THE DOG CEMETERY AT HORNELL, NEW YORK

Of the six principal cemeteries for dogs in the world—there is one in London, one in Paris and one in Dedham, a suburb of Boston—three are to be found in the State of New York. These are Kanis Ruhe (Animal Rest) on Yorkstown Heights, near Peekskill; the Hartsdale Canine Cemetery (Incorporated), also in Westchester County; and the modest but beautiful burying-ground, at Hornell, in the western part of New York.

The last-named is situated in a pleasing grove of oaks and maples, on high ground overlooking a valley, outlined by hills. The ground which was bought for this purpose by Mr. Frank Myers, of Hornell, New York, is over ten acres in extent. It is easy to reach by a good road which separates it from the Hornell cemetery.

Mr. Myers, who is a devoted lover of dogs, wishing to show his love and consideration for Trixie, a beautiful little silver Skye terrier, had this large space cleared of brush and put in fine condition for a resting-place for his pet, and for those of his friends and acquaintances. Any one who is willing to keep the grave in good order may have the privilege of burying his canine friend in this beautiful and quiet spot, this privilege not being restricted to the neighborhood, nor to any locality, nor State; dogs having been brought here from Rochester, Buffalo, and New York.

The eighty graves lie in two rows, with about thirty tombstones which, although small, compare favorably with those which mark the resting-places of men and women. They are of marble and other stone, and bear suitable inscriptions, such as:

Trixie
1892—1907
Frank Myers

This stone represents a log lying on a foundation, and surmounted by a lamb. Near Trixie's grave, Mr. Myers has erected a slab, on which appears the touching and well-known eulogy to our faithful friend, the Dog, by U. S. Senator Vest of Missouri. Another stone is inscribed:

Topsy
1907—1911
A friend

The poor dog, in life the firmest friend; The first to welcome; the foremost to defend; Whose honest heart is still his master's own; Who labors, fights and breathes for him alone.

Among the other names to be seen on the various stones are Beauty Teda Baer, Prince, Trilby, Fokie, Nip and Bounce.

These graves are further beautified by many sorts of flowering plants and hanging baskets; some being crowded with plants, while in winter they are decorated with everlasting wreaths. There are several urns filled with plants and vases, and about the grounds are placed handsome iron settees for the convenience of visitors.

If any person wishes to have his dog buried in this cemetery, he can make arrangements to do so by writing to Mr. Frank Myers, Hornell, New York.
