been the case with European Navies. This fact has no doubt, been largely responsible for the announcement that President's Wilson's program will include a request to Congress for the construction of a battle cruiser superior in speed and power to anything now afloat. Preliminary designs for this class of vessel has been prepared, and the Administration plans for a battle cruiser that will make thirty-five knots speed. This is equivalent to a fraction over forty land miles. The fastest battle cruiser thus far built by any of the powers is designed for not more than thirty knots. Consequently, the American battle cruiser will be able to sail rings around any foreign vessel of similar type now in commission. The cost of such a ship will be approximately eight million dollars.

The Panama Canal

There is considerable consternation owing to the slides in the Panama Canal, and naturally a condition that has already tied up one hundred boats at the entrance of the big waterway is very serious. However, in Washington where the entire circumstances are appreciated there is not any alarm. The builders of the canal have tried to make it plain that the slides will occur for a number of years, until the hills that were cut apart adjust themselves to the new order of things.

The Riot of Speculation

The federal government has become alarmed over the runaway market that has grown out of war speculations. A sudden break is anticipated, and there is sure to follow a crash that will carry down many who are now boasting of the great riches they have acquired. If only the speculators were concerned the condition might not be regarded as serious, but there is a fear of general collapse in the market that may seriously affect stable investment values.

Straw Votes

A statement of the National Progressive Union based on the poll of 1200 veterans who attended the recent encampment at Washington, shows that 1029 of the veterans are Republicans and 171 are Democrats. In 1912, 521 of them voted for Taft, 419 for Roosevelt and 260 for Wilson. Justice of the Supreme Court was first choice for the Republican nomination.

"Let the Buyer Beware"

When some of the large merchants of the country adopted the "one price system," it was hailed as a victory for the buyer, who for ages had been accustomed to being trimmed in prices and goods in all sorts of stores. Congressman Kelly, of Pennsylvania, declares that the cut price system as operated by many merchants "is a return to the old days when the purchaser was forced to make the rounds of the stores, compare the goods and prices, and then, after finding the articles desired, haggle with the merchant until a price was agreed upon between them—that meant that the chances were all in favor of the consumer being cheated." It is therefore interesting to know the method of reasoning consumers in the interior of the country use in passing up the local merchants, to part with their money to the mail order house and department stores. Mr. Kelly raises the interesting point that in fair methods of trade, the small retailer "can compete with and outdistance the big mail order house." He shows that it costs a far greater percent to run a mail order house or a department store than it does to run a small retail establishment, and he concludes that the only reason why the man who sends away to buy his goods has for thinking that he "gets more for his money" is because he receives in return an inferior quality of goods.

Price Maintenance

There is no movement before Congress that more vitally affects the small communities of the country than the efforts being made by manufacturers of well known articles of merchandise that the public calls for by name, to secure the passage of a bill that will enable them to fix regular re-sale prices and thereby prevent price-cutting by large city retail organizations like mail order houses and sensational department stores. The better class of stores use standard goods that are made by reputable manufacturers who pay decent wages to their workmen. That is the situation in the cities, and when applied to the small town the mail order house finds its choicest market for inferior goods through its processes of doing business. Most of these mail order houses do not sell standard articles of merchandise but have "something just as good." On the other hand the local merchants throughout the country are compelled to handle staple articles, as their reputation in their communities makes it impossible for them to prosper if they persist in giving short measure to their customers. The mail order house can do this since there is "a new one born every minute." It is calculated that the passage of the Stevens bill, giving manufacturers the right to fix re-sale prices, would go a long way toward curing the present difficulties of trade, and exhilarate the "trade at home" spirit, thereby helping the local communities and their business men. The theory is that nearly every dollar that goes from the interior of the country to mail order houses is diverted from the local dealer, and that the merchants of the country towns who advertise in the local papers, pay taxes for paving and better roads, and help support the local preacher, as well as contribute to the home ball team and the Labor Day celebrations, and make speeches during Old Home Week, should be afforded necessary protection. It is well understood that the great departments of the government, including the Federal Trade Commission, will help to protect these people in their rights. It is a fine topic to talk over with one's Congressman while those gentlemen are at home in their districts.

Millions For Demonstration

Every state in the Union has availed itself of the provisions of the Smith-Lever law, and in consequence $4,750,000 is to be spent this year in farm demonstration work throughout the country. The man who does not learn how to grow two blades of grass where there was but one before, or put up a prize acre of corn, will not be able to blame anyone but himself as Uncle Sam and the states are teaching just how it is done in his own neighborhood.

A great merit in the Ford car is the extreme simplicity in design—anyone can quickly and fully understand it. No mechanical knowledge or experience required; it doesn't even need a mechanical instinct to safely, pleasantly and profitably drive a Ford car. Lift the hood and look at the Ford motor. No frills or puzzles. This simplicity of design is also responsible for the low expense of running and maintaining the Ford car. These two facts, Simplicity and Low Expense, combined with the Vanadium Steel construction have made the Ford car a general necessity—a utility—"The Universal Car."

WHAT HOME FOLKS SAY.

Mr. A. W. BRACKMAN, 89 Forest Avenue, Jamestown, N. Y., says: "I took 'Golden Medical Discovery' for a run-down condition. I was below par and needed building up. I knew Dr. Pierce and knew about his remedies. The 'Golden Medical Discovery' built me up, gave me new strength and did the business. I used about four bottles. You may say I recommend it."

EVERY HOME NEEDS A FAITHFUL COUGH AND COLD REMEDY
