AUDITORIUM, SATURDAY EVENING

"The Explorer," William Somerset Maugham's famous novel of Central Africa, will be presented in photo-dramatic form at the Auditorium, on Saturday evening, by the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company, with Lou Collegen, the celebrated international dramatic star, in the title role.

The scenes of "The Explorer" carry the audience from the center of fashionable London to the heart of the African jungles. Here the expedition, owing to a number of peculiar circumstances, is attacked by the natives, and is forced to fight its way through to the Coast. These battle scenes, taken at the ford of a native river, are said to be most realistic and thrilling. When the horde of blacks swoop down upon the small stockade, defended by one lone white man, most unusual incidents occur.

Mr. Tellegen is supported by such well-known artists as James Neill, Dorothy Davenport, Horace B. Carpenter, Tom Forman and other members of the All-star Lasky Cast.

The scenes in a native African village, with its hundreds of inhabitants, are absolutely true to life and complete in every detail.

Bath, May 14—James Tighe, the Bath farmer who was found unconscious in his barn on Thursday morning after he had been away from his home twelve hours died early this morning. An autopsy performed on the body by Dr. George Matthewson and Dr. Charles Jackson revealed that Tighe's skull was fractured. Before the autopsy the attending physician maintained that Tighe died of epilepsy.
